BORAH SCORES WORLD POLICE PLAN OF PARIS

Attack Dims Hopes for Proposal Made at Arms Parley.

HE DESCRIBES IDEA AS "STRAITJACKET"

French Delegation Suggests International Force as Way to Keep Peace.

(Associated Press.)

The proposal of France at the Geneva arms conference for an international police force was denounced last night by Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, as an attempt to fasten "the straitjacket" upon Europe.

Borah, who speaks with the voice of authority on international affairs, added: "No such proposition will be entertained by any considerable number of governments."

Andre Tardieu, head of the French delegation to the Geneva arms conference, made the proposal yesterday.

Senator Borah said:

"An international police force to guarantee the security of the world is a perfectly logical product of the Versailles and other peace treaties.

Treaties Are Criticized.

"Treaties which have neither honor nor justice as their foundation can, of course, be maintained and preserved by force, and in no other way. The theory back of such a proposition is that, regardless of justice and regardless of the rights of people to growth and development, status quo must be maintained.

"There is to be no change, no progress, but the straitjacket fastened upon Europe in the hour of war passion and bitterness is to be worn for all times at the command of an international police force.

"There is comfort in the thought, however, that no such proposition will be entertained by any considerable number of governments."

Borah's strong assertion was accepted in Washington as the death knell, in this country, at least, to the French proposition.

Proposal Unexpected.

Geneva, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—The French government laid before the world disarmament conference tonight the most concrete and comprehensive project ever formulated for the maintenance of world peace.

In a dramatic and unexpected move which was believed to have given France the advantage in her tilt with Germany over armaments, French Minister of War Andre Tardieu declared his government had decided in favor of creating a powerful international police and military force under control of the League of Nations.

The police force would be permanent and charged with preventing war. The army would be for suppression of war and for assistance of any nation which is attacked by an aggressor nation.

Provisions of Plan.

The plan provided.

1. All large armaments, including warships of more than 10,000 tons; big guns, large aircraft, &c., would be under control of the League of Nations.

2. The contracting nations would be prepared to provide certain military forces for the international army in case of war.

3. New rules of warfare would be enforced to protect civilian populations from bombardment, gas, bacteria, &c.

4. Political agreements would bind nations to arbitration; definition of an aggressor nation; arrangements for rapid decisions by the interna-

U. S. Will Prohibit Mines' Trade Pact

Regional Sales Agreement Is Held in Violation of Antitrust Laws.

(Associated Press.)

Any attempt to put regional sales agreements among bituminous coal operators into operation will be opposed by the Department of Justice as a violation of the antitrust laws.

Attorneys representing groups of operators in the Pittsburgh and other coal producing areas were so informed yesterday by Department officials. They were told they would face a court suit if the group selling plan, already in process of formation, is made effective.

Specific congressional authority to waive the antitrust laws, officials of Attorney General Mitchell's office said, is necessary for the institution of a cooperative trade agreement to regulate production and price of coal such as is proposed.

Roosevelt Reiterates Stand for Dry Change

Smith Will Bare Plans on 1932 Candidacy on Monday.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The question, "What will Al do?" will be answered Monday.

According to word from New York, Alfred E. Smith, Democracy's nominee for President in 1928, will issue a statement at 3 o'clock this afternoon, outlining the role he will play in the 1932 preconvention campaign. The statement, however, will not be released until Monday.

His friends here in Washington expect the statement to say that, while Mr. Smith will not actively campaign for the Democratic nomination this year, he will not discourage those who want to round up delegates for him.

If he does say that, or anything even approximating that, the country will be treated to the most sensational political split since Theodore Roosevelt broke with William Howard Taft in 1912.

It would mean that Smith is definitely out to "stop" Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who for a

Says Views Are Still Wet and Dissipates Speculation.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, tonight dissipated speculation regarding his prohibition views by referring to a letter he sent to United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, a letter asking a new constitutional amendment to supersede and abrogate the eighteenth amendment and return to State control of liquor.

His reference was prompted by a statement of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who said Mr. Roosevelt shortly would announce himself for a national referendum on the prohibition question. The Boston mayor is a champion of the move to nominate the New York governor.

Tonight's expression by Mr. Roosevelt on prohibition served to round out his views on national and international topics. He recently declared himself against the existing form of the League of Nations, against cancellation of European debts and for

ALLEN SAYS KILLING WAS NOT INTENDED

"I Didn't Mean to Shoot Him!" He Exclaims From Witness Stand.

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—"I didn't mean to kill him," exclaimed Eddie Allen on the witness stand today.

"I didn't mean to shoot him," he declared in defending himself against the charge of murder for shooting Francis A. Donaldson.

Hisses for the district attorney and hand clapping for the young man on the witness stand battling for his life and freedom echoed through the courtroom in one of the most unusual murder trials ever held in Montgomery County.

Speaking sometimes so low he could hardly be heard, the 23-year-old society man told his story of the killing, amid intense silence of the courtroom. There was not a sound while he was under direct examination, but there were murmurings and sudden outbursts among the listening crowd when District Attorney Stewart Nase tried to break down the defendant's story.

"Why didn't I shoot at his legs? Why, Mr. Nase, I didn't intend to shoot him at all," brought such an outburst of approval from the crowd that Judge Harold G. Knight threatened to clear the courtroom.

Throughout her brother's testimony and while the crowd was handclapping him and hissing the prosecutor, the young defendant's sister, Rose, sat at the side of the room, tight-lipped and unmoved, surrounded by strangers.

The defendant, in telling of the alleged relations of Donaldson with Rose, apparently tried to say as little as was necessary about the betrayal.

"I loved my sister and still do," said the tall, thin witness.

Horace Allen, the enfeebled father of the defendant and the girl in the case, also took the stand to defend his son. As he made his way to the front of the courtroom, the father, broken in health, started to speak to

CAPITAL IS COMBED IN VAIN FOR SNIPERS

Theory Same Men Are Responsible Held as Backus Fights for Life.

Squads of detectives and policemen patrolled the Capital last night in search of the snipers who have felled three persons with a leaden hail shot forth from the interior of a black sedan.

The opinion that the shootings of Helen Andrews, 18, and Doris Beall, 16, and the wounding of Gordon T. Backus, 51, might be the work of the same men was expressed last night by Police Inspector Frank S. W. Burke. His opinion was predicated upon a preliminary examination of the bullets taken from Mr. Backus and the Andrews girl.

Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the Police Department, after a preliminary examination yesterday, said that the bullets were of similar manufacture, like caliber, and were fired from the same type of gun.

Whether the bullets were fired from the same weapon will not be determined until today, when thorough microscopic examination will be made.

Backus is still in very serious condition at Emergency Hospital, where he was described "as fighting for his life."

Twelve heavily armed detectives, in addition to policemen from four precincts, wil cruise through the northern sections of the city to try to

Confidence Voted Laval After Jobless Debate

Paris (Saturday), Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Premier Laval, at the conclusion of a lengthy debate on unemployment, won a vote of confidence this morning from the French Chamber of Deputies, voting 307 to 267.

At the last minute the opposition sprang a surprise by presenting four additional motions. The premier upset the maneuver by saying he made only the fifth motion a question of confidence and he was sustained.

Washington's Boyhood Town Interested in Essay Contest

Spokesman for Fredericksburg, Praising Post Project, Says That Locality Is Rich in Material for Participants in Prize Contest.

"Fredericksburg, George Washington's boyhood home town, is watching The Post Washington Essay Contest with more than usual interest," stated Mrs. H. H. Smith, prominent in the restoration of Kenmore, the home of Washington's sister, Betty Fielding Lewis, while in Washington on matters connected with that town's celebration February 22 of the bicentennial of George Washington's birth.

"We would be happy to welcome any of the contestants at Fredericksburg on that day," continued Mrs. Smith, "when the national and local Mary Washington Monument Association will hold a service of honor and praise for the mother of Washington, who 200 years ago gave America its great gift—George Washington. This service will be held in historic St. George's Church—the church from which she was buried. It will be conducted by the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of Virginia, a great-great-great-grandson of Mary Washington. Afterward the entire congregation will march in procession to lay wreaths on the grave of Mary Washington.

"There is much inspiration for contestants in Fredericksburg. There he went to school, it was the home of his mother, the home of his only sister and the spot where his mother is buried. His memory is cherished in our city because we feel that he furnishes a lasting inspiration and influence for the youth of our land.

"The Washington Post, which I have read every day for years, has every reason to be congratulated for starting this Washington Essay Contest. It gives a rare opportunity for the boys and girls eligible to compete to increase their knowledge of Washington and his times and also to share in the generous cash prizes of $1,000 which are to be distributed among 108 winners."

HOOVER PARLEY ON HOARDING TO CONVENE TODAY

President and 50 Aids to Seek Plan for Freeing $1,400,000,000.

EXECUTIVE'S OFFICES CHOSEN FOR SESSION

Nation's Chief Reaffirms His Faith That Americans Can Break Depression.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Reaffirming his faith in the power of the American people to break the back of the depression, President Hoover will meet today with representatives of some 50 nation-wide civic and commercial organizations in an effort to unite every constructive element of the population against the folly of hoarding.

The conference, which is scheduled to begin at the Executive Offices at 10 o'clock this morning, will seek to call back to normal service some $1,400,000,000 in hoarded "hard money," thereby to release some $10,000,000,000 in commercial and agricultural credits. During the last six months approximately this amount of credit has been squeezed out of the national fiscal structure by the hoarding scourge.

Helps Aggravate Depression.

As outlined in its preliminary stages, the entire antihoarding campaign is based upon the conviction—and it is not hard to sustain—that collectively the great majority of the people are smart enough and patriotic enough to act in their common interest.

The President has been convinced for several months that the person who, out of timidity, hoards money does not realize that his act, by the multiplied constriction of commercial credits, further increases unemployment and otherwise aggravates the depression on every front.

He is equally convinced that when the Nation fully appreciates the distressing consequences of hoarding the tremendous sums now sterilized in hiding will be thrown back into the financial system.

"I am convinced," Mr. Hoover said in his formal announcement of the conference, "that citizens hoarding currency do not realize its serious effects on our country." That is to be the keynote of today's White House conference.

Leading Organizations to Aid.

Among the great national organizations whose personnel resources will be enlisted in the campaign against the hoarding complex are the United States Chamber of Commerce, the

Desert Plane Hunt For Fliers Futile

Ten Searching Ships Fail to Find Three Men Forced Down in Sahara.

Algiers, Algeria, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Ten planes on a searching expedition had failed tonight to discover three French fliers, missing in the Sahara Desert for four days, and the chances of success were believed to be growing slimmer.

The airmen, flying in the plane St. Didier, were attempting to establish a flight record between France and Madagascar when they were forced down. The region in which they are marooned has been located as 219 miles south of In Salah, the heart of the desert.

The airmen reported by radio on Monday that they had been forced down by fuel and water shortage, but rescue planes searched for them for three days in vain. Their wireless failed them Wednesday, the last message sending love to their families and thanks for radio communications, but adding, "we had rather have a barrel of beer."

SENATE'S VOTE MAKES MELLON LONDON ENVOY

Rules Suspended to Back 76-Year-Old Banker; England Approves.

HOOVER PRESENTS MILLS' NOMINATION

New Ambassador Will Take Rest Before Assuming Duties in Britain.

(Associated Press.)

Andrew W. Mellon last night gave over the destinies of the Treasury he has directed for almost eleven years to accept formally his Senate-approved commission as Ambassador to Great Britain.

In the chamber, where his name and policies have been the center of many vigorous and vitriolic debates, rules were waived to speed through the ambassadorial nomination as a final courtesy to the 76-year-old public servant. A few minutes later President Hoover transmitted for confirmation the name of Mellon's successor, Ogden L. Mills, of New York.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, one of the most bitter foes of the former Secretary of the Treasury, announced briefly and in mild voice that he was voting against confirmation. Then the Senate approved him as Ambassador to the Court of St. James with a chorus of "ayes."

President Is Gratified.

Speaking at his regular press conference, President Hoover said he was "gratified" to hear of the Senate's action.

"This is a real tribute to Mr. Mellon," he said.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, intimate friend of Mr. Mellon, his loyal defender in debate and advocate of his policies, presented the nomination out of order without objection.

President Hoover submitted the nomination at noon and within an hour the foreign relations committee, meeting in special session, approved it unanimously.

Senator Reed also obtained the consent of the Senate to waive its rule requiring that notification to the President of a confirmation await three days. The indorsed nomination was promptly transmitted to the White House.

Mills' Nomination Presented.

Mr. Hoover hastily dispatched back to the Senate the nomination of Undersecretary Mills to succeed Mr. Mellon as Treasury Secretary, but the Americans Advised To Leave Nanking

Exodus Begins as Peck States Communications Are in Jeopardy.

Nanking, China (Saturday), Feb. 6 (A.P.).—American authorities today advised all Americans in Nanking to leave the city with the result that virtually all began to depart.

Willis Peck, United States Consul General, said officials were apprehensive that communications around Nanking might become more difficult.

"The United States Consul General at Nanking is apprehensive lest it become daily more difficult to leave Nanking should emergencies require such measures," his statement said.

"Fighting in the Shanghai area continues with apparently undiminished intensity and there is little prospect of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway resuming operations foreseeable in the future. Navigation on the Yangtze continues, but if hostilities spread to larger areas this method of reaching Shanghai might become obstructed. The Tientsin-Pukow Railway may be similarly obstructed at its southern terminus."

Mrs. Fortescue and Three Navy Men Plead Not Guilty

Honolulu, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Granville Fortescue and the three naval men charged with second-degree murder in connection with the lynching last month of a native, pleaded not guilty at their formal arraignment today.

The other defendants are her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord. They are accused of slaying Joseph Kahahawai, suspected attacker of Mrs. Massie.

Their trial was again delayed to await information as to when Maj. Fortescue, husband of the defendant and a well-known American soldier and author, will be able to come to Honolulu. Maj. Fortescue was recently confined in a New York hospital with pneumonia.

Immediately after the defendants entered pleas, Barry S. Ulrich, special prosecutor, asked Judge A. M. Cristy to set an early trial date. The suggestion was opposed by Montgomery Winn, defense attorney, who said the defendants wished to defer trial until the arrival of the major.

Winn said Maj. Fortescue is still in a New York hospital and offered to have hospital officials wire the prosecutor or judge when he would be able

U. S. REGULARS MARCH INTO SHANGHAI WHILE PEACE PROSPECTS DIM

DEBUCHI FORECASTS NEW FORCE OF 10,000

Stimson Has Several More Formulae for Powers Under Study.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Peace prospects in Shanghai were shoved into the background yesterday as reports of new shocks of war and fresh shipments of Japanese troops sorely troubled the conversations between the United States, Great Britain and other powers.

Reports of eventual Japanese general mobilization were only feebly denied here, and the statement of Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi after his visit to Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., was regarded as highly interesting. The ambassador announced that the Japanese government would shortly be forced to put a new Japanese military division in the field against the Chinese. This would be a force of approximately 10,000 men.

The ambassador had no encouraging news and added that the Japanese general staff was forced to summon reinforcements to cope with the situation at Shanghai created by the presence in Chapei and other parts of the Chinese settlement of 30,000 Chinese troops.

New Formula Considered.

Secretary Stimson had under consideration several formulae for submission to the consultation of the other powers. A new face appeared among the nations engaged in the negotiation of suitable peace terms for the warring Chinese and Japanese when the German Ambassador, Baron von Prittwitz, was closeted with Undersecretary Castle for some time yesterday afternoon.

The German Ambassador cautiously refrained from giving the slightest intimation of the nature of his visit, but it was subsequently learned that he discussed with the State Department the conditions for German cooperation in any further peace representations that are made. Germany is especially anxious to participate in the Sino-Japanese picture since Germany is the only European nation which does not enjoy the privilege of extraterritoriality in China. The role of arbiter in the present crisis with China would be a most agreeable and unostentatious fashion of solving the "extrality" problem and getting Germany back again into the privileged group of powers.

Stimson Takes Brief Holiday.

Anglo-American initiative has not accomplished any great step in the Chinese Seek Broadcast Of War to Arms Parley

Geneva, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—The Chinese delegation has decided to ask authority of the Swiss government to install a radio loud speaker in the world disarmament conference building to broadcast the sounds of battle at Shanghai, the Jornal de Geneve said today.

The loud speaker would be set up in some spot where the delegates to the world conference could hear the fighting in China between sessions.

JAPANESE CABINET OVERCOMES CRISIS

Differences Adjusted and New Army Units Will Go to Shanghai.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo, Feb. 5.—The Japanese cabinet has successfully weathered serious differences which threatened to scrap plans for dispatching army units to Shanghai and probably would have caused the downfall of the government, it was learned today.

A military force of unrevealed strength will be sent to the Chinese port, but the government censors withheld information about the sailing date and the route to be taken.

Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, explained censorship had been made necessary because the Chinese at Shanghai might make a mass attack on the Japanese bluejackets there in the hope of beating them back to their warships before reinforcements arrived.

The government intends shortly to publish a statement of its Shanghai policy. It was said this probably would be done tomorrow.

Details of the cabinet differences were withheld, but it was learned the war and naval ministers certainly would have resigned if the plan to dispatch troops had been reversed, and that probably would have caused the fall of the government.

Japanese official quarters indicated that if there are to be any further negotiations over the peace proposals made by the United States and other great powers, the next move is up to the powers themselves. Doubt was expressed that anything more would be done.

News of the cabinet differences was considered in Tokyo to be of great significance. Throughout the conquest of Manchuria the nation, devoutly patriotic and deeply convinced of the ultimate justice of Japan's London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The admiralty announced today that divers had discovered the door of the seaplane hangar of the submarine M-2, which sank with all hands on January 26, was open. The upper hatch of the conning tower also was found to be open.

It was announced salvage operations would be continued subject to weather conditions.

28 Missing as Two Ships Sink in Atlantic Storm

21 Believed Drowned When Vessels Collide Near Halifax and 7 Others Are Lost on Sunken Tug, Off Delaware Breakwater During Terrific Gale.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The cold waters along the Atlantic seaboard tonight held 28 missing men, supposedly thrown to watery graves by a ship collision and a terrific gale that caused a tug and a schooner to sink.

Twenty-one of the missing were members of the crew of the schooner Eleanor Mickerson, which went down after a collision with the steamer Jean Jado 350 miles east of Halifax.

The other seven were aboard the tug Lonnie B. Shaw when it was seen to sink stern first off McCrea Shoal, at the entrance to the Delaware Breakwater, when high seas swamped her last night.

Three Coast Guard destroyers, the Cunningham, Cassin and Hunt, were reported at Boston to have left for the position of the Nickerson tragedy, while from Cape May, N. J., the Coast Guard dispatched seaplanes to search for possible survivors of the tug.

Details of neither accident were available to the Coast Guard, to which the reports were made. The Jean Jabot reported by radio to the Lloyd Royal Belgian Line here merely that six members of the Eleanor Nickerson crew were rescued and it made a futile search for the other 21 members of the crew. The message said:

"Collided and sunk this morning fishing schooner Eleanor Nickerson, of Boston, at position 43.05 north and 63.45 west. Rescued 6 members crew; 21 missing. Expect arrive quarantine Saturday evening."

The owner of the Nickerson, Arthur L. Parker, of the firm of Arnold & Windsor, of Boston, reported several vessels were in the vicinity at the time of the collision and it was hoped others might have been saved.

They gave out the names of those known to be rescued as Arthur Burke, Edward Burbank, Patrick Feltman,

Chinese New Year Is Celebrated by Real Bombardment.

AMERICAN WARSHIP DAMAGED IN CRASH

Activity of Japanese Planes Over Chapei Growing; Foes Also in Air.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Saturday, Feb. 6.—United States soldiers of the Regular Army marched into Shanghai's International Settlement for the first time in American history today as Chinese celebrated their New Year's Day with a bombardment of Japanese invaders' tightly formed lines.

Troops—1,200 strong—of the Thirty-first Infantry of the United States Army were landed from the transport Chaumont, which arrived yesterday from Manila. In military formation, they marched through the settlement to "the new world," a former Chinese amusement hall, now their barracks.

Japanese officials announced a new attack by sea and by air to begin momentarily on the Chinese forts of Woosung, which they had pounded with bomb and shell for three days in an effort to dislodge stubborn Chinese troops.

U. S. Destroyer in Crash.

A long column of troops swung from the waterfront where the transport was tied up on its arrival yesterday and along the Bund into the famous Nanking road. Although it was early in the morning, thousands watched.

The men were in high spirits. The Filipino band stirred them and the onlookers alike to enthusiasm when it crashed into the song, "Parley Vous." The soldiers burst into song with a roar as they passed through Shanghai's famous thoroughfare, which in recent years has seen many foreign military parades, growing out of the city's precarious times.

The United States destroyer Whipple was badly damaged in a collision today with the British steamer Rosalie Moller in the lower Whangpoo River, 2 miles from Shanghai. A hole was torn in the bow of the destroyer above the waterline. The British vessel also was damaged in the bow.

Japanese Aviators Active.

The Rosalie Moller was outward bound from Shanghai and the destroyer was circling when the collision occurred. Both ships were laid up for repairs.

Lieut. Comdr. J. H. Jenkins is the commander of the Whipple.

Fourteen Japanese airplanes soared over the area west of Chapei today in an air vibrant with machine gun and rifle fire, while eight planes reconnoitered over Chapei proper, indicating that a new air attack would be made on Chinese headquarters at Chengu, 5 miles northwest of Shanghai.

Artillery fire between the two forces, meanwhile, grew more intense. As heavy explosions shook the city two yellow-winged Chinese airplanes appeared in the air over Chapei.

The Japanese planes were bombing a nearby area, but there were no indications of a battle between the rival fliers.

They denied reports that 3,000 Japanese troops and 800 bluejackets had been landed at Woosung, occupying the forts. Commander Yamataka, chief of staff, estimated that 1,000 Chinese still held the antiquated stronghold after smashing Japanese

MARTIAL LAW LAID ALL AROUND HARBIN

Chinese Army Is Pursued North as Japanese Take Control.

Harbin, Manchuria, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—The Japanese army declared martial law in the Harbin area tonight, extending its control around the city and pursuing the shattered army of Chinese Gen. Ting Chow northward after severe fighting in which Chinese casualties were high.

Gen. Jiro Tamon, in immediate command of the Japanese troops under Gen. Hasebe, set up a temporary government at Harbin, which is within the sphere of influence of Soviet Russia and is the most important city on the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

Soviet officials in the city remained secluded in their homes while Gen. Tamon had the city plastered with placards promising "fair play" to all residents. Additional Japanese airplanes and troops are en route here from Changchun.

Pursuit of Chinese Tong Job.

The pursuit and destruction of the Ting Chow army, last of the Chinese forces to defend any part of Manchuria, probably will require considerable time, the Japanese indicated. A detachment was sent against Pinhsien to destroy the Ting Chow government, which had opposed the pro-Japanese government of Kirin Province and other troops pursued the defeated Chinese northward.

Ting Chow was among the Chinese leaders fleeing to the north after the crushing defeat of the defenders of Harbin.

The first of Gen. Hasebe's troops entered Harbin at 8 a. m. and the occupation was completed at 1:40 p. m., when Gen. Tamon's forces—which led the Japanese in two major battles against Chinese at Tsitsihar and Chingchow—marched to the center of the city amid the cheers of Japanese residents.

The Japanese troops, clad in furs to protect themselves against bitter cold and snow, were gaunt and tired. Many of them had been frost-bitten as they moved northward from Changchun, hurling back Chinese resistance and struggling to overcome obstacles such as destruction of bridges.

White Russians Rejoice.

They were forced to battle the Chinese on the outskirts of Harbin and again as they entered the city they had to fight their way through the streets, using armored automobiles and tanks. A second Japanese column which had advanced from Tsitsihar failed to reach the scene of action and probably will return to its base at once.

After taking complete control in the old and new cities of Harbin and sending troops to pursue the fleeing Chinese, the Japanese commanders extended their control around the city to assure full protection of the 7,000 Japanese residents whose request for protection was the cause of the march on Harbin.

Gen. Tamon assured the population that law and order would be maintained. The white Russians (foes of the Soviets) sent a delegation to the Japanese commander thanking them for occupying the city and promising cooperation. Many thousands of white or czarist Russians have been in Manchuria since the bolshevik revolution.

Brownley Building Will Be Supplanted

Limestone Structure Will Be Erected at Thirteenth and F Streets.

Improvement of an important business site was forecast yesterday in the report that the two-story brick building now occupied by Brownley's fruit, nut and candy shop, and other stores and offices at the southwest corner of Thirteenth and F streets northwest, is to be supplanted by a modern, two-story and basement, ornamental limestone business structure.

The site adjoining the Palace Theater on the east is considered one of the most valuable locations in the downtown business section. Plans now being prepared by Porter & Lockie, architects, call for the apportionment of the new building into five store spaces, one of which will occupy the entire basement. The new entrance to the building will be on Thirteenth street.

It is understood that three of the store spaces already have been leased.

U.S. Employe in Hospital After Wrists Are Slashed

Walter Baughman, 43, Department of Agriculture clerk, was in Gallinger Hospital last night for treatment after allegedly slashing his wrists with a razor blade yesterday morning in his room at the Blackstone Hotel 1016 Seventeenth street northwest.

Police learned that Baughman had been ill for some time. He was unmarried, it was said, and had no relatives in the city. His condition was not believed serious by hospital attaches.

J. F. Sisk's Death Is Held Accidental

Coroner's Jury Holds Quiz in Accident Fatal to Newspaperman.

A Prince Georges County coroner's jury last night declared that the death of Joseph F. Sisk, political writer for the Baltimore News, was due to an unavoidable accident. Sisk died at Gallinger Hospital Thursday after an accident on the Baltimore boulevard in Mount Rainier, Md., last Saturday night.

Both Sisk, driver of the car, and Frederick K. Long, another Baltimore newspaperman, were absolved of blame in the crash. The accident occurred when their automobile ran on the street car tracks at the District line, overturned and slid into the front of a plumbing shop.

The coroner's jury was impaneled by Judge Robert E. Joyce, of Mount Rainier, Md.

Movie Stunt Flier Plunges To Death as Cameras Grind

Leo Nomis, One of Magic Circle of Four, Who Have Given Film Fans Most of Plane Thrills of Decade, Dies as Fake Crash Becomes Reality.

Van Nuys, Calif., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—An aerial dare devil who had faced the dangers of film stunts for fifteen years spun into the ground and instant death today before the movie cameras.

The flier was Leo Nomis, 38, as famous a stunt man in Hollywood as Douglas Fairbanks is as an actor. His death shattered the magic circle of four who in the past decade had put into motion pictures most of the spine-tickling thrills that made many stars famous.

The accident occured as Nomis' plane slipped and fluttered earthward in imitation of a plane which had been crippled by an enemy ship. As the ship wobbled down from an altitude of about 1,000 feet, the make-believe suddenly was converted into tragedy. The plane spun and hurtled to the ground. The motor was buried more than eight feet.

Two men in another plane with which Nomis had been performing the stunt, Earl Gordon and Capt. E. H. Robinson, landed safely. They had gone through the scene several times before the fatal spin in which the director of the picture, "Sky Brides," under production by Paramount, had sought to shoot a final angle with the cameras. In the featured roles of the picture were Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie and Frances Dee.

Nomis, survived by his widow who is an employe of the Fox Studios, and a 9-year-old son, Gerald, was one of the select circle of premier stunt men, the other members of which are Frank Clark, Roy Wilson and Dick Grace.

Among them they have made every major aerial thrill that has been seen in motion pictures, flying in such epics of the screen as "Dawn Patrol," "Hell's Angels," "Wings," and "Lilac Time."

Nor were the hazards of stunt flying the only risks they dared. A few weeks ago, Nomis was injured in skidding a racing automobile on a speedway here for a film scene.

He was born in Iowa and entered flying in the hard days of barnstorming, doing parachute jumps at State fairs. He served in the air service in the World War.

PEACE PROSPECTS FADING; WAR MOVES FEEBLY DENIED

preparation of an alternative peace plan for the warring nations. The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, remained with Undersecretary Castle for some time, but dismissed the importance of his visit with a deprecatory gesture of the hand. The British Ambassador announced that the severe illness of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has prevented a more active development of the new peace proposals as Stanley Baldwin, another member of the cabinet, has only recently taken hold of the job and is merely marking time until the prime minister is able to take up the problem again with Secretary Stimson directly by transatlantic telephone or through Ray Atherton, the charge d'affaires of the American Embassy in London.

Secretary Stimson went horseback riding in Rock Creek Park and took the first afternoon off he has had free since the start of the recent crisis in the Far East.

The report of the capture of the American newspaperman, Edward Hunter, was immediately the object of a dispatch from the State Department to the American diplomatic officials at Nanking and Tokyo. The department has requested the utmost efforts be made to obtain the immediate release of the American.

Some anxiety that the American Marines now holding the western section of the International Settlement might be drawn into the line of fire of the Japanese was expressed yesterday in view of the flank movement of the Japanese forces on Chapei, where the main body of the Chinese defenders are entrenched.

Evacuation of the American women and children left in Nanking will be started today, it was learned through the Navy radio. Lieut. Comdr. P. W. Rutledge, commanding the U. S. S. Simpson, now at Nanking, radioed the Navy Department:

"Women and children will begin leave Nanking by commercial transportation Saturday. Nanking quiet at present."

The message was received here at 4 p. m. yesterday.

AMERICAN REGULARS MARCH FOR FIRST TIME IN SHANGHAI

attacks in which one Japanese was killed and ten were wounded.

Instead of the traditional popping of firecrackers, the boom of heavy artillery and the tattoo of machine guns greeted the day—the most important holiday in the Chinese calendar—along a line stretching from the Chapei section down the Whangpoo River to the Woosung forts, 16 miles away.

The Japanese confirmed the picking up of one of their pursuit planes by an unidentified British ship in the lower Yangtze River, but said it was forced down by engine trouble, not by Chinese bullets. The pilot and mechanic were uninjured.

The Chinese reopened the engagement that has been raging around Shanghai for the last week from somewhat better positions. Foreign military observers agreed that during yesterday's hard fighting they succeeding in making a few dents in the line of Japanese strongholds.

On the other side of the ledger, the Japanese chalked down a successful bombing raid. Their airplanes, circling high above the ruins of Chapei, spotted a troop train filled with reinforcements for the Chinese.

Bomb Blows Car to Bits.

Bombs were rained on it. A direct hit was scored in one car, shattering it to pieces and causing many deaths. This correspondent counted sixteen bodies about the wreckage of the car.

The air has belonged to the Japanese since the start of the Chapei battle, but the Chinese were ready to dispute it today.

It was authoritatively reported that a few Chinese planes tried out their wings over Shanghai yesterday. They did no bombing and did not engage any of the Japanese airmen. But they looked over the lines, it was said, in preparation for real action today.

Modern China has discarded the old calendar which makes today new year's day, but the Chinese still cling to their traditions. Ordinarily the day is heralded by the popping of firecrackers. Field guns and machine guns produced the noise this morning.

Fighting in Settlement.

Intense fighting was going on in the Hongkew section of the International Settlement, which has been taken over by the Japanese. Armed Chinese in mufti were held responsible for this phase of the action. Japanese authorities declared that 1,000 Chinese snipers have set themselves up in Hongkew during the last few days, taking a heavy toll of Japanese lives. The Japanese dead was estimated at 350 and it was said that an equal number of snipers had been slain.

Much appeared to depend today upon the speed with which Japanese reinforcements are brought in from the homeland. The Chinese were reported to have added to their manpower during the night. Military observers looked for a last desperate effort to drive the bluejackets out of Shanghai.

If the Japanese reinforcements were slow, these observers said, it was possible the Japanese line would collapse. With sufficient reinforcements it was considered probable they would be able to drive the Chinese toward Hangchow. A brigade was expected today.

Withdrawal Preparations.

Lines of trenches and fortifications have been dug along the Chinese rear in preparation for a withdrawal.

Perhaps the most dramatic incident of yesterday's fighting was the aerial attack on a Chinese troop train bringing reinforcements for the Nineteenth route army in Chapei.

The planes swooped down close to the ground before they dropped their explosives. The car on which a direct hit was scored was split from end to end, and bodies were strewn over a wide area. The bombers also destroyed a number of horses.

Before attacking the train the planes paid a visit to Chenju University, where they dropped twelve charges. One large building was wrecked and two others were set afire.

Japanese Plane Shot Down.

Earlier in the day Chinese gunners equipped with antiquated anti-aircraft pieces succeeded in bringing down a Japanese plane within 100 yards of the headquarters of their Nineteenth army.

When this correspondent saw the smoking skeleton of the big bomber a short time after the crash there were three charred bodies in it. Chinese soldiers inspecting it were in high spirits over the success of their gunnery. Souvenir hunters stripped pieces of metal from the ship. No attempt was made to remove the bodies of the dead airmen.

Before these Japanese fliers were killed they caused havoc over a wide area during a four-hour bombing raid in which they rained down deadly missles on the Chinese positions.

The Japanese air activity was continued at the Woosing forts, 15 miles down the Wangpo River from Shanghai. The big guns of the Japanese warships assisted, but the Chinese still held the battered fortress.

Chinese Hold on at Forts.

A two-hour bombardment was laid down at Woosung. The big guns of the fort did not go into action, either because the crews were in dugouts or because the pieces were too obsolete.

The forts have been under heavy bombardment since Wednesday. Several times the Japanese have announced that their shells and bombs had leveled these fortifications, but each time the Chinese bobbed up again, still in control.

China never will sign treaties prejudicial to her territorial and administrative sovereignty and will continue to resist Japanese aggression, Wang Ching-Wei, president of the executive yuan of the Chinese national government, said in a statement sent here from the new capital at Honanfu. President Wang's position corresponds to the premiership in the Occidental governments.

Barbour to Urge G. O. P. Wet Plank

New Jersey Senator Says Majority Sentiment Is Against Dry Law.

(Associated Press.)

Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, announced yesterday he would urge the Republican national convention to adopt a wet plank in its 1932 platform.

Mr. Barbour, who succeeded the late Dwight W. Morrow in the Senate, made public his stand in a telegram addressed to Edgar A. Knapp, of Red Bank, N. J., who had asked for his position.

"I believe," Barbour said, "that there is a majority sentiment against the prohibition law as it now exists and that the Republican party should not, and can not afford to longer ignore the issue. The experiences of the last decade and a half have shown conclusively that the prohibition law as now framed is impossible of enforcement and that the evils that have sprung up as a result are far worse than the good it is claimed could be accomplished."

60 Natives Sentenced to Die.

Nairobi, Kenya, British East Africa, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Sixty natives were sentenced to death here today by a chief justice on conviction of charges that they beat to death a woman, accused of being a witch, in accordance with a native custom.

BLUE FLEET READY TO RETAKE HAWAII

War Maneuvers Reach Zero Hour as "Enemy" Plans to Repel Attack.

Honolulu, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Somewhere off Hawaii the gray bulk of the United States fighting fleet lay hidden tonight while the "enemy" on the islands dug in to resist the landing of a rescue expedition from the mainland in the annual war maneuvers.

Rain drenched Oahu Island, principal defense post of the "enemy," and clouds hung low, portending possible changes as the battle opens at 5 a. m. tomorrow.

If the low ceiling continues, the Blue (attacking) fleet may hold its fighting planes on the decks of the giant airplane carriers and creep in close to shore before launching an attack.

High in the hills on Oahu Island sentinels peered through the darkness and sent continuing radio reports to headquarters. From thickets along the beach, heavy guns bristled, ready to repel an attack, while in mountain passes at the rear light artillery frowned down on the first-line defenses. Searchlights played here and there through the sky.

Meanwhile, the scouting force of the Black (defending) fleet patrolled the surrounding sea, with wireless operators standing by ready to flash the position of the Blue force once it was sighted.

If the anticipated air attack from the Blue fleet is launched at daybreak, the Honolulu sector of the mimic war game may see the spectacle of scores of airplanes charging down from high altitudes to rain bombs on the defending forces. If the enemy is spotted in time, squadrons of fast Army pursuit ships will climb into the sky to engage the invading planes and, if possible, drive them back.

Under the war problem, the Black force is in possession of the Hawaiian Islands which were captured last fall from the Blues. Now the Blues are returning with 61 ships, including two aircraft carriers and an expeditionary force of 40,000 men, to regain the islands and the all important naval base of Pearl Harbor.

The Blue landing force actually numbers about 2,000. It is equipped with tanks, horses, light field guns and other paraphernalia of warfare to be put to use if a foothold is gained.

JAPANESE CABINET OVERCOMES CRISIS

case, gave the government and the army almost unanimous support. But the Shanghai conflict is being appraised in a different spirit.

Not that there is widespread articulate opposition to or dissatisfaction with the course the government is following. Newspaper approval has been almost unanimous and whatever doubts exist about the justification and wisdom of what has been done crop out only in private conversations with business men, professional men, educators, liberal publicists and journalists.

The public appears to have accepted official Japanese versions of the issues involved in the Shanghai conflict and, as a distinguished Japanese editor remarked, they are hurt and bewildered to find Japan "the world's most unpopular nation."

Partisan politics are unimportant in the present situation. Although a general election is scheduled for February 20, the campaign is regarded almost apathetically and the public is engrossed in the developments abroad, which hardly figure as a campaign issue. Facing the outside world, there is little difference between the Minseito (opposition) and the Seiyukai (government) parties.

Naval Minister Explains.

Explaining the Government's decision to send forces to Shanghai, Admiral Mineo Osumi, minister of the navy, said they were to replace bluejackets who have been worn down by "continuous fighting with an enemy ten times stronger than themselves."

"We are sincerely anxious to remove the misunderstandings and suspicions which unfortunately appear to have been aroused in the United States," the admiral said. "Japan has absolutely no intention of carrying out anything in the nature of occupation at Shanghai, nor of menacing American interests in the Yangtze Valley. We will withdraw our troops as quickly as possible when the immediate task is complete.

"If America only would recognize that Japan regards the trouble at Shanghai in an entirely different light from the Manchurian situation, she would realize that it is unnecessary to question Japan's intentions.

Shanghai "Passing Incident."

"Manchuria is a matter of life and death for Japan. Shanghai is only a passing incident which we are anxious to close as soon as possible so that we may withdraw our troops."

Admiral Osumi frankly admitted anxiety lest the Japanese action in sending troops to Shanghai be misinterpreted abroad and expressed the hope that with the arrival of these reinforcements the Chinese would withdraw without further fighting.

Even if the fight goes on, he said, the United States may rest assured that the area of Japanese operations will be strictly limited. He intimated that those operations might spread over 20 or 30 miles, but would go no farther than that.

New Admiral Statesman.

The admiral expressed the hope that future troubles might be eliminated by an international agreement for a neutral zone around Shanghai and by a regulation preventing Chinese troops from approaching beyond a specified limit.

He said the appointment of Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, former naval attache at Washington, as commander of the newly organized third fleet in Shanghai waters, ought to insure better cooperation and understanding, as the vice admiral has a reputation as a statesman as well as a sailor.

The general who will command the Japanese expedition to Shanghai, the naval minister said, also will be a man with a sympathetic understanding of foreign viewpoints.

A foreign office spokesman said that Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi had made assurances to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at Washington regarding Japan's military plans in Shanghai, explaining that these were made in good faith, as the Ambassador at that time was ignorant of what was afoot in his homeland.

War Has Light Side, British Envoy Shows

War has its lighter side also, as British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay showed yesterday. The British Ambassador, tall and straight as a Scottish pine, called on Undersecretary of State Castle and after his visit stopped to chat with some correspondents. One of them asked him:

"What do you think of this report of Japanese mobilization, Sir Ronald?"

His excellency looked reflective a while and then replied:

"It will cost a lot of money."

The Ambassador is a descendant of one of the oldest Scottish families, his father being the twenty-sixth Earl of Crawford, a family from the Highlands, founded in 1398.

American Captured By Chinese Soldiers

New York Newspaperman Taken in Manchuria; Probe Is Begun.

Tokyo, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—The newspaper Nichi Nichi said today that Edward Hunter, American newspaperman, had been captured by Chinese north of Changchun. The Japanese war office is investigating. Hunter formerly was a resident of New York.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Edward Hunter, correspondent at Peiping for International News Service, who is reported to have been captured by Chinese troops in Manchuria, is 30 years old and a native of New York. His first newspaper job was on the New York American for which he was a copy boy. During 1920 and 1921 he was a reporter and rewrite man on the Paris Herald.

In April, 1928, he went to Shanghai, then to Hankow to become manager of the Hankow Herald, an American newspaper. Several months later the paper was purchased by Chinese interests and Hunter went to Peiping to affiliate himself with Consolidated News. He became correspondent for International News Service last October.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department yesterday instructed its consuls at Peiping and Harbin to do all possible to effect the release of Edward Hunter, American newspaper correspondent, reported captured by Chinese.

Connally Takes Stand Against War for U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Connally, of Texas, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, took a strong stand yesterday against the embroilment of the United States in war which might develop in the Far East.

"It is unthinkable that America should become involved in war," he said.

Senator Connally said the present situation is not unlike that which precipitated the World War. In his opinion Japan does not want war with any of the great powers, but he said he believes she does want Manchuria and appears to have it in her grasp.

WORLD POLICE PLAN OF PARIS DENOUNCED BY SENATOR BORAH

tional authorities for use of the devices raised against war.

France is ready to accept this plan and asks other nations to make their decision, the project said, emphasizing that they must choose between giving the league power or weakening it by national divisions.

Upholds Security Stand.

The project presented by Tardieu and received by Arthur Henderson, as president of the conference, strictly upheld the French thesis that there must be international political agreements to guarantee the security of nations before disarmament can be achieved.

The French delegation has been anxious to get its thesis and proposals, described as an answer to Henderson's appeal for suggestions, on record before Germany has an opportunity to make her demand for armaments in excess of the limits set by the Treaty of Versailles.

The reaction to the French proposal may have a definite effect on the success of the conference, league leaders believed.

Although France is prepared to accept the project, it was learned that of the 57 states represented at the conference only 20 are empowered to sign any convention. These include the United States and all other great powers except France, which cannot sign any other project until its government has approved.

Suggested League Powers.

The French proposal was announced to the press by Tardieu in the hall of the Hotel Des Berges, where if 1927 Hugh Gibson, American delegate, announced failure of the three-power Naval conference and where Aristide Briand of France made some of his most famous peace speeches.

The league alone would have the right to use heavy bombing airplanes. The tonnage of the planes under league control would be set later.

It would be the exclusive, permanent and inalienable right of the League of Nations to requisition all airplanes for international transport service. The contracting parties would guarantee not to place an embargo on airplanes to be used for international civil air service and not to sequester them. On the other hand, they would agree to facilitate the right of the league to requisition the planes.

The contracting parties would not permit their nationals to contract or employ airplanes capable of military use, with certain exceptions.

Protection Proposed.

An international civil air transport service would be created and entrusted with organization of a continental, intercontinental and intercolonial transport service under auspices of the league, which alone would have the right to build and use machines of greater tonnage than the nations would be permitted to build.

A new rule would be drawn up for protection of civilian populations in time of strife. The rule would prohibit aircraft from using projectiles containing poison gas, bacteria or incendiary materials. Artillery also would be prohibited from use of such materials, thus outlawing the long-dreaded gas and germ warfare of "the next war."

The rule also would prohibit bombardment of more than a certain number of square miles behind the front lines in a land which was at war. Similar prohibitions would be imposed on warships to prevent coastal bombardment.

France's Offer.

Concerning warfare of land, France proposed that all tanks and similar armored implements, as well as heavy field artillery, would be placed at disposal of the league. Any flagrant violation of these rules would be regarded as prima facie evidence that the State guilty of violation had resorted to war within the meaning of article 16 of the League of Nations covenant, which provides for concerted action against an aggressor nation.

"France is prepared to undertake the following contributions to the proposed international force in case of conflict outside of Europe," the project said.

"First, a mixed brigade; secondly, a light naval division; thirdly, a mixed group of aircraft; fourthly, land warfare material without personnel; fifthly, munitions."

These implements of war would be placed at the disposal of the league to suppress any war outside of Europe.

The project emphasized that the proposal envisages political measures of great importance. These include acceptance of compulsory arbitration; the definition of an aggressor nation in warfare; the assignment of guarantees to provide for rapid decisions by authorities in control of the international war and police force.

League Will Meet Today To Hear Shanghai Report

Geneva, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A call was issued tonight for a meeting of the council of the League of Nations tomorrow afternoon in the expectation by that time the first report of the league's investigators in Shanghai would have been received.

League authorities forecast that the session would be brief and without debate. It was indicated that if the great powers were not ready to take a definite step to settle the conflict they at least hoped the Chinese and Japanese would be quiet at the council meeting and would not aggravate the diplomatic situation.

It was learned that some league officials had declared they could not understand why Japan had objected to the fifth point in the peace program submitted by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy. This point covered participation by neutral parties in Sino-Japanese negotiations.

These league officials were of the opinion that such negotiations had been provided for in the council's resolution of December 10 and that the Japanese had recognized that principle.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, said that China was ready to ask for action under Article XVI of the league covenant—the article that provides for economic and military measures against an aggressor—but "we do not wish to do this unless there is a chance of accomplishing some good."

PARIS PLAN IS SEEN AS POLITICAL MOVE

Attitude of Other Powers at Geneva Is Apparently Opposed to Scheme.

Geneva, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The French propcsals for arming the League of Nations were regarded in some international quarters as a clever political maneuver meant for home consumption.

Veteran observers saw in Minister of War Tardieu's declaration the time-honored program of the French left-wing presented by the leaders of the right. Frankly skeptical of the Laval government's good faith, critics of France assert that the premier and his colleagues know their project will be rejected by the great powers, but will rally the French left to their support.

The American delegation received the plan with complete reserve and its official attitude might be summarized as "it's the League of Nations' affair and none of our business." The American Government is not believed likely to consider the matter seriously.

The attitude of the Soviet delegation is that security is not to be obtained by armaments, either national or international, and that if the world wants security it can get it by ultimately getting rid of its death-dealing weapons.

While the British spokesmen took care to hold their fire, it was well known that their government disapproved of the idea of internationalizing civil aviation. With the Conservatives in the saddle at home, it was believed there is little possibility of finding British support for the French scheme.

The spokesman for the German delegates was cheerfully skeptical. "There are some old acquaintances in that document," he remarked. "Some other ideas are rather intricate and require careful study. But there is not a word about disarmament in the French statement."

The Italian delegation wanted to know who was going to direct this international police force. "This plan is an organization for war," their spokesman said. "You will search without hope of finding any proposal of disarmanent in it. In the interest of the conference, we Italians must say that this is not a proposal which permits any progress. A discussion begun on this basis gives no hope of solution."

Youth Is Slightly Hurt As Auto Runs Over Him

The rear wheel of an automobile yesterday passed over the body of William Turner, 18-year-old Rosslyn youth, but he suffered only bruises about the stomach and abrasions to the knees. He was taken to Garfield Hospital but went home after emergency treatment.

Turner was knocked from his bicycle when he was struck by an automobile driven by Raymond Hudson, 21 years old, of 2310 Ashmead place northwest, who was making a left turn from Fourteenth into Belmont street northwest. Hudson took the youth to the hospital.

WEST VIRGINIA HIT BY RECORD FLOODS

Streams Reach Highest Point in Years; Upper Potomac Rising.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Mountain torrents coursed through villages and towns, while larger streams lapped high along the water fronts of cities in West Virginia tonight.

Water several feet deep swirled through Sutton, on the Elk River; Buckhannon was surrounded by the flood; 1 foot of water covered Parson's main street; the business district of Philippi was inundated, and residents were quartered in upper floors; several buildings were washed away at Glenville, and on southward the floods extended to Charleston's Kanawha River front.

There was no estimate of the damage caused by the worst flood in the State in recent years. No loss of life was reported.

The larger streams—the Ohio, the Kanawha and the Monongahela Rivers—rose, but not dangerously. Their tributaries, however, plunging down the mountains, were choked by the heavy rains of the past two days.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 5.—The Potomac River was nearly 8 feet above normal and still rising tonight at Williamsport, as the result of heavy rains at its headwaters. Cold, clear weather is checking the rise there, however, and it has stopped rain in this section, and the danger of flood was passing.

For several hours today, residents of Hancock battled high waters of the Potomac trying to rescue H. B. Keplinger, who was marooned on a small island in the Potomac. Keplinger had to spend the night in a tree on the island and was in a serious condition from exposure when rescued by Donald Powers, who reached him in a boat.

(Associated Press.)

Close watch is being kept by the Army on a serious flood threat in Arkansas and Louisiana, where the muddy waters of Mississippi tributaries are battering away at shackling levees.

An additional $50,000 was allotted yesterday to bring up to approximately $100,000 funds sent into the two States in three days for emergency repairs and maintenance work in the levee districts to strengthen weak spots.

McFadden Seeks Foundation Quiz

Charges Carnegie Fund Is Dominated by Men of Foreign Interests.

(Associated Press.)

Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, yesterday introduced a resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the Carnegie Foundation, which he charged is dominated by "Internationalists."

The Pennsylvanian's measure would authorize the appointment of a House committee of seven members to study the foundation and its affiliates.

"They are tied in with the world court, the Bank for International Settlements and the whole group of Internationalists," McFadden said. "They have been trying, among other things to ruin our Army and Navy. They are just part of the network of Internationalists who are trying to destroy the country.

"Congress should know definitely and more fully something about the activities of the foundation and the organizations affiliated with it."

Civil War Organization Entertained at Dinner

National officers of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War were entertained Thursday night at a dinner given by the Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey Tent at the Arlington Hotel.

Guests of honor included Mrs. Harriet J. Goetz, of Buffalo, N. Y., national president of the organization; Miss Katherine R. A. Flood, of Newton, Mass., past national president, and Miss Marie Hagen. Mrs. Nan Slattery, president of the local tent, presided.

Payne Tells U. S. Arms Preparation

Describes Work Under Way to Assure War Weapons as Needed.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Industrial mobilization plans to assure America's armed forces the right kind of war weapons were sketched tonight before the New York Post of the Army Ordnance Association by Assistant Secretary Payne of the War Department.

Specific information on the capacity of 12,000 plants to produce munitions, the particular items each can supply and the volume has been collected and kept up to date, Payne said, adding: "We have also made great progress in the preparation of standard specifications for each item to be procured. * * *

"In the field of industrial mobilization, preparatory plans to enable the President to control and coordinate the national industrial effort have been drawn up and submitted to other Government departments and to representatives of Congress. These accomplishments may be of the greatest importance to our national security in some future emergency."

MRS. FORTESCUE AND 3 PLEAD NOT GUILTY to make the trip. Judge Cristy said it was not the disposition of the court to oppose any reasonable delay and ordered the case to stand on the calendar subject to call.

Judge Cristy addressed each of the defendants separately.

"Grace Fortescue, you have been charged with murder in the second degree," he said. "What is your plea?"

"I plead not guilty," she replied calmly.

The same answers were made by Lieut. Massie and the enlisted men. Meanwhile interest in Honolulu in the case is ebbing. Local newspapers paid but little attention, and only a small crowd was in the courtroom when the defendants appeared.

Close interest was paid to the brief proceedings by Mrs. Fortescue and Lieut. Massie. Jones and Lord appeared apathetic.

Seth W. Richardson, assistant to the United States Attorney General, who was sent from Washington to investigate crime conditions in Honolulu, conferred today with Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and Admiral Yates Stirling, jr., commandant of the Pearl Harbor naval base. All declined to reveal the nature of the discussions.

Richardson said none of the hearings would be public. He pointed out that his report must reach Congress at an early date so as to permit action, if desired, prior to June 1.

(Associated Press.)

A charge was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, that the Hawaiian Legislature has "thwarted the will of the people of Honolulu" by abolishing offices which they had filled by elections.

Mr. Tydings said the situation was responsible for crime conditions which culminated in an assault on the wife of Lieut. Thomas Massie and the arrest of four Americans, including Massie and his mother-in-law, after one of the alleged attackers had been killed.

Mr. Tydings advocated changes in the organic law of the Territory so "protect the people of Honolulu in the right to have their own government."

The Maryland senator said he was informed the delegates from the "outlying islands" control the Territorial Legislature.

"The plantations are very large," he said, "and a small group of men can handpick the members of the Legislature."

Chairman Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, of the Senate Territories committee, said he was confident new legislation enacted by the Territorial Legislature would "meet the situation there to a considerable degree."

Murdered Infant Found in Ballston

Cloth Is Tightly Wrapped About Neck of 2-Month-Old Boy.

The body of a murdered 2-month-old boy was discovered yesterday by workmen who were clearing the grounds of the Washington-Lee High School at Ballston, Va.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Coroner B. H. Swain were immediately summoned to the scene. A cloth was found tightly bound about the child's neck. The coroner said that death was caused by strangulation.

The body was wrapped in a Washington newspaper bearing the date of September 20. There was no other identification. Dr. Swain said the child had been dead for approximately a month. Fields launched an investigation. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of C. J. Ives in Clarendon.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA AIDS QUAKE RELIEF

Gives $10,000 to Santiago as Deaths in Disaster Increase to 13.

Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—President Machado contributed $10,000 today for the relief of those who suffered in the recent earthquake here.

The official death list has risen to thirteen and police are still searching the ruins for other bodies.

Public Works Secretary Ernesto Onetti put 70 men to clearing away the debris about the sorely needed Municipal Hospital to determine if its reconstruction is feasible.

Two bread lines were established, and $1,000 of $10,000 appropriated by the central government for relief measures arrived. Mayor Desiderio Arnaz was chosen to head the municipal relief committee.

Nine cases of medical supplies, containing 1,500 injections of antitetanus serum and 300 pounds of cotton, were shipped to Santiago from the sanitary department. They will be followed immediately by further supplies.

A strong shock at 3:30 this morning was followed by other light quivers during the day, but approximately three-fourths of the population had left the city.

Mexican Catholics Accept New Law Under Protest

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—The Catholic Church in Mexico accepts the new Mexican religious law under protest and in compliance with the instructions of Pope Pius XI, Archbishop Pascual Diaz announced today.

Previously, the archbishop had vigorously protested the restrictions placed on the church by Mexican law and had made every effort to force repeal. The bitter struggle between church and state in Mexico was revived in recent months coincident with the fourth centenary celebration of the Virgin of Guadalupe.

WHERE QUAKE WROUGHT HAVOC IN CUBA

Associated Press Photos.

Ruins of a civil hospital at Santiago, Cuba, are shown above following a series of earthquakes that threw the city of 170,000 people into a panic, caused property damage estimated at $10,000,000 and killed 12 persons. About 300 were injured. Natives of Santiago are shown below clearing a street in the business section after the quakes.

Hero's Promotion Favored by House

Capt. N. M. Holderman Led Men to the Rescue of "Lost Battalion."

(Associated Press.)

The House wants one of the heroic officers of the famed "Lost Battalion" episode to have additional recognition for his services.

So it agreed unanimously yesterday to pass the Swing bill which would permit Capt. Nelson M. Holderman, retired, to obtain a commission as major.

Holderman was in command of Company K, 307th Infantry, when the Second Battalion of the 308th Infantry became lost and surrounded by the enemy in October, 1918. Two other companies were ordered with Holderman's to break through the enemy lines and join the Second Battalion. Company K was the only one to succeed and it stayed with the lost battalion.

AL SMITH WILL GIVE STAND ON CANDIDACY IN STATEMENT

while seemed to be moving irresistibly toward the nomination.

It might mean another Madison Square Garden battle, another deadlock, with the nomination going to a dark horse.

It certainly would cause a change in the present alignment with regard to candidates. Politicians like to be with a winner, naturally. So long as Roosevelt looks like a winner, the Roosevelt bandwagon looks good to the politicians.

If, however, it should appear that Smith actually has the "veto" power in the convention; that he really is able to head off Roosevelt—if this should develop, there would be a scramble to get on the right side.

There will be 1,154 delegate votes in the Democratic convention in June. To win the nomination, a candidate must poll two-thirds of these votes.

Third Needed to Block.

To prevent the nomination of a candidate, the opposition need only corral a fraction more than a third, which in this case will be 385.

It is not believed that Al Smith himself could line up that many delegates at the outset of the convention. Under the plan of the "Stop Roosevelt" people, however, the Smith delegates would simply be part of a bloc, the other parts of which would be delegates pledged to various favorite son candidates. In this way, it is argued, far more than 385 votes could be mustered against Roosevelt.

Whether or not Smith thinks there is a chance to get the nomination for himself is a question that even men close to him are not able to answer satisfactorily.

Conjecture on Candidacy.

There are some who feel that he has no desire to go through another campaign in which religion rather than public questions would be the issue.

There are others, however, who say that Smith feels that, by virtue of the 15,000,000 popular votes he polled in 1928, he is entitled to another chance—especially at a time like this when the trend seems strongly Democratic.

In any event, there are Democrats in several States who are clamoring for Smith.

Primaries to Be Held Soon.

These are to be found especially in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania.

The first of these States to hold a preferential primary is New Hampshire. The voters there express their preference for a Democratic nominee on March 8.

Under the New Hampshire law, it is not necessary for a candidate to give his written consent in order to have his name printed on the ballot. Thus, Smith's friends could seek to line up the delegation for him without asking him to commit himself.

block further shootings by the gunmen.

Detectives last night made a search of a sewer on Van Buren street near Fourteenth street northwest, where it was reported a man in a large sedan had thrown something early yesterday. The incident was reported by Carey W. Jarvis, of 2421 First street northwest.

Capt. B. W. Thompson, assistant chief of detectives, said last night that the water, rushing through the trunk sewer would have carried any package away.

These plans were announced late yesterday by Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. Three cars, each containing four headquarters men will constantly cruise the section, the police head stated.

Backus, who was shot near his home at 3433 Mount Pleasant street northwest, is an employe in the forestry division of the Department of Agriculture. He was wounded less than half an hour after the two girls had been shot at Fifth and Aspen streets northwest.

Neither of the girls was seriously wounded. Miss Andrews was struck twice in the left arm and Miss Beall was hit on the left shin.

While police were attempting to solve the shootings, Arthur H. Clephane, 2032 Belmont street northwest, reported that a man stepped from behind a tree on Lanier place near Ontario road, and leveling a revolver at him, pulled the trigger. The gun missed fire and saved his life, he said.

A few hours after Backus and the girls had been shot Henrietta Lloyd, colored, of 4477 C street, was wounded when a colored man fired from an automobile while she was walking on Benning road near A street southeast. The bullet passed through her left wrist.

Action Describing Her as "Love Thief" Is Ordered Dismissed.

A directed verdict by Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in the District Supreme Court yesterday brought to an end litigation starting in 1929 when Jane B. Coates, a medium, of 1379 Irving street northwest, was sued by Jessie R. Burnhart, now 69 years old, for allegedly alienating the affection of Mrs. Burnhart's husband, William F. Burnhart.

Justice Adkins, shortly after the start of the hearing, directed the jury to bring in a verdict for Mrs. Coates. Mrs. Burnhart had sued for $50,000.

Mrs. Burnhart, in her complaint, said that from 1921 on, Mrs. Coates alienated the affections of Mr. Burnhart so that he went to Virginia and instituted divorce proceedings. Attorney F. Regis Noel, for Mrs. Coates, asked Justice Alkins to direct a verdict in favor of the defendant on the grounds that allegations of the suit had not been supported.

Sons of Revolution Lay Wreath in Memory of Witherspoon.

With the placing of a wreath on the monument of John Witherspoon, at Connecticut avenue and N street, yesterday, the Sons of the Revolution of the District honored the birthday anniversary of a patriot who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and president of Princeton University during the Revolutionary War period.

In making the address on the occasion, the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, said: "The man at whose statue we are assembled was but three generations removed from his direct ancestor, the mountain-souled John Knox."

AL SMITH TO BARE STAND ON MONDAY

Brief Statement Prepared; Not Expected to Give Definite Policy.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—One of the shortest political statements he has ever written has been prepared by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to stem the flood of inquiries as to whether he will be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It is less than 250 words in its present form.

It will be delivered to newspapermen by Smith himself at 3 p. m. tomorrow on the thirtieth floor of a Fifth avenue skyscraper, but the 1928 standard bearer does not plan to amplify it in any way.

The statement is not to be made public until Monday morning.

What stand Smith will take was a matter of great speculation in political circles today.

Friends Force Stand.

One of his intimate friends said the former governor had not intended giving any indication of his political plans until just before the Democratic national convention in June, but the desire of his backers in New Hampshire and Massachusetts to elect convention delegates pledged to him had forced Smith to change in that plan.

In both New Hampshire, where the State primary is early in March, and in Massachusetts, followers of Smith and of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, an avowed candidate, seek places on the State delegation.

New York newspapers were unanimous today in predicting Smith, in the statement, would give his friends in such States permission to enter his name as a candidate in direct opposition to Roosevelt, but would not bind himself to let his name go before the convention.

Views on Expected Policy.

"Such a stand," the Post said, "would not definitely involve him as a candidate for the nomination and would leave his position unimpaired at the convention should a movement in his attempt be abortive."

The Herald-Tribune said the course "would not involve him as an avowed candidate nor would it detract from his power in the convention if eventually it should turn out that he is not nominated."

The Times said it would put Smith in the position "of letting his friends work openly and actively in his behalf without his being bound to let his name go before the convention unless there was some prospect of success."

The World-Telegram said a Smith boom would be launched after a conference of Smith adherents, following upon the return next Tuesday of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, from Florida.

Intolerance Not Blamed.

"The Smith board of strategy," that paper said, "has become convinced it was the prosperity shibboleth and not the intolerance cry that defeated Smith in 1928."

In Albany, another development in the preconvention situation occurred when Gov. Roosevelt took cognizance of Joseph Tumulty's denunciation of Democratic leaders who "run away" from Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations.

Roosevelt had declared a few days ago against the United States entering the league in its present form, and Newton D. Baker, a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination, had said it was not an issue this year.

Referring to Tumulty, Mr. Wilson's secretary, the governor said:

"Does he want to go into the league? That's the main idea."

He would not amplify the twelve words.

ROOSEVELT REPEATS DRY REPEAL STAND

a breaking down of the international system of tariff barriers.

Newspaper men questioned Gov. Roosevelt tonight regarding Mayor Curley's statement.

"If my memory serves me right," said the governor, "I outlined my views on this matter in a letter to United States Senator Robert F. Wagner on September 9, 1930. I see no reason at this time to change that."

He added that the letter was "not news," indicating that he had adhered to his 1930 stand through two years of mystery that had been built around this phase of his views on public affairs.

The letter contained no reference to referendum nor to any other machinery for repeal.

In the letter, Gov. Roosevelt said he shared the opinion expressed in an American Legion resolution that the prohibition law had "fostered excessive drinking," had led to "corruption and hypocrisy," and "disregard for law" and had "flooded the country with untaxed and illicit liquor."

REALTY LOAN FUNDS FOUND INSUFFICIENT

Realtors' Survey Discloses Mortgage Capital Need in Most of U. S.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A survey of the real estate market in 318 principal American cities reveals that the money supply for real estate loans in every section of the country is insufficient for the demand.

It likewise shows that effects of "doubling up" of two or more families in single residential units has practically counterbalanced results of the current lull in residential construction.

These conclusions, made public today, were drawn from confidential reports of realtors in a Nation-wide survey for the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

In 70 per cent of the reporting cities, it was found, real estate mortgage loans are seeking capital. In 22 per cent supply and demand are balanced, while in only 8 per cent is capital reported seeking investment.

The most pronounced shortage of money was found in cities of less than 200,000. Scarcely any small cities show capital seeking loans, and of leading metropolitan centers 60 per cent report loans seeking capital, with only 20 per cent with capital seeking an outlet.

Interest rates were reported rising in 21 per cent of the cities, steady in 75 per cent and falling in only 4 per cent.

Reports from some cities indicate the bottom has been reached in rent prices, but apartments are the only group to date which display any definite tendency toward rising rents.

In 85 per cent of the reporting cities, real estate selling prices were listed as lower than a year ago. While 12 per cent reported a more active market than at this time last year, 31 per cent say the market is virtually the same and 57 per cent report less activity.

Leases on Huge Oil Tract Won by U. S.

Doheny Firm Loses Title to $12,000,000 Lands in California.

San Francisco, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The United States Government won back more than $12,000,000 of oil land leases in Kern County, Calif., today in a court decision harking back to the Elk Hills Naval oil leasing deal that sent Albert B. Fall to prison on conviction of accepting a bribe.

United States Circuit Judge William E. Sawtelle reversed a decree given in Los Angeles on November 10, 1930, by Federal District Judge Frank Norcross of Nevada to the Pan-American Petroleum Co.

In his decision Judge Sawtelle referred to the activities of the former Secretary of the Interior Fall and E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, as "the Fall-Doheny conspiracy" and said this "fraud and conspiracy constituted a wrongful act from which more than one cause of action might flow."

The Pan-American Petroleum Co., a Doheny concern, defendant in a Government suit to recover 37,000 acres in Naval petroleum reserve No. 1, had been given a judgment by Judge Norcross. The oil company contended the oil lands involved should have been included in a previous lease cancellation suit which the Government won.

Holiday in Arizona Halts Judd Trial

Prosecution and Defense Study Testimony During Arbor Day Respite.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The controversial status of Winnie Ruth Judd's trial for murder occupied counsel for both prosecution and defense today as they studied testimony which had brought at least one additional personality into events immediately preceding the slaying of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson October 16.

Court was in recess as Arizona citizens planted arbor day trees.

The State entered into the records yesterday, through the testimony of Dr. Joseph Catton, psychiatrist, an incomplete statement of Mrs. Judd concerning the alleged presence of J. J. Halloran, wealthy lumberman, in the Leroi-Samuelson apartment the evening of October 16.

"Nobody but Halloran took a drink there," that night, Dr. Catton quoted the slender accused woman as having told him.

County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews said he considered the State had established its principle point against Mrs. Judd through testimony of Dr. Catton giving jealousy as a motive for the slayings and attacking the defense hypothesis of insanity.

NEW BRITISH TARIFF STIRS U. S. PARTIES

Republicans Support England; Democrats Say London Is Retaliating.

(Associated Press.)

Great Britain's abandonment of her traditional free trade policy brought varying reactions here yesterday, and meanwhile Congress received its seventh major tariff recommendation of the present session.

Regular Republicans on the Senate finance committee saw no retaliation in the British announcement of a general 10 per cent levy, while the Democrats regarded it as nothing else.

"England recognizes the principle of the tariff," said Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, chairman of the committee. "This is in no way a retaliation against the United States."

View of Democrats.

The Democratic view, as given by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking minority member of the committee, was this:

"It is just another evidence of tariff reprisals and foreign retaliations against the narrow and unwise tariff policy of the United States."

Britain's action may be the subject of extended debate when the Senate takes up its first tariff bill of the session in a few weeks. An old-fashioned free-for-all is in sight in view of the varying proposals pending with the Democrats and Republican Independents striving, as they did in 1930, for a decrease in the industrial duty walls and the regular Republicans holding out for some temporary increases.

Two new proposals offered yesterday brought the total in both houses to seven. One by Senator Norris (Independent Republican), of Nebraska, calls for suspension of duties on all commodities which, after court hearing, are found to be controlled by American producers through price-fixing or production-limitation agreements. Norris was unsuccessful in an effort to incorporate a similar provision in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

Second Tariff Measure.

Senator White (Republican), Maine, proposed the second. It is aimed at Canada's 10 per cent tariff cut on goods entering that country through a Canadian sea or river port. To combat this alleged discrimination, Mr. White proposed a 10 per cent special duty on foreign goods entering the United States through Canada.

The first proposition to receive Senate consideration will be the Democratic substitute for the bill approved by House Democrats. It calls for withdrawal of presidential rate-changing power, reorganization of the Tariff Commission, an international conference to slash tariffs, and negotiation of reciprocal tariff agreements with foreign nations.

A substitute for this has been proposed by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan. It would scrap the Democratic measure except the provision that would permit the Tariff Commission to recommend articles for transfer to or from the free list, subject to congressional approval.

A fifth proposal awaiting Senate consideration is that of Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, directing a Tariff Commission inquiry to determine the need for temporary rate boosts to compensate for the lower values of foreign goods resulting from depreciated currencies.

Without waiting for a commission study, Representative Hawley (Republican), Oregon, has offered a bill in the House to meet this situation by requiring importers to pay the difference in gold values of October 1 and present-day exchange values, in addition to regular duties.

The seventh major tariff measure is that of Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, providing for duties on crude oil and by-products, including gasoline. This is now before the Senate commerce committee which has asked four interested Government departments for reports on it.

U. S. Goods Made Dutiable.

The Commerce Department announced yesterday that approximately 46 per cent of American exports to Great Britain would be affected by the new British tariff. This imposes a general tariff of 10 per cent ad volorem, effective March 1, on all "imports into the United Kingdom, except goods already subject to import duty and meat, tea, wheat, raw cotton, raw wool, British-caught fresh fish and a few other items not yet specified."

It will apply equally to goods from all countries outside the British Empire.

British imports from the United States during the calendar year 1930, on which the department bases its estimates, amounted to $700,666,000. Of this total $202,761,000, or 29 per cent, alerady is dutiable.

Imports from the United States on commodities which will continue to be duty free, consisting principally of cotton, wheat and meats, amounted during 1930 to $173,455,000, or 25 per cent of the total. The remaining 1930 British imports from the United States, valued at $325,450,000, or 46 per cent of the total, would be transferred from the free list to dutiable list, unless additional commodities are specified later.

DAY IN CONGRESS

FEBRUARY 5, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 3:50 p. m. until noon Monday.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, introduced a bill providing for suspension of tariffs on products controlled by American producers through price fixing or production limitation.

Senator White (Republican), of Maine, introduced a bill providing for a special 10 per cent duty on goods entering through Canada.

Approved nomination of Andrew W. Mellon to be Ambassador to Great Britain.

Received nomination of Ogden L. Mills to be Secretary of the Treasury.

Commerce committee received letter from Secretary of Interior Wilbur approving tariff of $1 a barrel on oil imports with certain provisions.

Considered $375,000,000 La Follette-Costigan and Democratic substitute unemployment relief bill.

Confirmed nomination of William M. Mooney as District postmaster.

Passed five minor District bills.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4 p. m. until noon Monday.

Agricultural committee voted to take definite action on measure to provide Government-held wheat for unemployed.

Labor subcommittee heard indorsement of La Follette-Costigan unemployment relief bill, completing hearings.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON.

WHEN Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, arises on the Senate floor and says "Mr. President," in his not too loud, but attention-compelling manner, every Republican on the floor looks up expectantly. They know the G. O. P. is going to wince under the barbed prod of the Mississippian and each wants to be ready if the barb is thrust at him.

They do not have rough and tumble debates in the decorous Senate, of course, but if they did have such things unquestionably Senator Harrison would be one of the finalists if not the unquestioned victor. Perhaps Senator Harrison never has forgotten the ready tongue and quick phrasing which he demonstrated to the House in the course of his service in that body in four Congresses. When he was district attorney back in Mississippi before he came to Congress in 1910, he probably smiled witnesses into admissions they didn't want to make and left them dumbfounded when they heard him thunder his interpretation of their testimony to the jury.

The senator may have formed an early and lasting admiration for the dashing forays of Col. Mosby and Gen. Jeb Stuart. The activities of neither won the Civil War for the South, but they certainly worried the devil out of the Yankees.

He had a running mate in the late Senator Thaddeus Caraway, of Arkansas, but where Senator Caraway was biting, Senator Harrison assumes the air of a surgeon being jovial as he goes about the process of lancing a very painful boil. He is sorry for the individual but the boil is just an inevitable consequence of being a Republican. He might be the most disliked man in the Senate were it not that his tongue never seems too far away from his cheek and his barbs are aimed at the Republican party and not especially at the particular Republican senator who, Mr. Harrison implies, really knows better but can't help but obey the commands of his party.

Senator Harrison was born in Crystal Springs, Miss., on August 29, 1881. He grew up in the town, went to high school there, finished his formal schooling in Louisiana State University, went back home, married a Mississippi belle and has lived in Mississippi ever since. His home is in Gulfport. Elected to the Senate in 1918, he was reelected in 1924 and again in 1930 for the term ending March 3, 1937.

Study of Labor Conditions

By H. G. WELLS

ANOTHER modern section in a business organization outside the everyday round is the research staff, concerned with the systematic investigation of problems arising out of the work and in the search for novelties, improvements and economies. Both these sections are correlated nowadays with great educational and investigatory organizations outside the works, with the school, the technical college and the scientific side of the university. The days when it was possible to distinguish sharply between buiness organizations and public educational and social institutions have passed away.

* * * *

In America such great industrial organizations as General Motors, the Ford Motor Co., and the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturers have established training institutions to meet their own particular needs, and these interlock closely with exterior schools. For instance, we find the University of Cincinnati, Antioch College in Ohio, the Institute of Technology at Flint (Mich.), and the Technical High School at the city of Dayton (Ohio) all in close cooperation with the General Motors organization at Dayton. The engineer students pass to and fro between the shop, the classroom and the laboratory.

* * * *

THE increasing correlation of the organizing forces in the factory with public research and education today is well displayed in that pioneer institution, the National Institute of Industrial Psychology in London. Here, under the direction of Mr. C. S. Myers, there is a continual coming and going between school employer and public official. "Planning" is studied, that is to say, the layout of plant, the routine of processes, the storage and transport of material. Fatigue is exhaustively scrutinized; its relation to hours of work, to lighting, to temperature, to the movements of air in a workroom. Winslow Taylor's ideas are adapted now to this new industrial process and now to that. In addition, work is going on continually with the object of making a trustworthy classification and tests for nervous and mental types, so as to fit the job to the worker and avoid the distress and wastage of setting the wrong sort of individual to an uncongenial job. Employers send applicants for posts under them, to the institute for tests and examination, instead of trusting to their own casual impression of the aspirant; parents may bring youngsters for advice as to the choice of a metier.

* * * *

At first the work of Winslow Taylor and the larger enterprise of the London Institute were regarded with considerable suspicion by the workers themselves as being no more than an attempt to put them under increased pressure and reduce employment. Winslow Taylor, in his classical instances, seems always to have insisted that the workers concerned should have a substantial share in the economies effected in the form of increased wages. The question of the reduction of employment is one best deferred to a later stage, but the dread of any increased stress through "Scientific Management" is already dispelled. The institute has got a number of expressions of approval from workers with whom it has dealt. Says Factory A: "Could we not have more like this. It has made it a lot easier for us." "It feels much safer now; we can get on with the work much quicker," Factory B. echoes: "It is much better now; we can stick to the job without being fussed about." "It's fair now; it divides the work up—share and share alike." And a worker from Factory C says: "When we heard of the exchanges you were giving us, we were that glad we all felt 6 foot high . . . I wish you had been here when I was a girl; I wouldn't look the old hag I do now."

It is interesting to contrast the conditions of the actual worker at work, now and in the past. The toil of the Lancashire cotton mill hands or the sweated Sheffield cutlers of the early industrial period was immeasurably inferior in ease, dignity, comfort and leisure to that of their current successors. Already it is difficult for us to realize how enormously and needlessly cruel were the relative ignorance and inexperience of the pioneer age of power production. With no profit to the employer worth talking about.

Cleaning School Ground Aids Arlington Jobless

In an effort to care for more than 200 unemployed in Arlington County, The County Welfare Board announced yesterday that it is employing more than 25 persons in clearing up the grounds in the rear of the Washington-Lee High School. The wood being collected as a result of cutting down a number of the trees will be delivered to the homes of the unemployed.

Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs reported last night that she has received from the employes of the Sanitary Grocery Stores in Arlington County a check for $208 in addition to the $400 which the company has given the board. The latter sum to be used in purchase of groceries.

Bay Rum Drinking Termed Proof of Change in Times

By JOHN J. DALY

HOW times have changed!

Along in the Gay Nineties, when the gallant swain went calling on his light o' love, he carried with him, as a sort of aura, the faint aroma of bay rum—the perfume of the barber who sent his amorous customers out of the shop reeking with the trade-mark of the Virgin Islands.

In those days, and up to pre-war times, bay rum was the high mark of tonsorial culture, the lotion applied to the male physiognomy after shaving, and to the scalp after a shampoo. It was the ne plus ultra in hair dressing, before pomades from Italy shoved it into the background of popularity—a public fancy attained in the days of the mining camps, when the forty-niners found gold in them thar hills of Cal-i-for-ni-A.

The Beau Brummell without bay rum was no Beau Brummell at all, at all—when men were men, and women's companions, before barber shops became beauty parlors, before barbering became bobbing.

* * * *

ALAS, and alackaday! Complaint now comes from the commissioner of industrial alcohol that bay rum is being used for drinking purposes rather than for shaving and scalp treatment. Sold in pharmaceutical shops and in 5 and 10 cent stores, bay rum is no longer the exclusive lotion of the barber, nor bay rumming his sole rite. Investigators have found that the back alleys of town and city are loaded with empty bay rum bottles the morning after the night before. As nobody, conceivably, would enter an alley for a shave or a haircut, or even a shampoo, there is only one conclusion: The boys, whooping it up, go in for bay rum jags.

The evidence seems pretty conclusive, for the bay rum industry of the Virgin Isles has suddenly taken on new life. Just as suddenly, too, it finds itself confronted with a new problem. Denaturants are being put into bay rum by the Government to keep it in the barber and beauty shops and out of the hands of the thirsty. With a concerted attempt to stop this nefarious pastime, the drinking of bay rum, the Virgin Islanders see red. So they have complained to Uncle Sam.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, analyzing the bay rum situation, states: "Absolutely unfit to drink; to load bay rum up with any further denaturants would not only ruin the bay rum industry of the Virgin Islands, but also deprive the American people of a staple article to which they have been accustomed for many years. Let any reasonable man taste bay rum and see if he likes it. If the country's going to take to that stuff you might as well give the country back to the Indians."

* * * *

IF bay rum is to lose its rightful place in the life of America, if it must be taken from its throne in the beauty marts and given an alley allocation, the time has come, indeed, to turn the country back to the Red Skins, who never needed bay rum because they neither shaved nor shampooed.

The question arises, "Where are the Indians?"

Even if the Indians got it, what would they do with such a country, a country that considers bay rum a beverage and not a beautifier? We have gone a long way from the days of the founders. All the old belles and beaux of another period, their shades hovering over the Nation, must wonder at this state of affairs—young men, the pungent smell of bay rum on their breath, and not their hair, calling on the girl friends.

No wonder formal representations have been made to the Treasury Department, through the Trade Commissioner, who probably remembers America's greatest era—the Age of Bay Rum and Bay Windows.

RELIEF COMPROMISE IS BALKED IN SENATE

Week's Debate on La Follette Bill Leaves Ultimate Action Uncertain.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday concluded a week's debate on the $375,000,000 La Follette-Costigan unemployment relief bill with the outcome as much in doubt as when the discussion began.

Republican leaders were confident of enough votes to defeat the direct relief bill, to which President Hoover is opposed, as well as the Democratic substitute calling for twice as much money, to be divided between loans to States and road construction.

But Democratic leadership was almost as certain the substitute proposal would be adopted, and sponsors of the direct relief bill also were sticking to their positions.

Compromise Effort Fails.

An attempt yesterday to bring sponsors of the two bills together in a compromise failed. Meanwhile, other substitute plans were being prepared. Voting was not expected before Tuesday, at the earliest.

All the debate so far has been in favor of the $375,000,000 bill. Senators La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado, consumed the entire week outlining the case in support of the measure.

Costigan concluded his three-day maiden speech in the Senate yesterday with a plea for the bill to add "new luster to our country's name and confirm the finest traditions of self-government, justice and humanity."

"Americans must guard the welfare of those who in the long run guard America," he said. "We owe it to our self-respect to adopt a rational, generous attitude toward our stricken fellowmen."

Wheat Proposal Revived.

After a month's slumber in a House committee pigeonhole, a proposal for distributing Farm Board wheat to the unemployed awakened suddenly yesterday, and final committee action was assured on Monday.

The agricultural committee adopted by 12 to 9 a motion that it vote definitely on the proposal. It already has Senate approval.

A House labor subcommittee completed a week of hearings on the La Follette-Costigan bill. Yesterday it heard the indorsement of Benjamin Marsh, secretary of the People's Lobby, and the criticism of James A. Emory, counsel of the National Manufacturers Association.

Crash Hurts Fatal To Woman Victim

Inquest Slated in Death of Mrs. Clara Washburn, of Alexandria.

The death of Mrs. Clara Washburn yesterday as the result of an automobile accident Sunday night will be inquired into by a coroner's jury at the District Morgue Monday morning, beginning at 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Washburn, who was 36 years old and lived in Alexandria, Va., was injured when an automobile driven by her husband, Lester A. Washburn, was in collision with a car driven by Joseph Mintor, 20, colored, of 927 N street northwest, at Connecticut avenue and Q streets northwest.

Mintor was arrested and charged with reckless driving and driving without a permit. He is being held for action of the coroner's jury.

Lawrence Petty Succumbs.

Lawrence Petty, nephew of Miss Rose Petty, died yesterday in the Naval Hospital, Washington. The body was brought to the Wheatley Funeral Home, 809 King street, Alexandria. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery on Monday.

Quin's Body Is Sent To Southern Home

House Chaplain Conducts Services Here for Mississippian.

After funeral rites here yesterday the body of Representative Percy Quin, of Mississippi, was placed aboard a train for shipment to his home at McComb, Miss. The services yesterday were conducted by the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House, at the residence, 2467 Woodley road northwest.

Final services will be held at McComb Sunday morning and interment will take place at Natchez, Miss. Committees from both the Senate and House accompanied the body of Representative Quin on its last journey and will represent Congress at the services.

Representative Quin was 59 years old. His unique type of oratory had made him generally popular at the Capitol and his speeches drew large galleries.

VOORHIS, PATRIARCH OF TAMMANY, DIES

Heart Attack Fatal to Grand Old Man of New York in 103d Year.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Tammany's grand old man, John R. Voorhis, died today more than half way through his 103d year.

Although he prided himself on his remarkable physique, recurring periods of illness forced him to end his 58 years in public office last fall and retire to his little red brick home on Greenwich street.

At that time he was the oldest office-holder in the city, and probably in the country. He continued, however, to maintain his interest in political affairs to the very end of life. A friend called at his home Monday night and found him in the hall with his hat and coat on. Voorhis said he was going to a Tammany meeting, where his tall frail figure had been almost a landmark for a half century.

Considerable persuasion and argument about the inclement weather finally induced him to remain at home. A few hours later he was stricken with a heart attack from which he died within a little more than 80 hours.

The body will be taken to Tammany Hall tomorrow afternoon and will lie in state there until Monday morning. After services at the Greenwich Presbyterian Church the body will be taken to Pompton Plains, N. J., Voorhis' birthplace, for interment in the vault which Voorhis himself had caused to be built about two months before he became 100 years old.

During his century and two years of life, he climbed from a builder of staircases and a $1-a-week clerk in a law office to New York's $8,000-a-year election board chairmanship. On the way up, he held numerous political offices, including 10 years as commissioner of police.

When he retired, special legislation was passed to allow him his full salary as a pension, but he died still grand sachem of Tammany Hall.

Claudel Accepts Alexandria Bid.

Announcement was made yesterday that M. Paul Claudel, French Ambassador, has definitely accepted an invitation to attend the bicentennial mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Alexandria on February 21. In his acceptance he stated the visit will serve to recall to his mind the close relationship between Lafayette and Washington.

ALLEN TELLS COURT SHOOTING NOT MEANT AS HE TESTIFIES

his son, but the district attorney edged him away and demanded that he not be allowed to talk to the defendant in the presence of the jury.

Young Allen took the witness stand after William T. Connor, his chief attorney, made a dramatic plea for justification for the slaying in the circumstances, though he said Allen did not mean to shoot Donaldson, but to scare him.

"It is the right of any individual in defense of his life to take the defense methods necessary for that purpose," declared the attorney. "We will show the acts of Eddie Allen were caused by an intense love for his old father and an intense desire to protect a sister and save her good name."

Defense counsel referred to Donaldson as an aggressive man and to his friend, Albert Gallatin H. Lucas, who was with him the night he was shot, as a "brute." In making his appeal for Allen's freedom, counsel said that he did not think "there is a red-blooded person who will say that under the law of Pennsylvania this boy was not justified in saving himself against the attacks of these aggressors."

Court Room Electrified.

The court room was electrified when young Allen took the stand. Steadily he recounted events before the night of the shooting. He said he told Rose, whom he called "Rosey," that he wanted to have a serious talk with her about Donaldson.

He told her that their father had told him he found Donaldson in her room at 2 a. m., and that when the father ordered Donaldson out, she slapped the father in the face and Donaldson threw him into his own bedroom and beat him.

"I told my sister that I did not think that was right," he testified, "and I said Donaldson ruined her and was trying to kill my father. I told my sister if she could not keep Donaldson out of the apartment it was all right for her to meet him downstairs.

Tried to Keep Peace.

"My sister said that she wasn't going to stay in the house if she couldn't have her friends come up and see her. I told her that was absolutely up to her. I told her she was the only girl I loved, and she is, and I tried to do everything I could to keep things peaceful in the house.

"My sister said she was going to tell Skinny (Donaldson) and she said when she did he probably would knock my head off. I told her he is a pugilist and I am not, and I am not looking for a fight."

With the courtroom hanging on every word, Allen, who had apparently won the sympathy of many of the spectators judging from the attitude of the crowd, carried his story up to the occurrences in the Allen living room in the fashionable Green Hill Farms Hotel on the night of the killing.

Asked Pair to Leave.

He was lying on a sofa, he said, when Donaldson and Lucas came in unannounced and he told them he could not talk to them about his sister when they explained their mission. He asked them to leave, he said, and they refused. He walked to the telephone to ask for bellboys.

"Donaldson grabbed me by the lapel, swung me around and hit me in the mouth," Allen went on. "I never raised a hand. I didn't have a chance, and he knocked me down. He wasn't satisfied to knock me down, but when I was down, he pummeled me. While I was down Lucas hollered to him and said 'now kick his head in; that is what you came here to do.'

"When I got to my feet, Lucas grabbed father from the back and threw him down in a chair. Then I put my hands on Donaldson's shoulders and gave him a shove and knocked him off balance and went to the telephone."

Telephoned for Help.

He said he summoned help and both Donaldson and Lucas refused to leave at the request of the hotel employes. Later he went to the telephone again and tried to get the proprietor of the hotel and Donaldson "smashed" him in the mouth twice.

Going into great detail, the defendant said he did not know what to do. He feared Donaldson and Lucas would harm his father. Finally he decided to get his shotgun at the home of a friend in Villanova, a little more than 6 miles away.

When he came back, he said, he thought the two had gone, but when he was about to place his shotgun in a closet he heard Donaldson say, "There's the ——"

Shooting Described.

"I thought he was going to beat me—kill me," defendant said. "I didn't aim that gun, but raised the gun and pulled the trigger and shot. I didn't mean to kill him—really I didn't."

"I raised that gun," said Allen in the dead silence of the room, "and didn't aim it, but pulled the trigger. He fell back and I went in and asked my father what in the world I should do. He said to call a doctor."

"What was your intention when the trigger was pulled?" asked defense counsel, and the defendant replied, "My intention was to scare him. I thought a blast of the gun would scare him."

"Did you think your life was in danger?"

"I certainly did."

The courtroom stirred when Horace Allen, the father, slowly walked to the stand. He told much the same story as his son regarding the attack of Donaldson. "I jumped to go to my son's assistance, as I feared he would be seriously hurt," said the father.

Attack Called Cowardly.

"I never saw such a cowardly attack in my life. Lucas grabbed me from behind and swung me into a chair."

After telling of further blows struck, the effort to get the two men to leave and the departure of his son from the room, the father told of the conversation he had with Donaldson and Lucas while Eddie was away.

Donaldson asked him who was going to run the apartment, Eddie or the father.

"I told them it was none of your business," Allen said. "I told them to get out, and three times I tried to get out of my chair and each time I was pushed back.

"Lucas said we might as well go on, we can't budge this old ——, might as well try and move the Rock of Gibraltar."

Garner Will Press Single-Session Plan

Speaker to Give Right of Way to Rutherford's Resolution.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner is going to give legislative preference next week to the Rutherford resolution to eliminate the short session of Congress.

The Speaker and the late Representative Rutherford (Democrat), Georgia, made arrangements for bringing the measure up for action before the Georgian died suddenly Thursday.

It would convene Congress on January 4 each year, the sessions to be indeterminate. The terms of the President and Vice President would begin January 24 instead of March 4.

The Norris resolution, already approved by the Senate, is similar. Mr. Garner said he favored the measure.

Underwood & Underwood, Washington photographers, yesterday filed suit in Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, Md., to compel Brooke Johns, the popular banjo artist, and his wife, to pay a bill of $191 which the photographic firm claims to be due for photographic prints and a Beidler book. The photographers are represented by Bowie F. Waters, Rockville attorney.

TERMS FOR GRAFT GIVEN 4 IN CHICAGO

Former Public Officials Are Flayed in Court Ruling; Three Are Dismissed.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Three judges of the criminal court convicted four former public officials today of plotting to plunder the public purse of millions—millions that found their way to the pockets of legislators, contractors, the defendants and their political friends.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district of Chicago in those profligate days that have come to be known as the "whoopee era" of 1927-28, and Trustee Frank J. Link, were sentenced to State prison for one to five years.

John T. Miller, who was superintendent of permanent plants, must serve six months in the House of Correction and pay a $2,000 fine.

Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent for the district, was given a three months' sentence and fined $2,000.

Three Are Discharged.

The court decided evidence to convict August W. Miller, John J. Touhy and James M. Whalen was lacking and they were discharged. Touhy and Whalen are still members of the board of trustees of the district that supervises drainage of the Chicago metropolitan area and its sewage disposal, under legislative enactment and War Department permits.

Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher and his advisory jurists, John Prystalski and James J. Kelly, scathingly arraigned the guilty quartet in ending the sensational conspiracy trial that had its roots in successive months of special grand jury inquiries directed in 1929 by the veteran prosecutor and head of the Chicago crime commission, Frank J. Loesch.

"Hideous corruption," the court commented as it scanned the evidence unloaded from trucks of public and bank records in nine weeks of trial.

Legislators Rebuked.

"From all walks of life," said Judge Fisher, "carpenters and tailors, preachers and lawyers, legislators, male and female, white and black, all came here telling the same tale, mainly of receiving week after week for a period of one and a half years money from the public fund for which they rendered no services to the community."

The court administered a special rebuke to the legislators, some two score of whom shared the pay roll.

Thomas J. Bowler, president of the current sanitary district board, announced recently he would sue for the return of the misspent funds as soon as the criminal trial ended, naming as defendants the witnesses who had acknowledged they enjoyed salaries and expenses without contributing services. The number of witnesses reached 948. Bowler hoped as much as $2,300,000 might be recovered to the district treasury, which twice this year has defaulted on bonds because of unpaid taxes.

Defense counsel was allowed 120 days to perfect appeals for the four convicted and they were given liberty meanwhile under the $10,000 bond already furnished.

McLean Church to Give Entertainment Tonight

An entertainment will be given tonight in the Parish Hall at McLean, Va., for the benefit of the St. John's Episcopal Church. A one-act comedy, "The Big Depression," will be the principal attraction. The cast of the play includes Mrs. Arthur M. Berthiaume, Mrs. John W. Preston, Mrs. Franklin Glicker, sr., Mrs. I. B. Faidley, Mrs. Bruno Wittig and Mrs. Cecile Rawlings.

MELLON APPROVED AS ENVOY TO BRITAIN

Senate had adjourned until Monday.

It was felt that some haste was needed because Mr. Mills is a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It was desired that his successor as undersecretary, who is to be Arthur Ballantine, of New York, be installed quickly to make him available as a member of the corporation.

While turning over his office to Mr. Mills immediately, Mr. Mellon does not intend to proceed to London for several weeks. He is going South first to rest.

Senator Long, Louisiana's new representative in the Senate, had announced opposition to Mellon. He was not present yesterday. He had left again for Louisiana.

British Approve Mellon.

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—British approval of Andrew W. Mellon as Ambassador to the Court of St. James became unanimous today.

This was made certain when formal diplomatic approval of the American banker was forwarded from the foreign office to the American Embassy this afternoon. Universal satisfaction had been previously expressed.

Headlined in one newspaper as "London's New $25,000,000 Ambasssador," the 77-year-old Mr. Mellon will be kept very busy living up to all of the things expected of him here, judging from press comment. It has been invariably warm and friendly.

Some newspapers have come quickly to the conclusion that Mr. Mellon's appointment means that he will further the cause of revision of war debts settlements. Other commentators have pointed out that there is little or nothing he could do toward this end under present world conditions.

Some sections of London society were expecting a revival of the lavish hospitality at the American Embassy, such as was the custom in the spacious days before the World War. But Englishmen who met the frail, dignified Secretary of the Treasury when he visited London with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, last year, felt he would spend more time in the quiet of the embassy's study. Or perhaps museums and art galleries would gain more of his attention than would complex social activities.

The embassy home at Prince's Gate, which J. P. Morgan gave to the United States, was ready for its new master. As Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, his predecessor, was not expected to return to London, Mr. Mellon will present his own credentials to King George.

At the same time he will present Mr. Dawes' letter of recall from President Hoover, which the late ambassador could not deliver in person, to head the American emergency corporation.

Mock Court's Verdict Is Borne Out by Judge

A verdict of the "kangaroo court," sitting Thursday in Marlboro, Md., jail, was upheld by a higher tribunal yesterday when Judge J. Chew Sheriff, in Marlboro Police Court, released on parole J. C. Cassidy, of Clinton, charged with nonsupport of his six minor children.

The mock court, presided over by the senior prisoner in the jail, is one of the means of passing lagging hours among the prisoners. When Cassidy was tried by this "court," the captive judge decided he should be freed and allowed to find a job. On substantially the same evidence Judge Sheriff also decided to postpone the charges indefinitely on condition Cassidy would find work and support his family.

TARIFF ON CRUDE OIL INDORSED BY WILBUR

Administration Approval of Shortridge Bill Given to Hiram Johnson.

(United Press.)

Formal administration approval of a tariff on crude oil, conditioned upon State action to curb excess production in this country, was given yesterday by Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Dr. Wilbur stated his views in a letter to Chairman Hiram Johnson, of the Senate commerce committee, approving the principles of the Shortridge bill and asserting that the Atlantic Coast region must be protected by allowing some imports.

This new development comes as the Democratic House ways and means committee has about decided to include an oil import tax, similar to a tariff, in the new Democratic tax bill. If it is included, an effort is expected to be made by Republicans to provide the safeguards proposed by Wilbur.

The Wilbur statement is a high point in the three-year campaign of the depressed independent producers of the midcontinent fields, who have been forced to sell at underproduction prices because of the great surplus of oil on the market. They blamed the surplus on imports of cheaply produced oil, much of it from Venezuela, some from other South American countries. Other oil men have blamed the unlimited production and the rich new fields in east Texas, California and other States, for the surplus.

"A tariff on crude oil, with proper compensatory duties on oil products," said Dr. Wilbur's letter, "would assist the oil producers and I favor it. But it would injure the oil industry if the law does not safeguard against destruction of our exports, and incidentally it would do great injury to the oil industry through decrease of oil consumption in the Atlantic Seaboard States and cause loss of employment to many working people, unless some arrangements are made by which imports of crude oil into that territory are permitted in the amount equivalent to exports of refined products from that region."

He approved the Shortridge bill, "subject to consideration by other governmental agencies of the administrative features of the bill and its proposed rates," and emphasized that a tariff on oil should be paralleled by State legislation providing for coordination of proration and conservation among the oil States. Unless this is done, he added, "the potential overproduction of our new oil fields with all its incidental loss to natural resources can destroy any benefits of a tariff."

Day's Pay Sought For Jobless Relief

Montgomery County Employes Asked to Aid Idle for Three Months.

Officeholders and employes of Montgomery County, Md., will be asked to donate one day's pay a month for three months toward relief of unemployment, if the county commissioners act favorably on a resolution adopted by the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds post of the American Legion of Rockville, Md. The resolution suggests to the county fathers that they make such a request to county employes.

The resolution calls attention to the fact that approximately $23,000 has been realized for the county from the donations by Federal employes, which is being disbursed through the Social Service League of Montgomery County.

The unemployment committee of the county and the league now are disbursing the funds for the relief of some 500 persons in the county who are unemployed or underemployed. These people are being put to work on public projects such as roads, parks and schools. An unemployment bureau has been established in the Rockville Courthouse where persons desiring employment and those who have jobs to offer can be brought together. This bureau is in charge of Mrs. Robert D. Hagner, wife of County Commissioner Hagner.

28 BELIEVED LOST AS TWO SHIPS SINK

Calvin Hinton and Francis and Paul Leblanc.

Among those missing, it was said at Boston, were Charles and Harold Knickle, a father and son of Cambridge, Mass.; Alexander Dodge and a brother named James or John Dodge.

The tug Lonnie B. Shaw was towing the wooden barge, Ruth Shaw, laden with a cargo of wood, from Sturgeon Point, Va., to New York, when it foundered. The crew of the barge said it saw the tug sink stern first.

John Jones, of Philadelphia, was master of the tug and his son, Edward, was a member of the crew.

L. D. Shaw, head of a Philadelphia transportation concern which owned it, expressed hope the crew may have boarded a life boat and still be drifting about.

The Eleanor Nickerson, a wooden motor fishing vessel of 143 tons gross register, was 110 feet long.

LUNCH-WAGON MAN STIRS HYATTSVILLE

Suit for Injunction Brings Town's Charge of Effort to Ignore Law.

Alleging that J. Frank Lillard has sought to "ignore the mayor and council and place himself above the law," Caesar L. Aiello, town attorney of Hyattsville, Md., yesterday filed an answer to Mr. Lillard's request for an injunction.

In his original plea, filed in Marlboro circuit court, Mr. Lillard said that the town government and Aiello had made threats to workmen, forcing them to suspend work on a lunchroom on wheels which he was building, on the ground that no permit for the work had ever been granted by the town. He asked an injunction restraining town officials from interfering with the work.

The answer says that Mr. Lillard made application to the Park and Planning Commission for a permit for the work and that this application was sent to the town for approval, as is customary. Twice the town rejected the application. It also says that no threats were made, but that the chief carpenter was told at a council meeting that the work was being done illegally. The carpenter, according to the bill, told the council that the lunchroom was to have been moved to the Baltimore boulevard when completed, but that it grew so unwieldy work on it was suspended.

Mr. Lillard's petition is "frivolous and without foundation in fact," the answer continues. A separate answer is filed by Aiello personally, who is named as defendant in the original bill. He states that no facts to show cause for an action against himself have been stated and that he is improperly enjoined.

Firemen Pick Leader Of Bicentennial Group

Headley Gasch has been named chairman of the Bladensburg Fire Department's bicentennial committee, which will operate an information booth and sell souvneirs on the Baltimore boulevard at the District line.

Other members of the committee are Theodore Windsor and William Mitchell, and subcommittees will be appointed. The booth will be opened before February 22.

Accident Report Exceptions Ruled

Persons in Hospitals or Jails Excused From Writing Details.

Persons who are in jails or hospitals do not have to comply with the Maryland State law providing that a written report of all auto accidents must be made within 24 hours, Judge J. Chew Sheriff ruled yesterday in Marlboro Police Court.

The ruling was made when charges of failing to report against James A. Hall, of Suitland, and Harry J. Burch, of Boulevard Heights, were dismissed. These men were drivers of two cars involved in an accident in which Mrs. Bertha Caywood, Burch's mother-in-law, was killed. Hall was held in the Marlboro jail until exonerated by a coroner's jury, while Burch was in Providence Hospital for several days after the crash, which occurred on the Suitland road.

Both were arrested, although a State policeman investigated the accident and obtained a report from them at the time.

SITES FOR SIX TRASH DUMPS ARE CHOSEN

Prince Georges County Body Tentatively Decides on Disposal Places.

Tentative sites for the establishment of six dumps have been selected by the committee of the Prince Georges County Community Council, appointed to work out a plan for trash disposal, it was announced last night.

They are expected to be located near Berwyn, Beltsville, Bladensburg, between Riverdale and Edmonston, on Queen's Chapel road near the Northwest Branch, and in the swamp back of Colmar Manor. Others will also be recommended, and some of these six may have to be changed.

The committee, headed by Oliver Metzerott, also announced the rules which will govern the use of the dumps. Only trash will be permitted, and garbage and other odorous material will be barred, as will old autos and oil drums. The committee is trying to find a location for an "auto graveyard" for derelict cars, but none has been selected yet. They are also trying to find a place where paper and other inflammable trash may be burned without annoyance to neighbors.

The report of the committee, which will probably be submitted next week, will recommend that roads to the dumps be constructed by men paid out of funds for unemployment relief. At each dump, also, a man paid from the same source, will be stationed to "trim" the debris as it is deposited, and direct the dumping.

Mr. Metzerott said last night that no dump site will be recommended until neighboring property owners have been consulted, to learn if they have any objection. He stressed the fact that trash would not be burned on the dumps in populous sections, and that nothing to cause unpleasant smells would be placed on them.

Rector 20 Years Will Be Honored

St. Alban's Parish to Celebrate Dr. Warner's Anniversary Tomorrow.

In commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the coming of the Rev. Charles T. Warner to be their rector, the people of St. Alban's Episcopal Parish have arranged three special services tomorrow in the church on Wisconsin avenue at the entrance to the Cathedral grounds. The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:45 a. m. and 11 a. m. with invitations extended to all who have been presented for confirmation at St. Alban's during the last two decades.

Members of the clergy formerly associated with the parish will honor Mr. Warner at the "home-coming service" at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Among those expected to be present are the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, warden of the College of Preachers; the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington Cathedral, and the Rev. William W. Shearer, the Rev. James Henry Garner, the Rev. Edward Douse, and the Rev. William Franklin Carpenter.

The Rev. Henry B. Hodgkins, assistant rector, and the Rev. Paul G. Linaweaver, vicar of St. David's and St. Patrick's chapels, will also assist in the service.

Invitations have been extended to the congregations of these chapels and also to members of St. Columba's Parish and St. George's Chapel, formerly connected with St. Alban's Parish.

HOOVER'S PARLEY ON HOARDING WILL CONVENE THIS MORNING

American Federation of Labor, the American Legion, the American Bankers Association, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, the American Association of Newspaper Publishers, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the American Engineering Council, and more than a score of fraternal and educational groups.

Through the direct contacts of these organizations the campaign at once will reach some 20,000,000 people in every section of the country. After today's organization meeting the participating groups will launch their own educational drives, which eventually will reach every adult in the country.

A permanent administrative organization will be established to coordinate the national educational effort, under the direction of Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News. In announcing his acceptance last night, Col. Knox said headquarters would be established next week, either in Washington or Chicago.

Legion Plans Jobs Drive.

Synchronized with the antihoarding effort, the American Legion will launch an intensively organized campaign through its more than 10,000 posts throughout the country to restore 1,000,000 men to employment within the space of 30 days. Preparations for this gigantic effort, which have been under way for three months, were reviewed for President Hoover yesterday, by National Commander Henry Stevens and John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the legion's national legislative committee.

Every industrial plant will be urged to restore one or more men to the pay roll, and legion posts in every city will undertake a house-to-house canvass to secure odd-job employment. In this canvass efforts will be made to assure work for at least one man in each block by the division of time among the neighboring householders. This campaign signalizes the most far-reaching patriotic service of the legion in peace time. Pledges of cordial support have been received from practically every city and State, Commander Stevens said.

President Will Speak.

President Hoover will open the conference today with an address which it is expected will emphasize the far-reaching effects of hoarding, and ways and means of educating the unsuspecting hoarder in the economic A-B-C's of sterile money.

Charles G. Dawes and the entire directorate of the recently launched Reconstruction Finance Corporation, also will attend the meeting. Mr. Dawes will outline for the conference the work and policies of the great credit organization to date.

In his call for the conference, President Hoover said that the "very act of creating the corporation has already shown results in the dissipation of fear and the restoration of public confidence."

"There is now a patriotic opportunity for our citizens unitedly to join in this campaign against the depression," he added. "Given such patriotic cooperation we can secure a definite upward movement and increase employment. That service is to secure the return of hoarded money back into the channels of industry. * * * Every dollar hoarded means the destruction of from $5 to $10 of credit. Credit is the blood stream of our economic life. Restriction or destruction of credit cripples the revival and expansion of agriculture, industry, commerce and employment. Every dollar returned from hoarding to circulation means putting men to work. * * * Every one hoarding currency injures not only his own prospects and those of his family, but is acting contrary to the common good."

Legislation to Aid Credit Facilities Is Introduced

(Associated Press.)

Legislation designed to loosen credit facilities of the intermediate credit banks was introduced in the House yesterday by Chairman Steagall, of the banking committee.

It would open to discount at Federal Reserve Banks notes payable to and bearing the indorsement of the credit banks, provided they were secured by notes now eligible in the Reserve System and not exceeding nine months' maturity.

A national blue sky law would be put into effect by three bills introduced by Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois.

His plan is to provide a commission of three to pass on all stock issues and to forbid the use of the mails and other interstate commerce agencies for advertising or transporting any stocks which are not compatible with the public interest.

Doctors would be permitted to prescribe beer, ale and porter under a measure introduced by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut. He proposed the legislation as an amendment to a bill by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, to permit the prescription of unlimited quantities of wine and spirits.

Representative Nelson (Republican), Wisconsin, proposed to exempt tobacco growers' cooperative associations from payment of any internal revenue tax on tobacco products manufactured from tobacco produced by its members.

Arlington Opposes U. S. Land Spread

Douglas Will Tell Board of Attempt to Get New Areas.

Arlington County Commonwealth's attorney, Lawrence W. Douglas, said yesterday that at the meeting of the county board today he will discuss at length the question of the Federal Government's attempting to acquire a large portion of land in the vicinity of the Highway Bridge.

Douglas stated that the matter has been thoroughly aired in the papers from the Government's standpoint, and at the meeting of the county board he will present the county's side of the question as he sees it.

At present the Federal Government owns approximately one-sixth of the total area of Arlington County, from which the county derives no taxes, and a bitter fight will be waged to prevent any further encroachment upon its territory, Douglas says.

POLICE LEADER ROW AGAIN STIRS FAIRFAX

Petitions Circulated Seek to Place Command in Hands of Sheriff.

The annual controversy as to who will command the police forces of Fairfax County broke out anew yesterday with petitions being circulated throughout the 25 voting precincts for signatures of the residents.

The petitions were addressed to State Senator John W. Rust and Delegate Edmund H. Allen, in the Virginia Assembly, asking them to secure the passage of an act which will place the entire force under the command of Sheriff E. P. Kirby.

Under the present arrangement the county has the sheriff's force and the county traffic police. The traffic force was founded several years ago. Since that time the force has been increased to four men, who patrol the entire county highway system. This force was placed under the supervision of the county road engineer, F. N. Larkin. Many of the citizens of the county have stated that they were dissatisfied with such arrangement.

At the last three sessions of the State Assembly an effort has been made to have the law changed so as to place the entire force under the sheriff, but the action has been successively defeated. This is the first attempt to approach the Legislature by petitions signed by the voters.

$500 Damages Asked After Auto Accident

Suit for $500 damages was filed against W. Randolph Talbott, of Rockville, Md., yesterday in Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, by Leon F. Curtiss, of Garrett Park, Md. Through Attorney Wilson L. Townsend, of Kensington, Md., the plaintiff alleges that through negligence of Mr. Talbott their automobiles collided at Grosvenor Lane on old Georgetown road causing his car to overturn.

The Curtiss car was damaged to the extent of $207.95 and he lost the use of the car for 30 days beside a depreciation of $50 in the value of the car because of the accident, Mr. Curtiss claims.

McCaffrey Files For Primary Race

Democratic Aspirants to Alexandria Council Now Are Five.

William J. McCaffrey, a former member of city council, entered the race for the Democratic primary at the eleventh hour, bringing the total aspirants to five. Th terms of Michael T. Dwyer and Benedict Weil will expire this summer and both will be candidates for reelection. Councilmen Dwyer and Weil were elected by the city council to succeed members who had resigned, the former to succeed Councilman Fannon and the latter to succeed Mayor Carroll Pierce, who had also been electe by council to succeed a resigned member, Mayor William Albert Smoot.

The three remaining members of council, Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, Arthur Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond, had been elected by the people, and their terms do not expire for another year.

Capt. T. M. Hamilton was the first to announce his candidacy, and he was followed by Charles L. Burgess, of Potomac, with Mr. McCaffrey as the last entrant.

Mr. Burgess was suggested by his friends at the time of the selection of Councilmen Dwyer and Weil. The chief claim for his appointment was the fact that he represented the recently annexed territory.

Model Residence Opens Tomorrow

Post Sponsors Home of Ultramodern and Beauty Features.

An event of great interest to home lovers will be the opening tomorrow of a new model home at 4422 Volta place northwest, in Foxall, known as the "Home of Tomorrow," built by Waverly Taylor, Inc., and sponsored by The Washington Post. This home has been decorated and furnished by Woodward & Lothrop, presenting the conception of their interior decorating department of a modern American home.

In presenting this "Home of Tomorrow," The Washington Post is offering to the public an opportunity to inspect a home containing every modern convenience, combining beauty with labor-saving equipment which will satisfy the exacting demands of home seekers.

There are many unusual features in the architecture of this house, one of the most attractive being the studio suite on the third floor, with its gabled ceiling, artistic dormer windows and stippled walls. From the sun porch there is a commanding view of the valley of the Potomac.

The group of "Homes of Tomorrow" is the ninth comprising a total of nearly 100 homes which have been built by Waverly Taylor, Inc., in Foxall. This home is located almost identically on the site of the old Spring Hill mansion of Henry Foxall and is replete with historical associations.

TEACHERS' SALARY CUTS ARE OPPOSED

Fairfax Board Recommends Present Scale Pointing to High Standard.

The school board of Fairfax County, at its monthly meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution addressed to the Virginia Assembly opposing any legislation which would require reduction in salaries for teachers in the county. Gov. Pollard in his message to the State Assembly recommended a 10 per cent State-wide cut in teachers' salaries.

The educational requirements of teachers have been raised and because of the nearness to Washington the board must pay adequate salaries in order to maintain a high standard.

The petition of the County Teachers Association asking that the five days' sick leave each year be made accumulative for a period of 3 years was passed over because of the present acute economical condition. Opinion was expressed by members that the present school term would possibly have to be shortened one and one-half months because of the lack of funds. Delinquent tax payments and shortage of State school funds were given as the cause of the shortage.

A normal-professional teaching certificate is required of all elementary school teachers by the board. A petition was received from patrons of the Colchester School asking that the requirements be waived so the present teacher could be retained next year. The request was denied by the board which refused to make any exceptions in its ruling.

The petition of the Lee-Jackson School League asking that a commercial course be given in that school next year was also refused because of the lack of space in the overcrowded building and lack of funds to purchase equipment and pay a teacher. The board expressed its willingness to install these courses in all county high schools as it realized the benefits to the students, but until the congestion in the schoolhouses is relieved or a centrally located vocational high school could be erected it did not feel that such a course could be installed in any of the high schools. If it were installed in one it would have to be installed in all five, the board said.

A drastic cut was made in salary of the county school mechanic. Beginning this month the board will pay $125 a month for the mechanic and his tools. The pay of the mechanic's helper was reduced to 37½ cents an hour and authority to employ a helper must first be obtained from the county school superintendent.

An offer to sell $5,000 of county school bonds maturing in 1944 was received from a Chicago firm. This firm offered to sell for the face value. The board authorized the Divisional Superintendent W. T. Woodson to offer to purchase the bonds at 95 per cent of their value from the county school sinking fund.

Folding Towers Studied For Arlington Bridge

Two plans are now being studied by officials of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission for substituting monumental shafts in the place of the tall columns originally planned and which were called unsafe for air commerce.

One of the ideas is to have jets of water spouting from the bases of the columns properly to "frame" the view from Washington across to Arlington. The water would be pumped from the Potomac River. The other plan is to construct folding towers operated by electric machinery located in the bases of the old columns.

Special Church Service To Mark Greek Holiday

The Name Day of Photios II, ecuominical patriarch of Constantinople, and supervisor of Greek Orthodox churches in America, will be celebrated tomorrow morning with a special mass at the St. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, at Sixth and C streets southeast.

Father Thomas Daniels, pastor, will preach a special sermon for the occasion. The Greek Minister, Charalampos Simopoulos, and his staff will attend the mass. The Greek fraternities, Ahepa and Gapa, will be represented, and recitations befitting the ceremony will be rendered by school children.

COLD WATER AT GENEVA.

The sudden interjection of the French viewpoint into the disarmament conference at Geneva was not an accident. France does not intend to be put in a defensive position. M. Tardieu has persistently demanded that the French delegation be given an opportunity to set forth its views before the opposition has a chance to speak. He was asked to yield his position on the program to Chancellor Bruening of Germany, who must leave soon after the general debate begins next week. But M. Tardieu refused. Apparently to avoid a similar strategem by the Germans, he interposed a French declaration of policy into a session called for the election of officers.

In this way the central controversy around which the entire conference will turn has been brought into the open at the very beginning. The attitude of France is not new. That country demands protection against Germany as the price of disarmament. By getting this thought before the conference at its very inception M. Tardieu doubtless intends to remove all illusions as to the chances for actual disarmament and to spare the delegates from irrelevant efforts. He hopes to make the French problem the major issue of the conference and to solidify the French position before other nations have had an opportunity to present the question of disarmament in a different light.

In the current proposal France suggests the creation of an international police force to guarantee the security of the world. In other words, France invites all other nations to join in a military project designed to protect France and maintain the status quo in Europe. Presumably, the "international police" would be directed by the League of Nations, in which France is the leading spirit. Just as soon as troops from other countries were organized and pledged to defend French soil, the Paris government would be willing to reduce the gigantic military machine that is now sustained by taxing the French people.

All the world knew that France would take this attitude, but it is discouraging to have the French minister of war precipitate the issue into the preliminaries of the conference. M. Tardieu has dashed cold water over the gathering even before it got fairly under way. The French delegation realizes that its viewpoint is wholly unacceptable to the United States and some other countries, and that there is not the slightest possibility of obtaining a security pact at this conference. In view of that fact M. Tardieu's premature declaration may be interpreted as a warning that the delegates are wasting their time at Geneva.

France is the strongest military power in the world. Unless the French agree to disarm, no other power will venture to scrap a single gun. Italy has made that plain, and so has Great Britain. The United States, with its miniature Army and its subtreaty Navy, is clear out of the disarmament picture. Japan is in a mood for mobilizing her full military strength rather than for disarmament. The whole problem, therefore, turns upon the attitude of France. M. Tardieu's statement of policy puts the conference definitely under a cloud of futility. The extent to which that cloud can be dissipated depends almost wholly upon the doubtful willingness of France to recede from the position taken.

TECHNICIANS FOR RUSSIA.

Many of the contracts with foreign companies entered in by the Soviet will shortly be concluded, and, according to representatives in Russia, they will not be renewed. The Soviet has discovered that by making contracts with individuals it can engage the services of technical experts far more cheaply than when the same men are employed through an organization, such as the Austin Co. at the Nijni motor plant; McKee & Freyn at the Magnetogorsk and Kusnetz metallargic plants, or Steward & James and Cook in coal mining.

Russian officials believe they are effecting a great saving by dispensing with the extra money which goes to the organization of the companies engaged. They seem to have lost sight of the fact that this pays for the accumulated knowledge and experience of the organization, as well as the internal discipline. [illegible]es apparent only when it [illegible]ber of specialists working [illegible]ust as good work, but it [illegible]hey will have different [illegible]which will usually lead [illegible]ifferent directions. In [illegible] modern Russia, it is [illegible]r them to coordinate [illegible]me. [illegible]ployment [illegible]ings.

unless there is a strong central authority to harmonize them and develop the necessary esprit de corps.

The group form of technical aid has succeeded in this country, not simply because of the power of the "greedy capitalists" at the head of the companies, but rather because by practice this has been found the most efficient method. The Soviet will have to find this out for itself. The practice may follow the way of many other Moscow experiments, notably the five-day-unbroken-week. Two years ago Sunday, as a universal rest day, was abolished, varying the holiday for different individuals. Now it appears the new system is to be discontinued and work will be stopped for a regular weekly day of rest. In Moscow holidays fall on the sixth, twelfth, eighteenth, twenty-fourth and thirtieth of every month. Only public utilities will be continuously operated, as they are in other countries.

ABETTING THE DEPRESSION.

Opposition to the Glass banking bill is steadily gaining momentum. Protests from bankers and groups of financiers are now augmented by an outcry from security holders and citizens who occasionally use bank credit to carry them through difficult situations. It is apparent that the small borrower as well as stock brokers and speculators would suffer from the drastic provisions of this measure. Its vicious deflationary provisions are beginning clearly to overshadow the constructive sections.

Experts seem to be agreed that the Glass bill would accentuate the depression and delay recovery. For example, the finance and currency committee of the New York State Chamber of Commerce appraises the measure in these words:

> Your committee is convinced that this bill would intesify the very evils with which the business world is now contending—the hoarding of funds, the sacrifice of securities regardless of intrinsic value, the liquidation of loans by banks and the withdrawal of credit needed by municipalities and corporations, as well as by individual business men—and would continue the deflation of all values and delay indefinitely the restoration of confidence.

In an effort to curb speculation the authors of this measure seem to have run wild. The bill would deny the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve System to member banks "for the purpose of making or carrying loans covering investments, or facilitating the carrying of, or trading in, stocks, bonds or other investment securities other than obligations of the Government of the United States." This strikes at the investor as well as the speculator. Citizens whose savings of a lifetime were in jeopardy for want of a few hundred dollars would find the credit facilities of banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System closed to them.

Each Federal Reserve bank would become a watchdog over member banks. If any member bank lent money to an individual to carry his investments that institution might be suspended for a year from use of the Federal Reserve credit facilities.

Another section of the bill provides a penalty rate for the rediscount of even United States bonds. Any bank would be denied the privilege of securing credit from the Federal Reserve System on fifteen-day notes if it should "increase its outstanding loans made to any borrower upon collateral security." The effect of these radical provisions would be to force the liquidation of securities by member banks as well as by individuals. Vast quantities of securities would be thrown upon the market regardless of deflated prices. Stocks and bonds would undoubtedly be swept to lower levels, and panic might ensue.

The probable effect of this measure on the currency has been given too little attention. Even under ordinary conditions the great corporations of the United States now finance their own transactions. Hence, there is less call for commercial bank loans. During these hard times commercial paper handled by the banks is extremely scarce. Under the requirements of the Glass bill there would not be enough commercial paper and gold to secure the volume of Federal Reserve notes now outstanding, and a shortage of currency might result. With $1,300,000,000 already hoarded this becomes a vital issue.

Senator Glass is trying to soothe a distracted bull with a red flag. Unless the deflationary provisions are stricken from the bill in the course of the revision under which it is now passing in the Senate banking and currency committee the entire measure will have to be jettisoned to save the financial structure of America from a severe jolt.

FRIEND OF THE POOR.

Senator La Follette takes great pride in serving as champion of the poor and the unemployed. In fact, he loves the downtrodden so much that he spent two days trying to convince the Senate that they should have a dole and inserted into the Congressional Record irrelevant material which cost the taxpayers $8,250. All for sweet charity's sake!

The Wisconsin insurgent is not willing to trust such vital decisions to the judgment of Congress. So he wrote a few hundred letters to the mayors of Anaheim, Colton, Kewanee, Gillespie, Cuyahoga Falls, Uvalde, Nacogdoches, Pecos, Goose Creek and similar metropolises in all parts of the country. Were not these mayors in favor of letting Uncle Sam supply them with charity funds? Senator La Follette could not let Congress pass upon such a momentous issue without giving every member an opportunity to read the voluminous correspondence he received from Squirrel Hill and Podunk, even though he had tabulated the replies. Hence, the whole thing went into the Record, without objection from a single member of the Senate.

More than 165 pages of that erudite publication cry out for (and against) Mr. La Follette's dole. It is impossible to estimate how much of the Government's money the Wisconsonian spent in collecting this worthless propaganda, but the $8,250 which it cost to print it in the Record is doubtless a small item.

The La Follette-Costigan bill would provide about $45 each for the 8,300,000 men who, according to figures accepted by Senator La Follette, are now unemployed. On that basis, his little indulgence in vanity last Tuesday cost enough to relieve 183 families. But that sum can never reach the poor. It was recklessly wasted. Instead of accomplishing any good it will merely create a larger hole in the taxpayer's pocket.

The value of Senator La Follette's services to the Government is automatically appraised at $10,000 per year. When he makes a practice of frittering away within a few minutes a sum almost equal to his annual salary his net worth to the Government may easily be calculated. The poor must, indeed, be proud to have a champion who can be so prodigal in their behalf.

SOUTH'S TWENTY-YEAR PLAN.

Business leaders of the Southeast have formed an economic council for the purpose of promoting a twenty-year program for the reorganization of production and consumption in that section. The immediate aims are the alleviation of present distress and unemployment and the development of greater independence of the individual worker. An effort will be made to have the banks refuse to grant credit for one crop plans or for the planting of wornout soil. Banks in eight Alabama counties have successfully applied credit restriction by compelling crop diversification and general vegetable gardening which would provide a complete living to the family.

An extension of the grading of cotton and awarding of prizes, and payment of premium prices for long cotton, will be advocated by the council in its effort to improve the grade of this product. The organization further fosters a "live-at-home" program, the wider use of a secondary power, and the maintaining of a tariff on Southern agricultural products as long as industrial rates continue. The plan also seeks to develop additional industries alongside the steel mills, mining and chemical plants, so that Southern raw materials will not be shipped out and later returned as finished goods.

It is the belief of Hugh McRae, general chairman of the council, that agricultural and industrial work can be linked in the Southeast. Cotton and tobacco are grown in about 100 days, leaving a large part of the year during which cropmakers might be employed in mills. This practice is already current in Massachusetts, and the council points out that Belgium is weathering the depression better than many countries because this part-time method is in use there. In some sections of the Southeast the plan has been successfully tried.

The Cannon mills at Concord and Kanapolis, N. C., have led in this field. Mill workers have been urged to plant gardens of their own, and a good crop of vegetables for winter has been stored and canned. The cotton mills at Greenville, S. C., have been paying better prices for long cotton, and Southern consumers are using more of the high-quality finished goods turned out by local mills. Unemployed mill workers have cultivated anew the deserted farms in the vicinity of Columbia, S. C., and have been able to grow sufficient food for their own living. Through their 20-year plan members of the Southeastern economic council look for the rehabilitation of their part of the country.

Publishers of books have decided to proceed cautiously in putting out new books. Evidently the book-a-month idea is gaining.

Imagine how many additional millions would be employed if there were no traffic officers!

The Treasury mints only a few silver dollars because there is no demand for them. Where have they tried to pass them out?

OVERSEAS TELEPHONE

From the Bell Telephone Quarterly.

Five years ago the speech bridge with which Bell System scientists and engineers had succeeded in spanning the North Atlantic was formally dedicated to public service by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. On that opening day of January 7, 1927, the territory served by the transatlantic telephone channel was limited to the metropolitan districts of New York and London, embracing some 2,500,000 telephones.

Since then the telephone horizon has been constantly widened. Today it includes 32,829,000 telephones, or about 92 per cent of those in service throughout the world. The area thus served includes most of North America, much of South America, all of Great Britain and northern Ireland, practically all of Europe from Brittany to the Black Sea, Australia, and a city in Africa. It includes, moreover, the islands of Java and Sumatra in the East Indies, Sicily, the Canary Islands, Bermuda and the Hawaiian Archipelago. Seven large passenger liners, while at sea, maintain telephone contact with this great network through the ship-to-shore service. And the limit has by no means been reached.

The voice of President Hoover has frequently been borne overseas by the Bell System's radio telephone facilities. Three years ago this month he greeted the King and Queen of the Belgians meeting with governmental dignitaries in Brussels. When telephone service was established between the United States and South America Mr. Hoover made the ceremonies notable by speaking with the presidents of Uruguay and Chile, seated in their respective capitals, and a day or so later he talked over the new channel with the President of Argentina.

Since that time Mr. Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson have employed the overseas telephone so often to reach United States officials abroad and the heads of European governments that, in the words of various newspaper editorials, they have inaugurated a new departure in diplomatic usage. In fact, Mr. Stimson last fall asked for a permanent installation in his office of several "head sets" so that members of his staff might at times listen in to his overseas conversations and make observations and notes as needed.

When Premier Laval arrived in the United States last fall he used the transatlantic telephone almost every day of his visit in America to talk with members of his ministry in Paris. Shortly after M. Laval arrived Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister of Italy, and his wife also reached these shores for a visit. Both used the overseas service to talk to their homeland, Mr. Grandi to report to Premier Mussolini, and Mrs. Grandi to speak to her children who had been left at home.

POST HASTE.

Don't notice Huey Long's opposition to the Mellon and Mills appointments. It's an affliction. He just can't endure to see any one else take office.

After taking Harbin, Japan decides not to annex any additional territory in northern Manchuria—there isn't any more.

Uncle Sam can afford to wish John Bull luck with his tariff. England not only has a big deficit, but a heavy adverse trade balance to overcome.

Here's hoping the national treasure hunt now being organized will have more success than the Kingfish when he searched for the wife's hoarded funds and couldn't get the cotton back in the mattress.

The oracles are busy, predicting that a Russo-Jappo combination intends to conquer and divide China, Indo-China and India, and that Al Smith's long-expected statement tomorrow will make him a candidate.

Not at all, Reginald; Representative Patman serves as a useful guidepost for new members. By simply taking the opposite side they know they are right.

However, the new series of Peck's Bad Boy will have to be written about the congressional antics of Fiorello LaGuardia.

Japan advises the newly allied quartet of nations that any further suggestions regarding conditions of peace will be welcomed, but to write only on one side of the paper, so it can be used for military orders.

Gov. Roosevelt is praised and berated for his abandonment of the League of Nations; at Geneva some delegates find the conflict in China cause for disarmament, while others consider it proof of the necessity for strong defense forces. It would be a stupid world if we all thought alike.

Many folks are not forceful enough to be convincing. You must say things as though you believed them, like Graham McNamee talking about yeast.

Don't worry. The attack by the ghost of free silver hasn't even a one-in-sixteen chance of injuring the gold standard.

REVALUATION.

Let us be sensible; let us be men!
Yesterday never is coming again.
Whatever the future for us has in store,
It will be different from what's gone before.
The old days are over, the new days are here,
And property's worth what it sells for this year.

Let's be courageous and let's face the truth.
Men in their fifties no longer have youth.
To sigh for lost pleasures and customs is vain;
Old dogs can never be puppies again.
We may wish for the past till our faces turn black,
But the thing that was yesterday never comes back!

We have known laughter and sunshine, but now
We must brave tempest and trial somehow.
Once life seemed pleasant, but now it is stern,
A new set of values today we must learn.
A new code of courage, a rough weather creed,
And faith in tomorrow are things that we need.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE—Yesterday you expressed an opinion that was unjust and unreasonable. Yet when I began to uncover and examine the process by which the opinion was made, I discovered that you had reasoned well and followed a logical train of thought from premise to conclusion.

The fault was not in your thinking, but in the material that shaped your thoughts. You got the wrong answer because you began with the wrong figures.

It wasn't a matter of great importance, but the lesson it offers you is the most important one you can learn.

It is, briefly, the ancient truth that one can't gather figs from thistles—that any opinion based on error and ignorance must be a foolish and unreasonable opinion.

Suppose you see a man branded on the forehead with the letters "ST." If some one tells you the letters stand for the words "Sheep Thief," you avoid the man as you would something unclean. That is a natural reaction and easily explained. But suppose your informant is wrong in his interpretation and that the letters are in fact an abbreviation of the word "Saint." Now your avoidance of the man though inspired by a contempt for evil, makes you appear an enemy of saints and your position is indefensible.

Many people who seem foolish are in fact no less intelligent than others who appear to better advantage. Their opinions are absurd and their conclusions ridiculous because they are built on a foundation of ignorance.

People who "expose their ignorance" in conversation or in the public prints may seem hopelessly dumb but in all probability their opinions would be sensible and praiseworthy if they had known the facts when their opinions were formed.

That is the thing I would warn you against. An opinion once formed is hard to change. Habit and pride support and defend it. No matter how wrong it is, no array of facts can uproot it without a great struggle.

Watch your opinions closely. Don t let one form until you have obtained all available evidence to make it sound and true.

You are entitled to your own opinion, but of what value is the right to be wrong? There is nothing respectable about an opinion based on ignorance. Get your facts right, my dear, and your native common sense will do the rest. Love, DAD.

Not the World's Mint.

Boston Transcript.

By determining to stop the sale of American gold coin to speculative gentry abroad—who want gold eagles merely for the purpose of reselling them at an exorbitant profit to frightened hoarders in Europe—the New York banks have taken a step not only sound but altogether right. The United States has no duty whatsoever to supply coinage, whether gold, silver or brass, to the people of foreign nations. By law, as by sovereign authority, such a supply is in each instance the exclusive function of a government toward its own people, and not toward any others. If the French people want gold coin, it is "up to" the French government to decide whether or not the mints of France shall supply it. The same holds true of the Netherlands and the Dutch government, as well as any other country in the world. Nothing whatever in the rule or practice of the gold standard calls upon Uncle Sam to operate as a mint for the world, though under ordinary conditions, as a simple matter of convenience for others as well as ourselves, he may from time to time do so.

A Real Danger.

Detroit Free Press.

The representatives of the Reserve officers of the country have called attention to a decidedly serious danger to America, by appearing in Washington to protest against the threat of extermination that has been aimed at the citizens military training activities of the War Department, under plea of Government economy.

Government economy we must certainly have; but it will not be economy, it will be insanity and a tempting of long suffering Providence, to destroy or materially weaken the Citizens Training Camps and Reserve Officers Training Corps of the United States.

Outside the Regular Army, these two institutions are the only Federal agencies we have that put citizens of the United States in a position to go into the field in defense of their country in time of danger from either foregin or domestic attack.

In spite of all the pacifists say to the contrary, everybody knows, too, that the world is full of trouble, turmoil, envy, distrust and treachery. Continually we find ourselves confronted with examples of the sad results of national inability to guard against depredation and aggression.

A Campaign Issue.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

While both political parties are quarreling about several controversial questions they show a tendency to overlook completely a most important issue, perhaps the dominant issue in America today. That is the restoration of enterprise to the individual and the withdrawal of Government from the multitude of paternalistic functions it has taken over.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

If You Want Economy, Cut Down the Number of Congressmen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Quite a bit of hullabaloo at present is being raised about consolidation of government departments, with the purpose in view of reducing the number of clerks and thereby adding more to the unemployed list. These bills have the approval of Speaker Garner, who is mentioned conspicuously as a presidential candidate, with a big appeal being made for him, because his sympathies lie with the poor man.

Speaker Garner's approval of consolidation of government departments at a time like the present, when every clerk that is laid off will be just that many more added to the unemployed, certainly is far from being sympathetic to the poor. These consolidation bills are the most inhuman bills ever brought before Congress, because they are so untimely. Of all times in the history of the country to consolidate departments, no worse time as far as the working man is concerned, could be found for such legislation than the present.

If Speaker Garner really desires to cut down expenses, and not at the expense of the poor man, why not introduce a bill reducing the vast army of congressmen? We now have in Congress nearly 500 members, which is about 400 more than necessary to carry on the work. If each State were allowed a maximum of two congressmen, and they could easily do the work, there would be a savings to the taxpayer of over $10,000,000 a year. This would be a real saving, and not at the expense of the poor man. If such a bill were referred to the voters for a referendum, there would be no doubt of its approval. VOTER.

War "Prosperity" a Deadly Poison—Urges People Not to Be Misled Into War.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Are we headed for another world war? And what for?

Disarmament conference, League of Nations and Kellogg peace pact notwithstanding, it won't be difficult to stir up prowar sentiment at a time when millions upon millions of people everywhere are jobless and hopeless and haven't much to lose anyway. If anything, war means a "living"—and perhaps so-called prosperity for a bit. That is all we can expect from a civilization that has advanced to a philosophy of life that aims to get all you can for yourself, and devil take the next fellow.

But where are the voices of the peace organizations, the churches and every man, woman and child who knows of the blood that was spilled in "making the world safe for democracy?" Think of the lives that are being slowly wasted and lost through undernourishment and despair because of reparations and war debts. Shan't we ever learn?

Thinks Boycott and Show of Force Would Prevent War in the Orient.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a coward, as are most Americans when it is a case of thinking and acting individually. Then, too, it will cost me 2 cents to send this letter.

Some say boycotting Japan would cause war. Now, Japan means business. The way to meet business is with business. Our boycotting Japan outright, and sending every war vessel in the East into Chinese waters to protect Americans and our interests (not to fight or think of fighting Japan) not only would not cause war, but would do more to make sure there would be no war than anything we could do.

I do not believe in "fool" talking, or any talking at all. Japan is intelligent. I do not listen to words, but actions impress me.

They say we might interrupt $300,000,000 trading with Japan. But, although I know money is more important than people or principle, excuse old-fashioned ideas—that statement is fallacious. At most only 20 per cent, $60,000,000 is profit to America. D. E. MOTLEY.

Disappearance of "Keeley Cure Institutes" Cited as Proof That Prohibition Prohibits.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the 90's there were in the United States over 350 "institutes" for the cure of inebriates. Many thousands of drunkards were treated by them every year. The Keeley Institute at Dwight, Ill., alone turned out over 50,000 graduates annually.

But as the dry sentiment grew and the States began to abolish the saloon, the "jag hospitals" began to lose business. As States would go dry, the liquor cures would go broke. A recent investigation showed only 30 of a former total of 350. The big Keeley hospital at Dwight has been sold for a veterans' hospital and under prohibition the number of drink cures has been reduced 90 per cent.

Should this not prove to us as a nation that the prohibition law has not failed. MRS. F. O. SWAIN.

Memorial to Susan B. Anthony Is Already in the Capitol.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An article in The Post of January 31 pleads for a memorial (in marble) to honor a late distinguished suffragist.

May I beg to remind the writer that such a memorial exists, including two other equally famous leaders of the women movement. Its arrival at the United States Capitol, where it is placed, was marked by appropriate exercises of a dedicatory nature, participated in by national associations, which had worked for years, shoulder to shoulder, to achieve the goal.

A short business meeting will be followed by a reception with Miss Helen Harman, State regent, Mrs. Arthur Fields, chairman of patriotic education, and Mr. John M. Gibbs, of the National George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be special guests. Mrs. David D. Caldwell, national vice president general, and Mrs. John M. Beavers, also of the N. S. D. A. R., will attend.

Bal Boheme Costume Rules Are Abated.

Due to the fact that the Army and Navy reception at the White House will take place on the same night as the Bal Boheme of the Arts Club and in response to a number of inquiries from those who wish to go on from the reception to the carnival fete at the Willard Monday night the stringent rules as to costume will, where necessary, be abated on behalf of those desiring to attend both affairs.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, who is one of the costume judges at the ball, will be in his full dress uniform. The other judges are Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson and Mr. Alexander Buell Trowbridge. Mrs. Patterson will be in a Pierrot costume and Mr. Trowbridge will appear as Sir Francis Drake.

The Bay Ridge Civic Association entertained at its annual winter banquet last evening in the garden house of the Dodge Hotel. Cards and dancing followed the banquet. Dr. Horatio Dorman, president of the association, presided. Mr. E. M. Thore, who has charge of the entertainment for the community, was in charge of the arrangements for the banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Norment, jr., of Wardman Park Hotel, have staying with them as their house guests, Mrs. Cyrus Polley, of Buffalo, N. Y., the mother of Mrs. Norment, and Mrs. J. M. Black, also of Buffalo.

The Kenmore teas have proved such a source of pleasure to friends at home and abroad that they will continue through February. The garden which has been done by the Garden Club of Virginia is green as spring, and Betty Washington's old open fire, with the colored mammy in front of it, is a joy to all. The fame of these teas has gone far when two distinguished guests from Massachusetts dropped in last Saturday, timing their visit to Washington so they could enjoy a Kenmore tea.

The hostess for this afternoon will be Mrs. Mayo Smith, Mrs. Lee Stoffregan and Mrs. Charles A. Carmichael.

The scientific colleagues of Dr. Albert Hassall, scientist in the Department of Agriculture, will entertain at a dinner this evening in the garden house of the Dodge Hotel in honor of Dr. Hassall's seventieth birthday anniversary. Covers will be laid for 50 guests. Dr. Schwartz will preside.

In addition to members of the scientific staff of the Department of Agriculture, there will be guests from the United States Public Health Service, from Johns Hopkins University and the United States National Museum.

The principal speakers will be Dr. Paul Bartsch, of the United States National Museum; Dr. W. W. Cort, of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. N. A. Cobb, of the Bureau of Plant Industry; Dr. M. C. Hall, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and Dr. U. G. Houck, associate chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

Dr. Benjamin Schwartz and Dr. Maurice M. Hall are in charge of the arrangements for the dinner.

Mrs. J. Temple Gwathney entertained a company of seven at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, where she is spending the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Fridley entertained at dinner last evening at her residence in Longfellow street.

Mr. Benjamin R. Holcombe and his children will leave Newport today and join Mrs. Holcombe in New York for a few days before going to Stewart, Fla., where Mr. and Mrs. Holcombe have taken a house for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollin H. Wilbur have motored to Washington from their home in St. Davids, Pa., and are stopping at the Carlton.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie has canceled all engagements because of illness.

Mr. Richard H. Jones has returned to Washington after spending several days in New York, and is again with her uncle, Mr. Ralph Snowden Hill, in his home in Georgetown.

Mrs. Jones will entertain at dinner this evening for a group of out-of-town guests.

New Corsets —we must have

Very smart aids to achieving this new slender, higher-waisted feminine outline we hear so much about. Pictured are two, among many others, in a collection of new, finer models.

Beautifully cut is this girdle, extending slightly above the normal waistline—fashioned of fine English broadcloth and elastic, $8.50. The lace brassiere is designed to accent the curves of the bust—$1.50.

This low-backed all-in-one garment, fashioned of fine broadcloth, holds the figure firmly yet with great suppleness, giving a high molded waist—and outlined bust. In a very lovely peach shade, $10.50.

DIAL FLASHES

THE new WMAL television station, W2XAF, will be formally opened tonight with a three-hour program, staged in the studios at 712 Eleventh street northwest. Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, will be the principal speaker. The first two hours of the inaugural entertainment will be broadcast on WMAL's regular wave length.

Television receivers have been installed in three local hotels, so that guests may watch actual reception. Because of the limited space, admittance to WMAL studios tonight is by special invitation only.

The Metropolitan Opera annual Wagner matinee cycle, including the music-dramas of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," will be broadcast over WJZ and a Nation-wide network of the NBC.

The cycle, which is to be presented in addition to the regular Saturday series now being broadcast from the Metropolitan, will consist of "Tannhauser," February 12, at 3 p. m.; "Tristan und- Isolde," February 18; "Das Rheingold," February 26; "Die Walkure," March 3; "Siegfried," March 11, and "Gotterdammerung," March 17.

It is not likely that WRC will be able to broadcast the series locally.

Today's offering from the Metropolitan will be the second scene of the first act of Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," performed for the first time in this country by the Metropolitan Company a few weeks ago.

The broadcast will bring Lawrence Tibbett, in the title role, and Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, to the radio audience (WRC, 3:18 p. m.).

SENT HERE from New York by Columbia to add eclat to the homecoming of Kate Smith, Bob Taplinger let very little grass grow under his feet in doing everything he could to make the event a success.

Bob originally hailed from Atlantic City, which would seem to us, who have to pay so much a day for the privilege of visiting the seashore resort, a pretty good place to live. But young Taplinger had other ideas. Having served without enthusiasm, an apprenticeship as a dress buyer's assistant, he decided to go into the wear business, in which the Paleys, friends of his father, were engaged in Philadelphia.

William Paley, president of Columbia, offered him a job in radio instead, which Taplinger snapped up. One of Bob's assignments was to devise a means of broadcasting applause so that it would sound louder than it did in the studios.

"Get me an applause machine," commanded Julius Seebach, Columbia program manager.

"I went from theater to theater, asking for an 'applause machine,' and they thought I was crazy."

Taplinger, however, was equal to the occasion and quickly devised a method of producing "thunderous applause." Commenting upon present day developments of sound effects, he said the most difficult thing they had found to imitate in a radio studio was a street car.

Bob is best known for his series of radio interviews, "Meet the Artist," during which he introduces to the audience each week one of the outstanding radio stars.

AN amendment which Representative Ewin L. Davis, of Tennessee, chairman of the House radio committee, is drafting to the radio act, probably will propose restrictions on advertising over the radio. The limitations Representative Davis has in mind would be applied on a basis of time used and the character of the matter broadcast.

Transmitters of over 1,000 watts would be allowed to advertise only by identifying the sponsor of the program and the nature of his business, although less powerful stations would be permitted to broadcast additional commercial information.

Representative Davis, a Democrat, expressed approval of the investigation of radio programs, earnings of the stations, &c., recently started by Senator Couzens, of Michigan, a Republican.

Indicating that he would work in harmony with him, Representative Davis declared that Senator Couzens' investigation will serve to warn the broadcasters against commercial abuse of their privileges.

A temporary radio circuit has been opened between New York and the League of Nations radio station at Geneva by the RCA for the period of the disarmament conference. It will be used for governmental messages and press dispatches only.

SINGING members of Congress evidently intend showing the singing Marines what they can do. Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of Virginia, on the occasion of the George Washington celebration to be broadcast from the Capitol of the United States, February 22, will sing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." Mr. Woodrum, who has an excellent voice, will be accompanied by Capt. Taylor Branson and the United States Marine Band.

At a later date Representative William P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, a veteran of the World War, will sing some war songs with the band.

Microphones will be installed in the home of George Washington at Mount Vernon, Va., for the first time on February 22. The National Broadcasting Co. received permission yesterday from the Mount Vernon Ladies Association which will enable them to have its announcers describe the pilgrimage of 25,000 or more Americans to the shrine on that day.

What is called the most important single event in the observance of the eighth annual National Drama Week will be presented in an hour's broadcast (WRC, 11:30 o'clock tonight), sponsored by the Drama League of America.

Arthur Byron, of "The Devil Passes," will make the opening address in behalf of the Drama League and Actors' Equity. A scene from the production, "Distant Drums," starring Pauline Lord, will be introduced by Dan Totheroh, with Miss Lord, Edward Ellis and Edward Pawley.

Leslie Banks and Helen Chandler, stars of "Springtime for Henry," will be presented in a scene from this play. The last scene to be broadcast will be from "Mourning Becomes Electra," Alice Brady and Mme. Alla Nazimova will be the players.

The program, "America at Work," may be heard over the WJZ network at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A SERIES of half-hour religious services, to be continued through Lent, will be opened by the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips on Ash Wednesday. • • • The roar of Niagara Falls again will be heard by tuning WABC direct at 9 p. m. tonight • • • Guy Lombardo will add another broadcast to their weekly schedule when they are heard on the "Bright Spot" feature tonight (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.) • • • Justice Edward R. Finch, of the Supreme Court of New York State, will talk on "Needed Changes in Court Administration and Procedure" during the National Democratic Club Forum (WMAL, 2:30 p. m., today) • • • Disarmament as a world issue will be discussed at the Foreign Policy Association luncheon (WEAF, 12:45 p. m.) • • • "Grand Ol' Opry" is coming to the corners of the Nation (WRC, 1 a. m., Sunday morning). A cast of 50 entertainers will be presented from the studios of WSM, Nashville, Tenn. This feature has been a Tennessee favorite for almost six years and is now making its first appearance on the network.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

To be truly soignee one must wear the proper costume slips! (Says Dah-ray.)

New York, Feb. 5—A woman is only as elegant as she is complete!

Like the chain that is, logically, only as strong as its weakest link, you can easily see how a woman is only as elegant as she is. However soignee she might be everywhere in every other detail, one false or slovenly or careless thing will make her—exactly as elegant as this one thing indicates, and not one whit or spec more so!

No use denying it. That scraggly coiffeur that you have almost every excuse in the world for not having had dressed; those fingernails that you didn't have time to have enameled; that collar that should have been changed, that strap that is pinned or soiled, that spot you forgot to remove from the front of your dress. And just as scraggly, unmanicured or spotty as any one detail is, that's just as scraggly, spotty or unkempt as you are.

Sad, sad—it's a tough life! But you might as well face the facts, because when you realize this—you will just naturally and instinctively be much, much more careful of such things than when you shut your eyes to them—or try to, rather, for no one ever really can.

Remember, Saturday is our elegance day—the day when we set aside at least two hours for wardrobe repairs that have been jotted down on a pad tacked to the closet door during the week. And while we are about it, let's look over our costume slip situation, shall we?

Every dark dress should have a costume slip. Of course, some don't, but lovely ladies do! And if you haven't one for each dress, at least have three or four separate ones, to wear with all your dark dresses. And have them of a dark material, but one that washes, and one that will not come off on your lingerie. And see that they are on the same lines as the dress that they are to be worn under. That is, straight slips for stright skirts, flaring or circular ones for circular skirts. And for long skirted evening gowns, have an underskirt, carefully made into four or six gores, which fastens around the waist.

The dress with a guimpe requires a special type of costume slip. Have at the sketch, and see my idea of the correct slip to go with this type of dress. In the little sketch I show you the dress, worn right over this slip and guimpe, to which the sleeves are sewn.

Hints From A Happy Housewife.

"Toiling for leisure or loving can be minimized, if one uses one's head as well as one's hands and feet!" says sister Lionne, who should know, because she uses 'em all. She wonders if you know that for solid silver pieces, you can boil them a few minutes in water that completely covers them, with about a level teaspoon of soda added to it, and simply wipe the tarnish off after such a bath? a toothbrush for the filagree, and a soft cloth to polish them after they are dry. Or, if some pieces are stubborn, they can be polished after the tarnish is off, with a prepared polish and chamois—but it saves hours of rubbing to have the tarnish water-and-sodaed off first.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SOME PEOPLE CAN REDUCE.

DR. ROONEY'S views on the weight question are very disheartening to those who want magic remedies by which their weight can be set at a desired figure overnight. Many people send me letters by special delivery asking for magic diets. Some want replies by special delivery. Many say they are willing to give 18 days to making the change, and some put no time limit, but the tone of three-fourths of the letters indicates a sudden willingness to right conditions that have lasted a long time, but without indication of continuity of purpose.

It is not a difficult matter to reply to these letters with answers that will cause momentary happiness. Dr. Tanner, in his 40-day fast, demonstrated that a person could go without food for that length of time, and by doing so could reduce to almost any weight desired.

The possibilities of increasing weight are not so great but, at that, a man can eat a good deal of salt food, such as sauerkraut for a day or so, drinking water or beer meanwhile, and end with a very heavy meal of bread, meat, and potatoes, and increase his weight a few pounds thereby.

But in answering such letters a reasonable consideration for truth makes it necessary to add that changes in weight produced by very temporary and artificial procedures, diets, or what not, are only temporary.

Dr. Rooney's thesis is that a something within us determines the weight pattern and that diet is nothing more than a servant of that something. It may be a definite change in some ductless gland such as the thyroid, the pituitary, or the gonads. In that event the abnormality in weight goes by some such name as pathologic obesity. To change it treatment must be directed to the ductless gland which is at fault.

In another group of cases it is not so easily determined where the trouble lies. The pattern is fixed by something, but just what it is is not so easy to say.

But Dr. Rooney has encouragement for people in this group. By changing their habits permanently, not temporarily, they can change their weight patterns. They can lose weight or gain as they wish and they can hold the gains they make. To do so they must enlist not for 18 days or 90 days, but for the duration of the war.

Those who have the patience and strength of purpose to adopt a proper plan and to follow it for the remainder of their years of vigor will get results. He offers no hope to the "fly by nighters," the people whose minds do not run beyond the magic carpet yarn.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

TWENTY YEARS OF LOVE.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I am very much interested in your column each day, and am very glad you are asking for something good about our husbands. I have a model husband, indeed. Not by my making, either. I have tried in my feeble way to do my part these 20 years we have been together, but failed miserably at times. I have learned lessons galore from my kindly and thoughtful companion.

He comes home from a very tiresome job each night cheerful and happy. We have four lovely children, and our comfort and happiness is his first thought. Space would not permit he to tell of his kindness to us. He's always waiting to do something to help some one. He calls me "Mother," which I love, and I pray each day I may be more appreciative and affectionate, which is the thing all husbands love.

May I suggest to girls of today, who see their married life as tragic: Always speak kind words, talk difficulties over, love each other, have a family, and happiness will be yours.

HAPPY MOTHER.

We do so hope that Mr. C. W. I., who wrote that scathing letter to our column regarding Elsie and her perfect husband, whom he characterized as a hopeless effeminate because he helped Elsie with the dinner, will read the above acknowledgment by another wife of a husband's unfailing consideration and devotion. Not only Mr. C. W. I., but all husbands who nag and bark and otherwise render life a burden, could with great advantage give a little thought to this matter of registering as a husband. Understand, we are far from asserting that husbands as a rule or a class nag and bark to show their authority; on the contrary, we have always believed the average husband quite a tame affair, a worthy soul who stumbled into a noose and soon learned to wear it with ease if not with grace. Only a few continue to rear and plunge and kick at the traces. But those few make quite an uproar and cause a lot of uneasiness among the bystanders. The wise ones trot along in orderly manner, and usually find that system brings the best results. The very wise ones even step high, wide and handsome as they trot along and succeed in convincing the onlookers that they enjoy their own performance—which we consider sporting of them. But here and there you find a Mr. C. W. I. who tears up the turf and gnaws at the bit, and only succeeds in adding to his own misery and hurting only himself. Mr. C. W. I. believes that all normal couples quarrel; that the husband who helps get dinner is an effeminate, and that married people who make love to each other are sickening. Is his opinion the opinion of the average husband? Are two people selfish, foolish and useless just because they enjoy marriage and each other? For the sake of the thousands of lovers who, according to the census, failed to keep the marriage score booming in 1931, let us have a few opinions!

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY DINNER.

(For February 12.)

Shrimp Cocktail
Breaded Veal Steak and Mushrooms
Creamed New Potatoes
Broccoli with Cheese
Hot Rolls Currant Jelly
Patriotic Salad
Strawberry Shortcake Coffee

Breaded Veal Steak and Mushrooms

2 pounds veal cutlet or steak
1-3 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1½ cups rolled cracker crumbs
6 tablespoons fat
1 cup water
2 cups mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter

Have veal cut 2-3-inch thick. Cut into serving pieces and sprinkle with paprika and salt. Dip in crumbs and then in egg which has been mixed with milk. Dip again into crumbs and pat them in place. Heat fat in frying pan. Add and brown the meat quickly. Place in baking pan and add the water. Cover, cook slowly 1¼ hours. During last 20 minutes of cooking add mushrooms and butter.

Patriotic Salad

3 cups tomatoes
4 celery leaves
2 slices onions
4 whole cloves
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
1 cup white cream cheese
1 cup stiff mayonnaise
8 tiny silk flags

Mix tomatoes, seasonings and sugar. Cover, cook slowly 20 minutes. Strain thoroughly. Heat to boiling point, add the gelatin and water which have been soaking 5 minutes. Pour into individual round molds. Chill until stiff. Unmold on lettuce, spread tops with cheese and surround with the mayonnaise. Insert flags and serve with cheese bars arranged log cabin fashion.

To clean brass, apply two tablespoons of hot vinegar and one tablespoon of salt. Rub well with a soft cloth and wash in hot soap suds.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

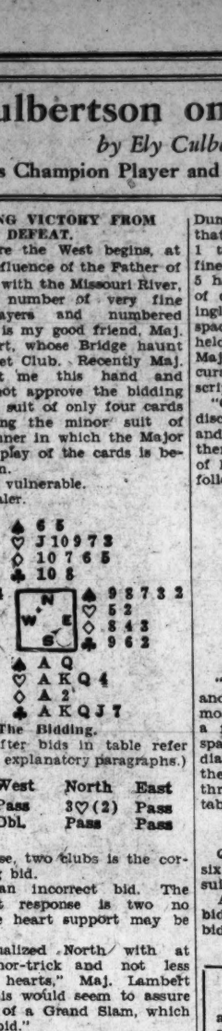
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

SNATCHING VICTORY FROM DEFEAT.

OUT where the West begins, at the confluence of the Father of Waters with the Missouri River, they have a number of very fine Contract players and numbered among them is my good friend, Maj. A. B. Lambert, whose Bridge haunt is the Racquet Club. Recently Maj. Lambert sent me this hand and while I do not approve the bidding of the major suit of only four cards before showing the minor suit of five, the manner in which the Major handled the play of the cards is beyond criticism.

Both sides vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♡(1)	Pass	3♡(2)	Pass
7♡(3)	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

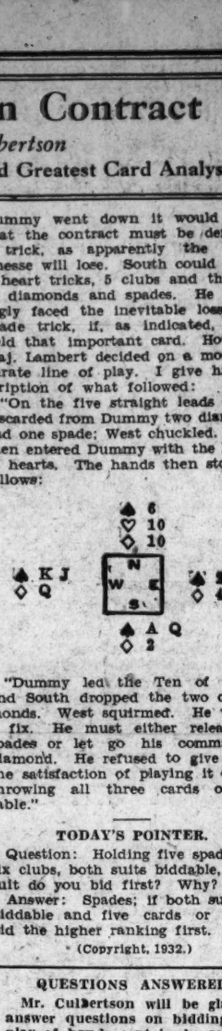
1. Of course, two clubs is the correct Opening bid.

2. Again an incorrect bid. The correct first response is two no trump. The heart support may be shown later.

3. "I visualized North with at least 1 honor-trick and not less than four hearts," Maj. Lambert stated. "This would seem to assure the making of a Grand Slam, which I therefore bid."

West's Double and his Opening lead of the King of diamonds both tended to show the location of the missing strength and when the Dummy went down it would seem that the contract must be defeated 1 trick, as apparently the spade finesse will lose. South could count 5 heart tricks, 5 clubs and the Ace of diamonds and spades. He seemingly faced the inevitable loss of a spade trick, if, as indicated, West held that important card. However, Maj. Lambert decided on a more accurate line of play. I give his description of what followed:

"On the five straight leads South discarded from Dummy two diamonds and one spade; West chuckled. South then entered Dummy with the Knave of hearts. The hands then stood as follows:



"Dummy led the Ten of hearts and South dropped the two of diamonds. West squirmed. He was in a fix. He must either release his spades or let go his commanding diamond. He refused to give South the satisfaction of playing it out by throwing all three cards on the table."

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: Holding five spades and six clubs, both suits biddable, which suit do you bid first? Why?

Answer: Spades; if both suits are biddable and five cards or longer, bid the higher ranking first.

(Copyright, 1932.)

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

I HAVE some young primrose plants which are about six months old. How large pots should they be in at this stage? ANN W. H.

Six-month-old seedlings should have pots not more than three or four inches across the top. Keep them in these until the soil is full of roots. Then shift to a 6-inch pot, which will be quite large enough for the plant when blooming.

Please tell me how to destroy the green moss which collects on the surface of the soil in the pots of some of my house plants. Is this injurious to plant growth? MRS. THOMAS F.

This plant life is either an alga or a moss. It is best to remove it by constantly stirring the surface soil.

Do asparagus plumosus plants require much water? ALICE P. L.

Asparagus plumosus are gross feeders and should be given a rich soil and a great deal of water. They thrive in a warm, sunny, well ventilated room. Toward spring when they begin to show signs of growth, it is well to give them an application of liquid manure or a top dressing of well-decayed manure.

My begonias are rotting off quite close to the roots. What can be the cause of this? I water them well. HANNAH K. L.

When begonias rot off near the roots, it is usually a case of too much water. Too much shade may also be responsible for this condition.

I have a rather dark living room, but it is well heated and ventilated. Are there any plants which will grow under such conditions? ELSIE S.

Yes. Tradescanthia and aspidistra do not resent a rather dark environment and will do well if you give them plenty of fresh air and keep the surface soil in the pots quite loose.

I have some ageratum which I brought into the house from my garden. So far it has not grown much nor has it bloomed. Should I have cut it back when I lifted it? MRS. PETER G. L.

Yes, you should have cut it back severely and used very small pots. It should also have been kept in the shade for a few days after potting. Ageratum is not an especially reliable house plant, as it is likely to be attacked by red spider. But it can be coaxed to bloom spacmodically in a sunny room.

Is a calla lily benefited by a dressing of well-decayed manure? I refer to plants in the house. I have three calla lilies which are more than a year old and are not blooming. ELIZABETH L. G.

The calla prefers a rich soil and should have a dressing while making growth of well-decayed manure. You can not expect any flowers until your plants are two years old.

Please tell me when to prune a pyrus japonica. I have moved to a house with some beautiful old bushes. MRS. WILLIAM F.

Prune the pyrus japonica as soon after it has finished flowering as it is convenient to do so.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., anad from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m.

February 6 is shown to be a good anniversary for all those whose interests lie in the soil. Chances are shown for profit and extension to those interested in real estate. Love affairs and friendships are under benefic influences. Difficulty with and through officials.

Children born on this February 6 will be proud and conscientious in their school work, and will have ambitions for their future. Responsibility will weigh heavily on their shoulders and they will not shirk their duties. They will have a sweetness and fascination that will win many friends for them.

Born February 6, you have much to be thankful for in the sweetness of your disposition. It is part of your happy nature to believe that which you wish to be true, and you are saved much grief by being willing to let "well enough" alone. Always looking through rose-colored glasses does not make you a practical person, and your ways are oftimes incomprehensible to others of more exacting natures. You are no pirate on the sea of life, but are honest and true. For an unsuspecting person, you are not often "done" by any one. People somehow like to live up to the flattering estimation which you give them, and present the best side of their natures to you. You harm no one, and few will ever harm you.

You are very fond of amusements and can always see the funny side of life. You are a born mimic, but you do not take off people in an unkindly way. Nothing furnishes you more enjoyment than a good joke on yourself. Any work which throws you in contact with the public would suit you. You make a favorable first impression, and you are always natural and at ease. Your personality scores higher than your ability and will carry you further. You are loving and demonstrative, and you will be very happy in your home life.

POPE INDORSES RIGID RULING ON MARRIAGE

Annulment of Mixed Union Provided if Children Are Not Reared in Church.

Vatican City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A tightened restriction on mixed marriages came out of the Vatican today in the form of a ruling that all children of such unions must actually be reared within the church.

The penalty of annulment and illegality in the eyes of the church was provided in the drastic measure, which was handed down by the congregation of the sacred office and approved by the Pope.

The decision amounted to a withdrawal of dispensation from a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic when the parties involved violate their promise to bring up their children as Catholics.

Vatican City authorities announced later that the new ruling, which is a decree, does not affect marriages already contracted, but will apply to all mixed marriages henceforth.

The ruling of the Sacred Congregation was inspired by a belief that parties to mixed marriages often have disregarded promises to the church that children would be reared within it.

The plea that civil laws of certain countries prevent the proper Catholic education of children will no longer be accepted as valid. The congregation decided that parties to a mixed marriage who have violated the church law as to rearing of children, if necessary, must refrain from going to countries where they would be unable to keep their pledge to the church.

Vatican officials explained that the status of a marriage after dispensation has been withdrawn hinges on the state of mind of the parties when matrimony was contracted.

If after their promise is violated it is proved that they made it without serious intention of fulfillment, it was explained, then the church will consider the mariage nonexistent and they will be eligible to marry again.

Kidnaped Child Found Safe.

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Caroline Pugh Aguilar, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aguilar, who was kidnaped 11 days ago, was recovered by police today and returned to the parents. Police found the child, the father said, in a drinking resort.

French Unemployed Increase.

Paris, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Unemployment in France for the week ended January 30, show an increase of 15,633, it was announced today. The total receiving government aid at that time reached 241,487. The total receiving aid January 30, 1931, was only 28,536.

MINERS CONFERENCE FAVORS 5-DAY WEEK

Policy of Seeking Best Pay Agreements Indorsed as Session Closes.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—After reaffirming the policy of permitting each bituminous district to negotiate "the best wage agreement possible," the thirty-second consecutive constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America ended today. The convention was in session ten days.

The next biennial convention will be held here in January, 1934.

John Boylan, of Scranton, Pa., president of District 1, and John O'Leary, of Pittsburgh, an international organizer, were elected delegates to the world mining congress. No other elections were held. International officers are chosen by referendum.

The wage policy indorsed today was adopted in 1928 and reaffirmed in 1930. Prior to 1928 the plan of negotiation of a wage agreement for the central competitive field was in effect. This field comprised the districts of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

The three anthracite districts of Pennsylvania make their own contracts. During the convention the anthracite delegates announced opposition to any suggestion to open the agreement for a wage reduction. This agreement, signed in September, 1930, will expire in April, 1936.

The convention today voted almost unanimously to accept the scale committee's report recommending district agreements. The report expressed concurrence in resolutions approving the five-day week and the six-hour day as a means of reducing unemployment in the mining industry.

New wage agreements must be negotiated in Indiana and Illinois by April 1 and agreements in several other districts expire within a few months.

The scale committee asked that the international officers again petition President Hoover to call a conference of coal operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America to consider a program of stabilization of the coal industry.

SHERIFF IN CAROLINA SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE

Youth, Also Shot in Fight Over Highway Accident, Held in Killing.

Lexington, N. C., Feb. 5 ((A.P.).—A coroner's jury today ordered Neal Wimmer, 18, of Roanoke, Va., held without bail in the death of Sheriff J. A. Leonard, of Davidson County, slain in a gun battle here early today.

Eddie Sullivan, 28, of Palatka, Fla., Wimmer's employer, was held as a material witness. He posted $300 bond and was released.

Sheriff Leonard was slain and Wimmer seriously wounded during a dispute as to the responsibility for an automobile wreck near Lexington in which the sheriff's machine and Sullivan's truck were involved.

Questioned at the hospital where he is near death from a wound in the abdomen, Wimmer told the coroner's jury Leonard shot him when he objected to being arrested in connection with the wreck.

He said he heard two other shots fired before he lost consciousness, but that he did not know who fired them.

Solicitor George A. Younce and W. F. Brinkley, Lexington attorney, who were Sheriff Leonard's companions, said they were some distance from the truck when they heard the shots and did not know who fired them.

Sullivan, who was beside Wimmer in the truck while the latter engaged in a dispute with the sheriff, said he jumped from the truck and fled when Leonard drew his gun and that he had his back turned to the truck when he heard "four or five shots."

Wimmer first gave his address as Jacksonville. Sullivan later said Wimmer lived at Roanoke and had been in his employ for three weeks.

Sullivan, who hauls fruit between Florida and Virginia, is married and the father of two children.

Palatka, Fla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—M. D. Sullivan, prominent Palatka merchant, left here today for Lexington, N. C., where his son, Ed, and Neal Wimmer, Roanoke, Va., were arrested in the fatal shooting of Sheriff J. A. Leonard, of Davidson County.

GIRL, 20, ARRESTED IN PLOT ON BANKER

Kidnaping Victim Rescued From Well After Band Battles Deputies.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A 20-year-old girl was arrested late today and her rancher father was sought for questioning in connection with the abduction of Gordon H. Sawyer, prominent Tucson banker. Sawyer was rescued earlier from the bottom of a dry well in which he was placed by kidnapers, who told him he would be killed if they were not paid $60,000.

The girl, Billie Adkins, denied knowledge of the affair. She said she did not know her father's whereabouts. The well is located near an abandoned house on the ranch of a man known to his neighbors as "Col." Adkins.

Besides Adkins, two young men were sought by police, to whom Sawyer gave a good description of the three men and one woman he said had kidnaped him from his home last night.

The abductors fled after a revolver fight with two sheriff's deputies near the abandoned ranch house.

Tonight thousands of citizens of Tucson had turned out in one of the most widespread fugitive hunts in the history of southern Arizona.

Two of the abductors, Sawyer said, were not more than 20 years old. They forced him into the back of his automobile as he drove into the yard of his home about midnight. He had come from his office at the Southern Arizona Bank & Trust Co., of which he is executive vice president.

Sawyer was taken to an old house on the Petrie road, 2 miles north of here, and kept there all night. This morning officials of Sawyer's bank received a special delivery letter demanding $60,000 for his return.

The two deputies, Jack King and Joe Detzweiler, came upon the kidnapers unexpectedly. Driving along the road near the house where Sawyer was being held, they were fired upon from the underbrush. Five shots struck their motor car.

THE SATURDAY FOOD AND HOME ECONOMICS PAGE

Appearing Each Week in The Washington Post

MORE POST RECIPE PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Newly Advertised Products in Saturday Issue Big Help in Confections.

The attention of the homemakers, who week by week contribute their household secrets to this Saturday food page of The Washington Post, is directed to the fact that there are new advertisers on this page from time to time. It would be well to include some of these newly advertised products in the recipes sent in by those competing for the weekly cash prize of $5 awarded for the best recipe received composed of at least one ingredient advertised on this page.

Book prizes and honorable mentions won this week were as follows:

LEMON COFFEE RING.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Sponge part:
1 yeast cake
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons water
6 tablespoons sugar
1½ cups flour (Sanico)
4 tablespoons melted butter (Sanitary butter)
Grated rind of lemon
¼ cup chopped nuts
3½-4 cups flour (Sanico)
2 tablespoons salt
3½ cups raisins
2 eggs (Rockingham, Sanitary grocery)

Make sponge by mixing ingredients, add heat thoroughly. As soon as light add other ingredients. This should be a soft dough. Knead lightly and let rise until double in bulk. Either roll or form ring or form into braid. Brush over with melted butter and bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, 1 to 20 minutes, according to size of rings.

MRS. L. F. POWERS.
3002 Rodman street northwest.

DATE SOUFFLE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 heaping tablespoon flour (Washington flour)
1 cup chopped nuts (M. B. Frazier's)
1 cup chopped dates
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream yolks of eggs and sugar together. Mix baking powder and flour and add to nuts and dates. Add to mixture. Add whites of eggs stiffly beaten. Bake in a moderate oven until brown. Serve with whipped cream.

MRS. ESTELLE N. NORMAN.
3033 Sixteenth street northwest.

MACARONI GERMAN STYLE.
(Honorable Mention.)

This is a nourishing supper dish for children, but well liked by adults also.
1 package macaroni (Sanitary)
½ cup bread crumbs (Sanico)
2 tablespoons butter (Land o' Lakes)
¼ teaspoon salt.

Break macaroni in medium pieces and boil in water with salt added for ten minutes until soft but firm. Strain off water through colander. Fry bread crubs in butter until golden brown, add strained macaroni, stirring crumbs and macaroni together. Season with a little salt and pepper. Serve hot. MRS. F. LONG.
1117 B street southeast.

ICE-BOX GINGERBREAD.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 cup molasses
1 cup shortening
1 cup sour milk
4 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon each of ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg
3½ cups flour (Washington Self-Rising)
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in a teaspoon of hot water
1 cup raisins

Mix sugar, molasses and shortening together, add eggs, well beaten; then the sour milk. Mix salt and spices with sifted flour, add vanilla and soda, which has been dissolved in hot water. Add raisins, which have been rolled lightly in flour. Put batter in fruit jars, seal and keep on ice. Bake when wanted.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.
934 I street northwest.

HUNTERS' STEW.
(Honorable Mention.)

½ pound of smoked ham (diced)
½ pound of bacon (diced)
2 cups of canned tomatoes
2 cups of canned corn
2 cups of cooked lima beans
1 cup of mushrooms (these are not necessary)
1 cup of spaghetti
1 onion (minced)

Cook the spaghetti in 2 quarts of boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Fry the diced ham and bacon until brown with the onion, then add all the vegetables, and cook 30 minutes. This is a whole meal, and is served with plain lettuce with French dressing. Serves six people. All the vegetables and meats were bought at the Sanitary stores and were cooked on a Potomac electric stove.

MRS. M. L. TURNER.
Berwyn, Md.

MIXED GRILL.

CHOCOLATE PECAN FUDGE.
(Honorable Mention.)

3 squares chocolate
¾ cup milk
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons corn sirup
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans (M. B. Frazier's)

Bring milk and chocolate to boiling point. Stir in sugar and sirup and cook to soft ball test. Add butter and vanilla and beat. When mixture begins to thicken, pour in pecans and empty onto buttered platter.

MISS ALICE KERFOOT.
Riverdale, Md.

FIG COOKIES.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 cups rolled oats
1 cup chopped figs
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups Washington Self-Rising Flour
½ cup Swing's Town Club Coffee

Cream the butter, add the sugar, beaten eggs, coffee and rolled oats; beat until smooth. Sift some of the flour over the figs and nuts, add the rest to first mixture, blend it in well, then add figs and nuts and drop from spoon onto an oiled cooky sheet and bake about 12 minutes in a moderately hot oven. These are delicious and keep moist a long time.

CHEESE SALAD.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 cup Roquefort cheese (Chestnut Farms)
1 cup cream cheese (Chestnut Farms)
1 cup American cheese (Chestnut Farms)
2 cups milk (Chestnut Farms)
1 envelope Knox gelatin

Melt cheese in ½ cups milk in double boiler. Rub until smooth. Soften gelatin in a little cold water and dissolve in half cup of milk. Mix in cheese mixture, and place in mold until chilled. This is delicious salad and keeps indefintely.

MARKET MEANDERINGS

Fur Coated Lady and Uniformed Chauffeur were among the customers at one of the Meanderer's favorite haunts in a high-class Washington market. Many jars of Russian caviar were being shown the Fur Coated Lady. Presently she chose from the epicurean array, parted with several dollars and proceeded on her way, Uniformed Chauffeur carrying the caviar.

Splendid chance it was for the Meanderer to—not buy—but learn of caviar. The smallest glass jar of the imported caviar costs more than the Meanderer spends at the market for oranges and fresh eggs for the three very young persons at home. So Russian delicacies were not on her shopping lists. But marketing mothers, maketing aunts and grandmothers, as well as staying-at-home mothers, aunts and grandmothers do like to know about exotic foods, even though they can't buy them—or serve them at intimate, alluring midnight suppers for two, after the manner of Irene Bordoni.

So the marketer presiding in the favorite haunt showed the Meanderer the jars of caviar that the Fur Coated Lady had inspected, explaining very good naturedly about the valuable little jars and tins. This certain vendor of high class food has been a salad chef in a New York hotel. He said that Russian caviar, or sturgeon roe, may be divided into two general kinds—pressed caviar and whole-grain caviar. The latter is the more costly variety. Through the glass jars in which much of the caviar is packed one can see the difference between the pressed and whole-grain sorts. Pressed caviar looks pressed, sometimes quite mashed, dark, but not distinctly black, while the whole-grain caviar is like tiny, jet-black beads. To get the best of whole-grain Russian caviar one asks for Beluga or giant grain.

Domestic caviar is a great deal cheaper than the Russian. The domestic caviar that the corner food expert showed the Meanderer was salmon roe, an attractive red product. Another popular domestic caviar is shad roe. Swedish caviar is cod roe. The caviar exploration ended here, as customers interrupted the lecture.

Buckwheat honey at 20 cents a cake is a tempting value in one of the downtown markets.

The manner of ripening grapefruit has much to do with its taste. Tree ripening, or the natural maturing of the fruit, gives a flavor far superior to that of the windfall or artificially ripened grapefruit. The tree-ripened variety is larger than the other types and will cost more, but is worth the difference in price.

Large, good-quality alligator pears, or avocados, are found for as little as 15 cents each in some of the open fruit markets. The alligator pear should be chosen carefully. One that is ready to eat yields readily to the pressure of the full hand. Often this fruit is elaborately diced, or carved into balls and combined with other fruits, but there is no way of serving it more satisfying than "on the half shell" as a salad, correctly eaten with a spoon. The pears are simply cut into halves, the seeds removed and the pears placed on lettuce leaves. Dressing should be according to taste, but never of a heavy sort, for this fruit has much fruit oil in its composition.

"Tomatoes are cheaper," even though potatoes are not. Twenty cents buys a pound of Florida tomatoes of attractive quality. Another food surprisingly cheap for the winter season is rhubarb, now as low as 20 cents a pound.

Genuine imported Lucca olive oil will make the perfect French dressing for the crisp salad so many housewives like to serve with the hearty winter meats. This olive oil is found in a corner of an especially nice market downtown.

Butter probably is being used a little more freely by cooks than it was in the early winter and fall, as the low price of butter is little more than that of its substitutes. Some grades of butter sell for less than 30 cents a pound, while the highest grades are only slightly above 30 cents.

Collards, of the cabbage family, looking like cabbage with the leaves unfolded loosely, is added to the list of greens, including spinach, kale, turnip greens and cooking cress, all selling at the rate of three pounds for 25 cents, or for

Across the aisle from a meat stand in a certain market out Seventh street way, where the Meanderer saw frankfurters priced at 10 cents for a pound, there was a big sign, "Sauerkraut, 19 cents pound—two pounds for 35 cents." Doubtless the close suggestion has solved economically for many the problems of what to serve.

Red lentils from Palestine, excellent for soup, are featured by one of the dealers in a downtown market. They sell for 15 cents a pound, while domestic lentils are three pounds for 25 cents.

WOMEN LEARNING VEGETABLE "LORE"

Washington Housewives Are Becoming Acquainted With Varieties.

Close acquaintance with vegetables—and any vegetable dealer will be glad to introduce the housewife to all he has—is growing more common with Washington women, so a prominent vegetable and fruit marketer in downtown Washington told Mrs. Justa Housewife.

"Nearly every woman customer will break a string bean to see if it is stringless and snappy before she buys it," the vegetable merchant said. "She wants a head of cauliflower to be solid and white, not loosely clustered and yellow. She knows that one of the best spinach varieties is small-leafed and very curly. She knows about what each price should be, if she frequently visits the market, or keeps up with the advertisements."

Mrs. Justa Housewife, who visits the markets on behalf of all housewives interested in what she learns, finds that among the fresh vegetables and fruits most reasonably priced this week in relation to other foods, are broccoli, green beans, spinach, cauliflower, kale, turnip greens, cooking cress, water cress, collards, new cabbage, squash, egg plant, apples, strawberries and fresh pineapple.

Florida tomatoes and new peas are descending slowly into the nearly low price class, as is rhubarb. Cucumbers are lower in price than they were last month. New potatoes are still selling in quart boxes. Lima beans and Belgian endive are among the highest priced items.

Brain Sweetbread Croquettes.

Plunge the brains and sweetbreads into cold water as soon as received and soak for one hour, then parboil for twenty minutes in water to which one teaspoon salt and one tablespoon vinegar have been added for each quart. After draining, plunge again into cold water to make them firm. Remove the membranes and chop the brains and sweetbreads fine. Make a sauce of one-fourth cup melted butter, three tablespoons flour, salt and pepper; add one cup of milk slowly and cook until smooth. Combine the meat with this sauce and set aside to cool. Shape and roll twice in egg and creacker crumbs. Fry quickly in deep fat.

Spicy Salad Dressing.

½ cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons corn salad oil
2 teaspoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon ground sweet pepper
Paprika
4 drops Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon ground celery

Mix ingredients add small piece of ice and beat one minute until thick.

German Veal Stew.

Sprinkle a breast of veal with salt and ginger. Slice an onion and fry it in butter of bacon drippings with a little parsley or celery tops. When hot put in the breast of veal. Cover tightly and brown the veal. Add 1 cup of canned tomatoes and a very small amount of hot water. Cover and cook slowly for two hours, turning the meat frequently. Thicken the gravy with flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water, season with minced parsley or caraway seed, boil up once, and serve.

Strawberry Muffins Win $5 Award for Mrs. Miller

Conduit Road Housewife Has Prize Recipe in Breakfast Dish in Post's Weekly Contest; Suggestion Adds to Many Ways to Use Berries.

There is nothing exotic about this week's Post $5 winning recipe. It is a formula for "Strawberry Muffins" which should be extraordinarily good as a supplement to an old-fashioned breakfast.

Mrs. M. Miller, of 4759 Conduit road northwest, originated this recipe. Try "strawberry muffins." Hot from the oven they should be a delicious kitchen masterpiece and take a ranking position with strawberry shortcake and strawberries and cream.

The recipe follows:

Strawberry Muffins.
(Awarded $5 Prize).

3 tablespoons Sanitary butter
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup sour milk
1½ cups Sanico flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon soda
1 large cup strawberries

Cream butter and sugar well, add well-beaten egg, then milk alternately with flour sifted with soda, salt and cinnamon. Pick over and wash berries thoroughly. Flour the berries with an extra 2 tablespoons flour. Now add berries to mixture, stir well and bake in greased muffin pans about 20 minutes in moderately hot oven.

ECONOMY CORNER

Good sliced bacon at 20 cents a pound is not just a prewar luxury nice to be remembered. It is a delightful fact at present on at least one market. For a matter of the past several months sliced bacon could be found by thrifty housewives, but not until this week did the startling 20 per cent reduction appear. Only at one Washington market did the market meanderer find this value.

Three heads of iceberg lettuce for 10 cents were another unusual value at the same market that featured the 20-cent bacon. The lettuce heads were small, but fresh and crisp, and when kept chilled were as practical a purchase as the usual one head for 10 cents.

Still another nice value at this same market is broccoli. It sells for 10 cents a pound. In many of the measured pounds there were three fresh, good quality stalks.

Cocoa Bran Muffins.

2 cups bran
¾ cup flour
¼ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup molasses
1½ cups milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Mix bran, flour, cocoa, salt and soda thoroughly. Add the well-beaten eggs, melted shortening, milk and molasses, and stir. When well blended bake in greased muffin tins for 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot.

Calf's Liver, Creole Style

Cut the liver in thin slices. Remove the skin and veins and wipe with a damp cloth. Roll in flour and fry in hot fat until golden brown. Add one cup chopped onions, one and one-half cups stewed tomatoes, three tablespoons flour dissolved in cold water. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover and cook slowly until done, about twenty minutes.

The modern refrigerator is electrical

Let electric refrigeration save the costly foods you now waste

"GUESSWORK" refrigeration is out of date. Health and appetite must be served. Food waste prevented. Time, money and labor saved. Only electric refrigeration solves this many-sided problem.

Your Electric Refrigerator will make it possible for you to take the fullest advantage of the substantial savings you can effect by purchasing food in greater quantities. You need have no fear of food spoilage in your Electric Refrigerator, for the constant temperature of less than 50 degrees will keep it fresh for long periods.

Further savings in the family budget are made possible because of the very low rates for "Matchless Service" to operate your Electric Refrigerator. It takes only a few pennies a day and the added convenience and dependability are alone worth more than that. Don't put off purchasing your Electric Refrigerator for another day.

ENDEAVORERS MEET EN MASSE MONDAY

Preconvention Service to Be Held at National Capital Christian Church.

Christian Endeavorers and young people of all the churches of Washington will gather in a preconvention mass meeting, Monday evening at 8 o'clock, in the Eckington Presbyterian Church, North Capitol and Q streets. This meeting precedes the District convention, which will be held February 18, 19 and 20, in the National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle.

Dr. Edwin N. Barnes, who has charge of the musical program of the convention, will also be present Monday night to lead in an inspirational song service. Dr. Barnes is widely known throughout the Capital City for his musical ability, having charge of all the music in our public schools.

This preconvention mass meeting gives the people of Washington an opportunity of meeting those who will have charge of the classes presented during the days of the big convention. Dr. C. E. Hawthorne, pastor of the Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church, will address the meeting Monday night. Dr. Hawthorne also has charge of one of the classes during the convention.

Dr. Frank S. Niles, of Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will have charge of the devotional service preceding the message by Dr. Hawthorne.

Merritt Smith, leader of Christian Endeavor, will be present to give some of the highlights of the past Christian Endeavor convention held in 1928, when some 1,500 people gathered for three days at the Calvary Baptist Church. Mr. Smith was largely responsible for the work of that convention, and he is aiding those who have charge of the one to be held in the National City Christian Church.

The Christian Endeavor Union is bringing Howard W. Ferrin, president of the Providence Bible Institute, as speaker of the mass meetings held at 7:30 o'clock during February 18, 19 and 20. Dr. Ferrin in the past has addressed youth gatherings and other Christian services of Washington.

Christian Science Sermons Tomorrow

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I Corinthians 2:12: "We have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy; "We worship spiritually only as we cease to worship materially. Spiritual devoutness is the soul of Christianity. * * * 'The true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth.'" (Page 140).

Woodrow Wilson's Pew To Be DrapedTomorrow

In accordance with the usual custom, the pew that was occupied by President Woodrow Wilson at the Central Presbyterian Church will be draped tomorrow with the American flag. Tomorrow will be the nearest anniversary to the date of the death of President Wilson, which occurred on February 3, 1924. Each year it is the custom in this church to observe in a very quiet manner the fact of his death.

The pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, will read the address made by President Wilson on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of this church building. It was on December 19, 1913, that President Wilson took part in the ceremony of the cornerstone laying and at that time made a brief but most memorable address.

T. E. Rhodes to Address Y. M. C. A. Tomorrow

"The Coming Kingdom" will be the subject of an address at the Central Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock, by Thomas E. Rhodes, of the Department of Justice. The address will be illustrated by motion pictures entitled, "The Kingdom of Heaven" and "The Word of God in Africa." The first will show scenes from the life of Jesus, especially relating to the teaching and training of His disciples. The second picture will describe the work of the Christian missionaries in Africa at the present time.

This meeting will be in charge of a group of dormitory men living in the Y. M. C. A. Maj J. K. Stacy will preside and Charles F. Keifer will lead the song service.

Calvary Vaughn Class To Observe Birthday

The Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church celebrates its forty-third anniversary tomorrow. The class was founded by Commander Francis W. Vaughn, a civil war veteran, February 3, 1889, with a membership of five. The present membership is 600.

There will be a special program. The class will have as guests the officers and members of Petworth Lodge, F. A. A. M. The executive director of the Boy Scouts, Linn C. Drake, is the teacher and he will present the lesson.

Rev. Mitchell to Address Bible Class Banquet

The Live Wire Bible Class of the Metropolitan Baptist Church will hold its ninth annual banquet on Tuesday evening of next week. The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, of Clarendon, will be the speaker of the evening.

The officers of the class are: Miss Florence Gravatte, teacher; Charles Trainum, assistant teacher; Vinton Koons, president; Paul O'Neal, vice president; Richard Beale, treasurer; Roy Wildman recording secretary; George Deaner, corresponding secretary.

Will Address Brightwood Class.

Miss Maude Aldrich, of the Federal Motion Picture Council, will address the Cole Bible Class for young ladies of Brightwood Park Methodist Church tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock. At the evening service the Woman's Home Missionary Society will give a pageant, "Snapshots of Service."

Takoma Park Church To Honor Washington

Takoma Park Baptist Church will give over the entire month of February to a commemoration of the life and character of Gen. Washington. During the month the pastor, the Rev. William E. LaRue, will preach twelve special sermons, four to the children and four each to the morning and evening services.

Those to the children have to do with the Ps, and will discuss Washington's personality, pleasures, principles and poise. Those to the congregation in the morning will have to do with the R's, and will discuss Washington's reverence, responsibilities, resourcefulness and reward. Those delivered in the evening will have to do with the T's, and will discuss Washington's time, task, test and triumph.

Sermons Will Discuss Christ's Passion in Art

Tomorrow evening the Rev. Charles Enders, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, will begin a series of sermons dealing with "The Passion of Christ in Art." This series will deal with great paintings.

The first will treat of "Christ's Entry Into Jerusalem," by Plockhorst. This will be followed on succeeding Sunday evenings by "The Lord's Supper" (Da Vinci), "Christ in Gethsemane" (Hoffmann), and "Christ Before Pilate" (Munkacsy). Copies of the respective pictures will be distributed each Sunday evening to the congregation.

Concordia Church will observe tomorrow as home missions day, and in commemoration of that the pastor will preach a special sermon.

Universalist Men's Club Will Hear M. W. Lewis

The Men's Club of the Universalist National Memorial Church will have as their speaker, Thursday evening, M. W. Lewis, who will give an illustrated talk on "National Improvement Work." He will tell of the efforts being made by the War Department, through the Corps of Engineers, to improve the many rivers and coastal harbors of this country.

Methodist to Address Lutherans.

Dr. Hiri A. Kester, pastor of Congress Street Methodist Church, will address the Men's Bible Class of Georgetown Lutheran Church tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. His subject will be: "The Wages of Sin."

DR. HARMON CHOSEN CHRISTIAN PASTOR

Miss Genevieve Brown Also Called by National City Congregation.

Dr. H. H. Harmon has been elected pastor of the National City Christian Church at a specially called meeting of the congregation. At the same time Miss Genevieve Brown, of Indianapolis, Ind., was elected assistant pastor.

Dr. Harmon, who was director of the crusade that resulted in the erection of the beautiful edifice at Thomas circle, was called to step into the breach in the active work of the church made by the serious illness of Dr. Earle Wilfley, who was the leader of the congregation for twenty-one years but broke in health almost immediately following the dedication of the building for which he himself had worked so hard.

Successor to Dr. Wilfley.

Called in May, 1931, merely as a temporary expedient, when Dr. Wilfley last October found it advisable to tender his resignation Dr. Harmon, with the consent of the board of education of the Disciples of Christ, of which he was secretary of promotion and endowment, was continued as acting pastor until such time as a special committee could survey the field and make recommendations.

The board of officers accepted the report of that committee and recommended it to the congregation. And the choice has the approval of the board of trustees of the corporation, which is composed in part of men of the local congregation and others of national prominence in the ranks of the Disciples of Christ.

All His Time Needed.

Owing to the fact that the plans for the whole project for the plant at Thomas Circle have not been completed, there being still an educational plant and a prayer chapel to be erected, it was the consensus of judgment that Dr. Harmon should be called to give his whole time to the work of this church and be released from the more general work of the board of education, whose headquarters are in Indianapolis, Ind.

And this was a factor in the call to Miss Brown, for she has for many years been an assistant of Dr. Harmon and is herself an ordained minister. She is an honor graduate of the University of Iowa and Simmons College, Boston, has wide experience as director of religious education and was head of the personnel department of the endowment work of the national board. She is recognized as a woman of charm and great ability.

Church to Present Biblical Drama

"Sacrifice" Tomorrow at First Congregational by Young People.

A Biblical drama entitled "Sacrifice" will be presented at the evening service at the First Congregational Church tomorrow. Once a month a cast selected from the Young People's Society of First Church presents a Biblical drama under the leadership of Miss Nell M. Berghout, the director of religious education of the church.

The drama tomorrow evening is a version of the story of Abraham and the sacrifice of his son. The players are: Abraham, Hugh C. Smith; Sarah, Mrs. Patricia Palmer, and Isaac, Jeannette Phillips. Miss Dorothy Bradell will announce the scenes.

The text of the drama is most interesting and, with stage and lighting effects, the story is given in striking form. This Biblical drama, with the program of the choir of the church, offers, it is believed, a most attractive evening.

Presbytery in Capital Plans Training School

The educational committee of the Presbytery of Washington City will open the twelfth session of its training school at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Monday evening, February 15, at 7:30 o'clock.

A comprehensive and practical course will include "Social and Recreational Leadership," Miss Marjorie Webster; "Old Testament Prophets," or, "The Life of Paul," Miss Mabel N. Thurston; "Principles of Teaching," the Rev. J. R. Duffield; "Story Telling," Miss Ellen Dashiell; "Church School Administration," by Prof. T. D. Martin.

San Antonio Rector At Epiphany Tomorrow

Dr. Rolfe P. Crum, of San Antonio, will preach at the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow morning and in the evening, the Rev. Alvin Lamar Willis will occupy the pulpit.

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, the rector, will preach on Ash Wednesday at 10:30 o'clock.

The Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy will hold its fourth annual Massing of the Colors service in the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Russell Langdon, of East Orange, N. J., president of the society, will lead the procession of color bearers.

World Day of Prayer For Missions on Friday

The Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches will observe the world day of prayer for missions on Friday, February 12. The service will be held in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church commencing at 11 o'clock. This is an annual event to which women of all denominations are invited.

The presiding officers will be Mrs. H. M. Kendrick and Mrs. Walter R. Metz. The organist will be Mrs. James Shera Montgomery, the soloist, Mrs. Helen Turley and the chorister, Mrs. Harvey Baker Smith. The address will be by Dr. J. R. Sizoo.

Bishop Freeman to Preach in Chicago

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman will be in Chicago tomorrow to deliver the annual address before the Chicago Sunday Night Club, a leading organization of business men interested in church affairs.

He will preach at the morning service of St. Luke's Church, of Evanston, Ill., at the invitation of the Rev. Charles A. McAllister, its rector and former Baltimore clergyman.

CHOSEN PASTOR

DR. H. H. HARMON.

CHURCHES ARRANGE LENTEN SERVICES

Many Denominations to Observe 40-Day Season of Penance.

Contrary to an uninformed current notion, Lent does not belong to any one church, nor is it observed by one church alone. It is emphasized perhaps by the Catholic and Episcopal churches in their Litany and ritual and calendar more than any of the other feasts of the Christian calendar. But most of the Christian churches, in one form or another, take due observance of the forty days.

In all of the Lutheran churches, for instance, Lent will be strictly observed, beginning with a service on the evening of Ash Wednesday, at some of which Communion will be served. On each succeeding Thursday evening following, concluding with Maunday Thursday, there will be a sermon, all of them probably dealing with the person of Christ.

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, announced a series of special devotional services appropriate to the Lenten season, and Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, minister of the First Congregational Church, will conduct a Lenten Communion class for young people every Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, beginning with February 14.

At Covenant-First.

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will begin a series of addresses, on Thursday evening, to continue throughout Lent, on the intimate character of the twelve Disciples. His first subject will be: "The Great Companion."

The program of Lenten services for St. Paul's Luthern Church has been announced by the pastor as follows: Sunday morning, a series of sermons on "Coming to Terms With Life;" Sunday evenings, spiritual matters dealing with "Last Things;" mid-week services, a series of talks on the church member's relationship to the church, the first of these to be presented on Ash Wednesday night on the subject "The Church Member's Prayer for the Church."

At St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, the rector, the Rev. A. J. Wilder, in addition to the usual special services on Ash Wednesday, on the following Thursday will hold a special service for children at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. This service, it is announced, is not restricted to the children of the parish, but is for all the children in the neighborhood.

Bethlehem Chapel Services.

A series of Lenten lectures, delivered by cathedral clergy and by clergymen of the diocese, will be held in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays after the evensong services at 4 p. m.

On Ash Wednesday Bishop Freeman will preach on "The National Significance of Lent" over a Nation-wide radio network of the Columbia Broadcasting System at the morning prayer and penitential service at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, warden of the College of Preachers, will deliver the Lenten lecture after the evensong service on Ash Wednesday. The other services on Ash Wednesday at the Bethlehem Chapel are Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and litany at 10 a. m.

Dr. Lenski Will Preach Over Radio on Feb. 14

The Rev. Dr. G. E. Lenski, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, will be the preacher of the Columbia Church of the Air on Sunday, February 14. Dr. Lenski, a member of the American Lutheran Church, a national body organized less than two years ago through merger of the former Joint Synod of Ohio, Buffalo Synod and Iowa Lutheran Synod, is well known throughout the country for his leadership in national church affairs.

The "Church of the Air" is featured over the Columbia Broadcasting Chain every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, Eastern standard time.

Rev. Vincent Is Chosen Dean in Colorado

Word has been received in Washington of the appointment of the Rev. Z. T. Vincent to be dean of the northern district of the Episcopal Church in Colorado.

Mr. Vincent got his theological education at the Episcopal Seminary at Alexandria, and has attended the College of Preachers at St. Alban's Cathedral. He is well known in church and social circles here.

Mrs. Edgington to Talk To Georgetown Guild

Mrs. Frank E. Edgington, on Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock, will address the Evening Guild of Georgetown Presbyterian Church on the subject: "The Medicine Man, Past and Present."

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Henry V. Bell will give a talk at the same church on "Impressions of Korea."

Debate by Church People.

The young people of Eldbrooke Methodist Church will debate this question tomorrow night: "Resolved, That prohibition is the best known method of dealing with liquor problem."

LENTEN TALKS SET FOR ST. GABRIEL'S

Father Sheen, of Catholic University, to Deliver Sermon Series at Church.

A series of sermons on "The Perennial Struggle" will be delivered by Dr. Fulton J. Sheen, of Catholic University, at St. Gabriel's Catholic Church, Grant Circle, at 7:30 o'clock every Wednesday evening during the Lenten season, it was announced yesterday by the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, pastor of the church and auxiliary bishop of the Baltimore diocese.

In addition to bringing these messages to members of St. Gabriel's Parish and all others who wish to attend the services, Father Sheen will continue preaching on the Catholic Radio Hour, broadcast on Sunday evenings by the National Broadcasting Co., and will also preach at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York on Sunday evenings.

Father Sheen, who is esteemed throughout this country and England as an orator of great power, will deliver seven sermons at St. Gabriel's, beginning next Wednesday.

Schedule of Sermons.

The complete schedule follows: February 10, "Reason for Struggle: Morality;" February 17, "Seat of Struggle: The Soul;" February 24, "Life in Defeat: Sin;" March 2, "Life in Victory: Grace;" March 9, "The Great Assize: Judgment;" and March 16, "Eternal Life: Heaven;" March 23, "The Crucifixion."

Father Sheen has been heard as lecturer and preacher in all parts of the United States, and for the summers of the past three years he has preached at Westminister Cathedral in London. While in England he lectured at the summer courses at Cambridge University. Born in El Paso, Ill., he received his early education at a small Catholic parochial school at Peoria, Ill., then attended the Catholic Seminary at Rochester, N. Y. He completed his education at Louvaine University, taking degrees as a doctor of theology and philosophy. He has been teaching at Catholic University for several years.

Father Coffey to Speak.

The Rev. Thomas J. Coffey, of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, noted missionary, who is preaching the Lourdes novena at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, will also preach on the Washington Catholic radio hour, broadcast Sunday afternoons at 5 o'clock from the church through Station WOL. Father Coffey will preach his novena sermon Sunday afternoon on "Apparitions of the Blessed Mother to Bernardette."

Miss Florence Yocum, soprano of the Immaculate Conception choir, will be soloist and the boys' sanctuary choir will be under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard, organist.

The Lourdes novena, which closes on Wednesday, feast of Our Lady of Lourdes, has a 12:15 p. m. daily mass, and a special 7:45 o'clock evening service. Father Coffey preaches at both services.

Dr. Shelton Plans Free Bible Class

Discovery of Fundamental Teaching in Each Book Will Be Attempted.

Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church South, as is well known, spent a good many years in archaeological work and then taught the subject at Emory University in Atlanta. He is an authority on the Bible.

On Monday evening Dr. Shelton will open a free class in Bible study at his church. The lecture will open at 7:30 o'clock. The class will meet each Monday evening at the same time and place.

The purpose will be a better acquaintance with the Bible. Facts about how the Bible was made, when, by whom written, where, and under what conditions, will be brought out. An attempt will be made to discover the fundamental teaching of each book. The class will meet in room 10 of the church school auditorium.

Ninth Street Christian Plans Loyalty Service

February is Loyalty Month in the Church of the Disciples, and at the Ninth Street Christian Church tomorrow evening the Christian Endeavor Society will have complete charge of the program.

Its orchestra will present a program and members of the society will sing solos, after which there will be a number of five-minute addresses. The pastor, the Rev. Clifford H. Jope, will close the service with a brief address.

Church Will Observe Endeavor Anniversary

In commemoration of the fifty-first anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor, a special program will be given tomorrow evening by the three societies of the National City Christian Church.

Dr. Earl Wifley, pastor emeritus, will speak for the Nonpareil Society; Dr. and Mrs. Barger, recently returned from Africa, will be guests of Le Rendezvous Society; and the Alpha Society will put on special features.

Professor From China GuntonTemple Preacher

The Rev. J. J. Heeren, professor of history and political science at the Shantung Christian University, Tsinan, China, and student of international problems, will speak tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service of the Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Boy Scout Sunday Will Be Observed

Services Are Announced in Three Capital Churches Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is Boy Scout Sunday in the calendar of that organization, and those churches which have troops will attend worship in a body in uniform. The ministers generally will preach sermons of interest to the boys.

At the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, which has one of the best troops in the city, the minister, Dr. John C. Palmer, will preach a sermon on the story of Daniel at the 11 o'clock service. At the Washington City Church of the Brethren, the pastor, Dr. F. F. Holsopple, will have special services for his troop in the evening.

Dr. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church, will preach the sermon for Troop 24 at the Chapel of the Epiphany tomorrow evening. Dr. Francis Yarnall, the vicar, will take part in the services.

Church to Honor Lincoln's Birthday

Two Services Arranged by New York Presbyterian He Attended.

Abraham Lincoln attended services in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, with his wife, during his Presidency. The pew his family occupied is properly marked and every year there is an anniversary service in his memory.

In keeping with this custom the minister, Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, will preach on Lincoln at 11 o'clock tomorrow, his subject being "The Voice of Lincoln."

On Friday evening, which is Lincoln's birthday, a service will be held at the church, at which the Inter-High School Festival Chorus of 200 voices will sing a cantata entitled "Lincoln," which was written by Dr. Edwin N. C. Barnes.

Week of Prayer at Tabernacle.

Next week, February 7 to 14, will be a week of prayer at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, as a prelude to the coming Revival Crusade. Several noted evangelists are coming to help the pastor, the Rev. Harry L. Collier, in the crusade.

DR. SPEER TO PREACH AT COVENANT-FIRST

Presbyterian Leader Speaks at Two Services There Tomorrow.

One of the foremost leaders in Presbyterianism in the world will be here tomorrow in Dr. Robert Elliott Speer, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church.

At 11 o'clock he will preach to the congregation of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, of which Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney is minister.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the same auditorium, he will deliver an address to the public under the auspices of the Presbytery of the City of Washington.

At the public meeting the Rev. Frank Sergeant Niles, minister of Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will preside. Mr. Niles was a missionary to China for many years, and is chairman of the committee on foreign missions of presbytery.

Others on Program.

Other ministers taking part in the program are Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, who will deliver the invocation; Dr. Godfrey Chobot, the moderator of presbytery, who will read the Scriptures, and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, who will offer the prayer.

For more than a generation Dr. Speer has been secretary of the board of foreign missions of his church, being first elected to that position in 1891, when he was but 24 years of age. Those whose memories go that far back will recall that the colleges and universities of the country were swept with a missionary movement that drew many of the finest students into it and sent them to foreign lands. In that movement Dr. Speer became a shining light, and his eloquence and his missionary zeal lifted him to a place of national importance in his church and in the religious movements of the Nation, a place he has held ever since.

Leader for Missions.

With his eloquent preaching and platform speaking, which make him a welcome speaker before any assembly, and with his pen, from which has poured a perfect stream of excellent books, he has been promoting the missionary enterprises of his church in every corner of the globe.

Dr. Speer is no stranger to the Presbyterians of Washington. In 1927 he was moderator of the General Assembly and as such he came to Washington to pay an official visit and to be the honor guest at the reception which the Presbyterians of the Capital City every year hold for the moderator.—D. R. B.

Laymen Will Assist Dr. Depp in Service

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, begins the sixth year of his ministry in that pastorate tomorrow morning. He will preach at both services. In the evening he will be assisted in the pulpit by Dr. Charles B. Campbell and Oscar Carlton, two lay members of his congregation.

CONGRESS RECEIVES COTTON CURB BILLS

Railways Ask Permit to Cut Rates on Commodity for Seaport Shipments.

(Associated Press.)

Cotton legislation figured in both houses of Congress yesterday, while Southwestern railroads sought to lower their rates on the commodity.

Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, introduced a measure to limit the shipment of the 1932 cotton crop to 50 per cent of the amount produced by each planter in 1931.

In the House, the postoffice committee approved a bill by Representative Fuller (Democrat), South Carolina, which would permit the Postoffice Department to buy cotton twine, instead of jute, even though it cost more, provided the Comptroller General held the cost not excessive.

Railroads Ask Rate Cut.

At the same time the Southwestern railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to reduce rates on cotton to enable them to meet barge and truck competition.

The reductions would apply on shipments from Memphis, Tenn., Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, and southern Missouri points to New Orleans and Texas seaports.

The plan calls for a 20 per cent cut in rates to Houston, Galveston, Texas City, New Orleans and Lake Charles, except from points along the west side of the Mississippi and in southern Arkansas, which would be reduced about 35 per cent.

Producers' Vote Provided.

The Bankhead proposal was advanced as an amendment to his bill introduced earlier, providing for establishing by a vote of the producers the quantity to be sold in interstate and foreign commerce each crop year.

The amendment was introduced to make special provision for this year's crop, he explained, "on accountt of the short time for action to cover the 1932 crop and the unprecedented supply of 21,000,000 bales of cotton."

The reduction in amount to be sold would be effected by a system of licenses to ship. However, cotton "in existence" at the time of passage of the act could be shipped without license.

IN THE CINEMA HOUSES

COLUMBIA

"MATA HARI." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a screen play by Benjamin Glazer and Leo Birinski, with additional dialogue by Doris Anderson and Gilbert Emery, starring Greta Garbo, supported by Ramon Novarro, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, C. Henry Gordon, Karen Morley, Alec B. Francis, Blanche Friderici, Edmund Breese, Helen Jerome Eddy and Frank Reicher. Directed by George Fitzmaurice. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It was a daring bit of direction to reveal the final outcome of this slightly outmoded, but still interesting, story of wartime espionage in the very first sequence projected upon the screen. It is a gruesome sequence. It presents nothing less tragic than the French firing squads mowing down traitors lashed to strong stakes in front of a high wall. The chief of the French secret service vows then and there that that is the end to which he will bring Mata Hari.

I suspect that Director Fitzmaurice felt secure in this premature disclosure of the trend of his play by reason of the superlative quality of the cast employed in its enactment. Read the names in the small-type paragraph immediately preceding these rambling comments. What a roster! They might reasonably be expected to play any drama backward and still make it interesting.

There is not too much subtlety in the unfolding of this somber tale of the familiar trickery that characterizes the operation of international spy systems in times of conflict. The same old capsules, containing the same old code messages, are exchanged in the same old way with something less than a prestidigitator's cleverness in public assemblages where they would be instantly noticed; the same old apartments are rifled by the same old means; the members of the high command are made monkeys of by a beautiful and seductive dancer, just as has always happened; the operatives who seem to have outlived their usefulness are snuffed out at a nod from the chief, the value of human life being what it is in war, and altogether no new ingredient, no new touch, no novel twist serves in the least to differentiate this plot from all of the other spy plots that have gone before. But when you come to the personalities of the players, that is something else again!

Garbo, languid, icy, competent, with all Paris at her feet, is a strangely intriguing figure, despite a series of costumes that are as bizarre as they are unbecoming. It seemed to me, nevertheless, that even when she realizes the depths of her love for the young lieutenant of aviation in the czar's army, her Nordic chill was not quite sufficiently melted by Novarro's ardor. The Latin Mr. Novarro, charming as he is in manner, speech and action, can never be convincingly Russian. There is the impressiveness of complete command of their craft, however, in everything these two do.

Lionel Barrymore, as the Russian colonel who has fallen into Mata Hari's web, assumes the difficult task of simulating a drink-crazed weakling, terrified by the predicament into which he has plunged himself. Lewis S. Stone, on the other hand, is the suave, imperturbable and authoritative chief of the German spies in Paris to the life. The long list of others, which I trust has been read, contains no single player who falls anything short of an excellent performance.

The closing scenes of the drama take on heroic proportions. The lovers have become, respectively, blind and condemned to death by the firing squad. Each attempts to reassure the other of the future's bright promise and the years of happiness that stretch away before them. These are poignant and moving moments, culminating a succession of finely acted episodes.

The auxiliaries are appropriately few and brief. The Paramount Sound News, a Flip, the Frog, cartoon comedy, "Fire, Fire," and a short-reel subject devoted to whippets and whippet racing augment a feature which will, of course, keep the Columbia packed to the chandeliers at every performance.

FOX

"THE SILENT WITNESS." Fox picturization of the play by Jack De Leon and Jack Celestin, featuring Lionel Atwill, Weldon Heyburn and Greta Nissen, supported by Bramwell Fletcher, Mary Forbes, Montague Shaw, Wyndham Standing, Alan Mowbray, Lumsden Hare, Herbert Mundin and Billy Bevan. Directed by Marcel Varnel and R. L. Hough. Previewed last Saturday night.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Here is a mystery melodrama, which adheres rigidly to the reputed methods of Scotland Yard in its attempted solution of a murder in connection with which there appear to be sufficiently incriminating clues to make conviction of the accused certain.

A beautiful, but not too scrupulously faithful, young wife is found murdered. By her are a wallet and a fragment of torn check. Sir Austin Howard's son had been in her company, but a moment before. The wallet and check, however, are his father's. To shield the lad in whom his life is wrapped up, Sir Austin permits himself to become the suspect in the case and is arraigned in court. The absence of a theater ticket intended to support a part of the alibi adds to the weight of the circumstantial evidence against the accused.

From this situation is built a tense, staccato courtroom drama that gains much by the expertness with which it has been directed and the skill with which it is played. Just as Bayard Veiller employed a rapid-fire barrage of crisp, curt speeches to lend an electric quality to the second act curtain of "Within the Law," so in "The Silent Witness" have the exchanges between the prosecutor and the witness box been swiftly paced to accelerate interest and suspense in scenes that might otherwise be commonplace.

Lionel Atwill, in the role of Sir Austin, is the one principally responsible for the dramatic fiber and the vigor of the play. As the father seeking to protect his son from the stigma of a nasty situation, he plays with earnestness and convincing naturalness. When he becomes vehement and explosive, he becomes consistently and believably so.

Bramwell Fletcher, as the son; Weldon Heyburn, the husband of the murdered beauty, and Greta Nissen, in that comparatively brief part, all acquit themselves handsomely. Comedy roles of prime importance to the final determination of actual guilt are interpreted with keen humor and no more grotesquery than need be by Herbert Mundin, a newcomer, and Billy Bevan, a veteran of proved capability. Those in the minor parts render excellent accounts of themselves.

Capacity audiences yesterday seemed thoroughly won to the peculiarly effective idiosyncrasies of Phil Lampkin, the guest conductor of the week. Mr. Lampkin, in addition to being a southpaw wielder of the baton, is a showman born and bred and a trumpet soloist of no mean caliber, as was demonstrated by his rendition of the "My Hero" number in the Chocolate Soldier" overture that was so roundly applauded that the orchestra had to come to its feet twice, instead of the customary perfunctory once.

The Fanchon & Marco "Dream House" Idea follows the musical comedy form a little more closely than most tabloid revues and serves to introduce O'Donnell Blair & Co., in a riotous carpentering act closely patterned after another that has been popular for years; Master and Gauthier, comedians; Ben Omar, acrobatic dancer; Louise Glenn, toe dancer, and as buxom a group of Sunkist Beauties as has been seen here since goodness knows when.

The Fox Movietone News completes a bill that is worth all the time it takes.

RIALTO

"MICHAEL AND MARY." Gainsborough Pictures' elmination of A. A. Milne's play, distributed by Universal Pictures, starring Edna Best and Herbert Marshall, supported by Ben Field, Elizabeth Allen, Frank Lawton and D. A. Clarke Smith. Directed by Victor Saville. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

"Michael and Mary" is good, very good. And Herbert Marshall and Edna Best are, as we could have told you before seeing "Michael and Mary," excellent.

This Enoch Arden-like tale of little, deserted-on-her-honeymoon Mary and going-to-be-an-author Michael, who meet in the London Museum in the days of the Boer War never to part again, is rather heavier than the usual Milne whimsy. Mary and Michael can't marry—they know that their Enoch (Harry Price) will probably come back—but they do marry and he does come back 20 years later when there is a son of Mary and Michael's to worry about. From this point on there are quick and clever turns and turn-about of conflicting situations to be seen and not revealed in a review.

It is a quiet picture, rather slowly paced and simply told, yet it is strangely moving. And if this love story so nicely acted does nothing else, it at least, and at last, reveals just how much Hollywood lost when Edna Best got homesick and ran away to husband Herbert Marshall, and also why she was homesick.

Each does a superlative job. Starting in the ringlets and billowy skirts of 1899 the blonde Mary, growing in character, and aging through skillful make-up and characterization, becomes a lovely, lovable person while the charming, homely Michael through sheer force of personality and the richness of a beautiful voice creates a strong, appealing character. We think Husband Herbert has a shade the better of it here, perhaps it is a little more Michael's story, or perhaps we're prejudiced, never being quite able to forget the brilliance of his performance in last year's "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

These two are far from alone in excellence. Every member of the English cast does his or her task with unusual finesse. Ben Field as Mr. Tullivant, a true Milne creation, is particularly deft and amusing. Frank Lawton as son David, and Elizabeth Allen as his sweetheart, are dear in their brief roles. The Harry Price of D. A. Clarke Smith is properly crafty and smooth.

The film form sticks closely to the stage production, which appeared here last year with Madge Kennedy and Otto Kruger.

A hilarious Slim Summerville comedy, "Peeking in Pekin," with Harry Gribbon, a beautous Chinee lady and a side-splitting mandolin gag; a newsreel, and an Oswald Rabbit cartoon complete an entertaining program.

PALACE

"TOMORROW AND TOMORROW." Paramount picturization of the play by Philip Barry, adapted to the screen by Josephine Lovett, starring Ruth Chatterton, supported by Paul Lukas, Harold Minjir and Tad Alexander. Directed by Richard Wallace. Reviewed Friday night by W. A. Whitney.

With a cast headed by Ruth Chatterton and Paul Lukas in a play from the pen of Philip Barry, much might be expected of "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," but from the screen version of this drama it would appear that the poet was right when he said, "Tomorrow never comes," for the action of this one never seems to get going, even at the traditional fade-out.

There is but little narrative on which to hang any acting, what little story there is being submerged beneath the demonstration of the use of mental suggestion in the cure of baffling maladies where no physical disturbances are visibly present. Thus, by making his son become a horseman much against his will, Gail Redman inadvertently forces the boy to build up a psychological reaction that makes rehabilitation impossible when he is hurt in a fall. Through association of ideas, brought about by Eve Redman's singing of the nursery song, "Frere Jacques," the boy comes out of his comatose state and regains normalcy.

Throughout the clinical demonstration—as well as in scenes seven years earlier—there is the frustrated love of Dr. Nicholas Faber, eminent European psychologist, for Eve.

As might be presumed, the essential narrative is done in the manner of Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude." With neither the depth nor the craftsmanship of O'Neill, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" has neither the intellectual nor entertainment appeal it should possess.

Miss Chatterton is, as always, above reproach in her portrayal of the wife whose consuming passion for a child becomes almost an obsession. Too, with Mr. Lukas, as the distinguished doctor, there can be no complaint as to the quality of his work. The emotional stress to which the adult principals are put is but the normal assignment for them, but to Tad Alexander a task of no less difficulty is given, and it is more than admirably performed. It is a portrayal, easily the outstanding one of the picture.

Following the admonition of Bert Frohman, the Palace acts "Get Gay" in a big way. Starting with a traditional opening chorus, the revue gets under way with a series of eccentric and comedy tap dances by Dugan and Hadley, followed by a couple of songs by Maureen Rio. The gaiety is continued with the Six Gallenos, tumbling acrobats, whose perennial appearances are always welcome in spite of an apparently unchanged act. In his characteristic manner Mr. Frohman sings several recitative numbers that are riotously received.

The Hearst Metrotone News rounds out the bill.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

YESTERDAY the concourse of Union Station was packed with representatives of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled War Veterans and all the other groups that derive particular pleasure and benefit from radio programs, not to mention a vast segment of the private citizenry, representative of nothing but its own friendly interest.

Bands played, flashlights flickered, announcers described the scene over one of the Capital's two major, high-power broadcasting stations and altogether a casual onlooker might have suspected that the Prince of Wales, or the King and Queen of Belgium, or some other comparable notable had returned to Washington for another unexpected visit.

But this was no unexpected visit that was being celebrated with such fanfare and hurrah, enthusiasm, eclat and elan. Kate Smith was back home for a week of personal appearances at RKO-Keith's—the theater where she really gathered her first impetus toward fame and fortune—and the home folks were out indicating something of how they felt about it, and her.

KATE SMITH.

There seems to be a surprising number of the townspeople who look upon Kate Smith as a sort of robust Cinderella, who leaped from the obscurity of her figurative chimney corner into the golden glare of Broadway by one of those overnight miracles that sometimes happen, but in this instance didn't.

Kate is at the moment on top by reason of a long and arduous tour of duty in the less opulent of the amusement spots, hard work, a dogged persistence and perhaps just a dash of luck. Having been vaguely and unimportantly associated with it, I feel that I know something of Kate's professional genesis, and so purpose setting down here a few of the salient facts.

AWAY back there in an earlier incarnation, when it became part of my official duties to preside over a long-forgotten broadcasting unit known as the Crandall Saturday Nighters, Joe Morgan, then general manager of the Harry M. Crandall theatrical interests, came to me and said he had heard a jazz singer on the air the night before whom he thought we ought to grab. All he knew was the name, Kate Smith, but that proved to be enough, so we grabbed.

At that time Kate's experience had consisted almost entirely of single banquet engagements, amateur "floor shows," club and lodge nights and similar modest enterprises. She was so much of a youngster that we were compelled to wait until she got out of school in the afternoon to call up and determine whether she would be interested in becoming a "Saturday Nighter." She would. And did.

The Smith voice at this juncture in its development was so stentorian an organ that it was necessary to place Kate half way across a large studio room from the microphone to prevent what was then known—and perhaps still is—as "blasting." Her fee for a preliminary session at the old WRC studio at Fourteenth street and Park road, followed by an indeterminate period on the air from the stage of the Metropolitan Theater—we were the last unit on WRC's schedule Saturday nights and in those days were permitted to run wild, sometimes until 1:30 or 2 o'clock in the morning—was $10!.

But the important point is that every time Kate went on the air our fan mail increased and every time she worked before a visible audience from the stage of the theater, after the last regular performance, she was a sure-fire and irrepressible riot.

So we put on a "Radio Revue," featuring Kate, as a special added stage attraction for an entire week at the Metropolitan. The same thing was true there. Kate stopped the show. So she was booked again and when the Earle Theater came under the wing of the Stanley Co. and was delegated to the Stanley-Crandall Co., of Washington for operation, she was given a week on Thirteenth street in the vaudeville portion of the bill—and again proved the possession of an unique power to please audiences.

Then came the "break" that signalized the beginning of the professional career that led to Broadway and her present richly deserved eminence.

IT was one of those midnight N. V. A. performances that Roland Robbins used to stage at B. F. Keith's as the climax of National Vaudeville Artists Week. Kate was urged to go on, but counseled not to take part in the "cabaret" scene that closed the show by grouping all the amateurs in Washington in one act and permitting each one to do a "bit." It was the thought that Kate deserved a regular place on the bill proper. She got it, and it was not the "deuce" spot!

The songs she sang have escaped my memory, but I have a distinct recollection that we had to secure orchestrations from Dan Breeskin's library and explain how many verses and choruses of each, tempos and such to Freddie Clark, then conducting at Keith's, now at the Earle.

Eddie Dowling was master of ceremonies that night and heard Kate sing. When she came off he promised her an engagement in his next production. So had Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor, George Jessel and a good many more. If it had been in the language at that time, Kate probably would have said, "Aw, nerts!" Since it wasn't, she merely laughed.

But Eddie Dowling did give her a part in his next production, "Honeymoon Lane," and it is a good thing for him and "Honeymoon" that he did, for when the show opened at Atlantic City it was dying on its feet until Kate came on at 10:50, just one leap ahead of the final curtain, and pumped enough life into it to put it over. The thing ran for years, it seems to me, at the old Knickerbocker Theater in New York. The rest you know. But remember, all this began back there in those early 20s and this is 1932. It has not been such an easy climb!

And another thing. Despite certain columnar reports from New York that Kate has gone high-hat with her friends, her head turned a little by a degree of success that might turn anybody's, no such thing has happened.

Unless something had gone haywire with my home phone last dinner hour, she is the same friendly, jolly, enthusiastic, big overgrown kid she has always been.

But with all that voice, who ever would have thought she'd turn out to be a crooner?

METROPOLITAN

"HUSBAND'S HOLIDAY." Paramount picturization of the play, "The Marriage Bed," by Ernest Pascal, adapted to the screen by Mr. Pascal and Viola Brothers Shore, featuring Clive Brook supported by Charles Ruggles, Vivienne Osborne and Juliette Compton. Directed by Robert Milton. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

All the old entanglements of happy and unhappy married life seem to have been tossed into the plot of "Husband's Holiday," with resultant unusual situations; some exceedingly funny and others just sad enough to give the proper proportion of emotion to the play. Fortunately, all the puzzles have been pieced together at the finish with prospects for long and happy lives of contentment for all concerned.

George and Mary Boyd had been married long enough to have children 7 and 5 years old when George falls for Christine Kennedy. His wife, believing her work in building a home and her children are entitled to first consideration, refuses to divorce him despite the pleas of her mother, who has divorced her husband. Finally, in a desperate effort to win freedom for her lover, Christine tells Mary she is about to have a baby. Mary agrees to the divorce, but when George learns that Andrew Trask, his friend, is planning to wed Mary as soon as she gets her divorce, he decides he doesn't want it. Christine attempts suicide, is saved, and finally bows out of the picture gracefully, leaving the field free for a happy reunion.

That, in the main, is the story. Clive Brook, as George, is great as the father, but not such an ardent lover with his mistress. Vivienne Osborne gives a well-sustained performance as Mary, while Juliette Compton is cold and "just the type" as Christine.

Director Milton has kept the story from becoming too depressing through injections of considerable comedy, furnished largely by Charles Ruggles as Mary's hen-pecked brother-in-law, and Charles Winninger, Mary's father. Her mother, played by Elizabeth Patterson, is also a character of considerable importance. Others in the cast with good bits are Harry Bannister, Dorothy Tree, Adrienne Ames, Leni Stengel and the two children, Dickie Moore and Marilyn Knowlden.

Two comedy subjects are included in the auxiliary program. Thelma White and Fanny Watson are featured in a Vitaphone sketch, "Her Wedding Nightmare," which has a few sprightly moments, while a Merrie Melody cartoon, based on the song, "Red-Headed Baby," was amusing. An issue of Paramount Sound News completes the bill.

STRIKE OF FARMERS SEEN IF RELIEF FAILS

Iowan, From Birthplace of Hoover, Tells Senators Need Is Urgent.

(Associated Press.)

A farmer from West Branch, Iowa—President Hoover's birthplace—yesterday told a Senate committee that a "farmers' strike" was impending unless Congress passed relief legislation at this session.

"I think the farmers of this country will be driven to withhold their food products until the world is satisfied it has to have them and is willing to pay for them," Paul Moore, representing the Farmers Union members of Cedar County, asserted before the Senate agriculture committee.

The committee has before it a bill which would abolish the Farm Board and would guarantee farmers at least the cost of production.

"I think the next step to be taken by the organized farmers of this country will be a strike unless legislation is passed," Mr. Moore added in urging passage of the bill.

He said this is "the last time that agriculture will be able to make this appeal," adding that "by the time another session of Congress rolls around agriculture will be unable to be with you."

T. E. Howard, representing the National Farmers Union, also advocated passage of the measure. He predicted that Russia would take from the United States its European wheat market.

Voicing the opinion that "our export wheat market is a thing of the past," Mr. Howard contended "we should recognize wheat as on a purely domestic basis."

Man Is Held for Jury On Charge of Woman

On a charge of attempting to assault a young married woman, Howard C. Frost, 653 Maryland avenue northeast, yesterday was ordered held for grand jury action under bond of $1,500 when he was arraigned before Police Judge John P. McMahon.

The woman testified that while she was seeking a position, she met Frost. He started up a conversation with her and offered to drive her to her home, she said. Instead, he drove her to a point near the Lincoln Memorial and there made advances to her.

Woman's $50,000 Suit Against Alienist Dropped

For lack of prosecution, Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday dismissed a suit for $50,000 damages brought against Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, by Mrs. Helen McHale, 3110 Mount Pleasant street northwest.

Mrs. McHale's suit charged that Dr. Hickling had falsely signed a certificate accusing her of insanity, which resulted in her being placed in St. Elizabeths Hospital.

TOWN OF WASHINGTON'S YOUTH INTERESTED IN ESSAY CONTEST

testants are urged to get their essays in as soon after February 10 as possible, in order to facilitate their handling by The Post essay officials before they are submitted to the judges for their final decision.

It was learned yesterday that a potential group of 1,300 boys, members of the Washington Boys Club, located at Third and C streets northwest, is not only interested in The Washington Post's George Washington essay contest but has entered essay contests before with excellent results.

The chief topic of conversation at the club just now is The Post Washington essay contest and many essays are being prepared for the big contest.

Each year the Boys Club Federation of America stages a contest for the 200,000 boys over whom it has jurisdiction. Subjects generally deal with Boys Club work and aims, and the Washington chapter of the national institution for underprivileged boys generally ranks high among the leaders.

Charles M. Fyfe, director of the Washington Boys Club, asked for full particulars on The Post's contest yesterday and will lay the rules of the contest before the big membership of the club, largely composed of boys under the contest age limit of 18. He stated there has been many requests by the boys for further facts and figures on the essay competition.

And he promised that one of his bright-eyed lads would take first place.

Applications for booklets received yesterday were as follows: Macfarlane Knappen, 2924 Tilden street, northwest; Verne Louise Lynch, Holy Cross Academy; Ruth McMillan, 219 Whittier street northwest; Margaret O. Leary, 207 Channing street northeast; Helen Healy, 1012 Fifth street northeast; Frank J. Quinn, 81 Corning street, Charleston, S. C.; Mary Katherine Moore, 225 South Oak street, Clarendon, Va.; Rachel Elizabeth Deab, 749 Butternut street northwest; Gertrude Troy, Riverdale, Md.; Robert Elmer Luke, 2842 Vista street northeast; Charles Harvey, 3416 Otis street, Mount Rainier, Md.; Faith Lovejoy Shesong, 311 A street northeast; Cornelius Sullivan, 930 Fourth street northeast; Francis X. Foley, 1403 Caroline street; Margaret Jones, 2807 Thirteenth street northeast; Phyllis Ellen Walker, 760 Rock Creek road northwest; Joseph O'Dea, 308 Seventh street southwest; Edward Leon Pultz, 208 Summit street, Cherrydale, Va.; Mary Elizabeth Queen, Annapolis, Md.; John L. Kennison, 1734 Eighth street northwest; Ernest James Marshall, jr., 3600 Rock Creek road; Eleanor Alice Broome, Rockville, Md.; Zita Mae Brown, 636 B street southwest; George William Whaler, 1348 Euclid street northwest; Jean Offterdinger, 2900 Connecticut avenue; Annabel S. Whaler, Fourteenth and Euclid streets; John Robert Satterfield, Rosslyn, Va.; Webster Prentiss True, jr., Falls Church, Va.; Harold Lewis Choate, 817 Willette avenue, Clarendon, Va.; Florence Roberta Rea, 171 V street northeast.

New essays yesterday were from Mary Elizabeth Manning (age 11), 135 Marion avenue, Clarendon, Va.; Milton Kibler (age 9), 3633 Thirty-first street northwest; Willard Demory (age 14), Fairfax, Va.; Rebecca Allnutt (age 16), Dawsonville, Va.; Anna Y. Mahin (age 16), 2006 Columbia road; Paul Ellsworth Harrison (age 9), Cottage City, Md.; Barnard Maroy, Rosslyn, Va.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

NATIONAL headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union has played fast and loose with the District of Columbia A. A. U. Association in the matter of the award of the national indoor women's swimming championships to Los Angeles.

The District of Columbia Association holds a considerable equity in the event inasmuch as it was offered to Washington and accepted and arrangements already had been made here to obtain the $3,000 necessary to finance the event.

The A. A. U. has two explanations to make in the matter. The first is the award of an indoor event to an outdoor pool, such as the Los Angeles tank and the second is the fact that no records made in the pool can be recognized as indoor records, due to the difference in atmospheric conditions.

The record place mutuel price paid by Baal at Hialeah on Thursday has had its effect on the betting at the Miami track, apparently. Baal was 2,423 to 1 to win, and paid $971.10 in the $2 place mutuels.

That was in the second race, and no horse has been better than 371 to 1 since, as contrasted with the five which were held at odds of more than 1,000 to 1 on the day before Baal's race. Baal's price also may have had its effect on the betting on favorites, inasmuch as only one horse was quoted as odds-on yesterday, whereas these heavily backed choices have numbered as high as six in a single day.

No great amount of betting on Top Flight at odds of 6 to 1 in the winter books has been noted despite the fact that the favorite is unlikely to be better than even money if she starts in the Derby. The bettors still retain the memory of the large odds offered on Equipoise and Jamestown in the winter books last year when the two horses were standouts. Neither started and they carried hundreds of thousands in winter book bets into the discard.

Maryland's spacious Ritchie Coliseum promises to yield returns immediately. The double bill offered tonight in which the Old Line boxers face the Washington and Lee squad and the basket ball teams meets North Carolina U. is calculated to attract 4,000 fans at $1 per head. Inasmuch as boxing and basket ball guarantees are usually no more than 10 per cent of the amounts that a football game carries, Maryland is likely to show a profit that will shame the net of many of its football engagements.

The University of Virginia is another institution that has found its boxing team profitable. Two years ago the net from the boxing season exceeded the football profits. Virginia long has been the seat of the Southern Conference tournament in tribute to the intense interest in college boxing in the vicinity of Charlottesville.

Bobby Goldstein, Virginia's Olympic hope in the featherweight class, is faced with a high hurdle tonight in the person of Marty Levinson, of North Carolina, hard-hitting 125-pounder. Neither have been beaten thus far this season, and Goldstein is undefeated during his college career of three years, but Levinson is the only man to knock Goldstein off his feet. Two years ago, when both were freshmen, Marty floored Bobby for a count of nine, but the Washington lad got up off the floor to batter out the decision.

The National Boxing Association gained little prestige in conducting the middleweight elimination tournament at Chicago to determine the successor to Mickey Walker. Gorilla Jones, the winner, received only $1,000 as his share of the gate which totaled only $5,000, something of a new low record for a championship fight.

Jim Londos has lost his case with the Illinois Athletic Commission and has been ordered to go through with his match with Rudy Dusek on February 11 at the Chicago Coliseum. It marks the first time a Curley wrestler has ever been officially ordered to meet another Curley wrestler. The order is about as distasteful to Londos as an order to a Japanese firing squad to end the earthly existence of a Chinese sniper.

German Foe Injured, Carnera Gains Victory

Berlin, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, tonight defeated Ernest Guehring, German heavyweight, in a scheduled 10-round bout when the German was forced to retire in the fifth round because of an injured foot. Guehring had held his giant adversary even up to the time he was incapacitated. Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm was among the crowd which saw the bout.

Howard U. Suffers Season's First Defeat

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 5.—Howard University's basket ball team lost its first game of the season to Virginia State College by the score of 25 to 19 in a hard-fought game. State came from behind in the second half and pushed the Bisons back with a fast passing offensive centered around Hall.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE basket ball teams of Tech and Eastern High Schools made possible a thrilling finish of the high school basket ball series February 9 yesterday afternoon by beating Western and Central, respectively, and thus going into the last day of the series dramatically abreast of one another, and scheduled to meet the other.

Eastern's stock zoomed sky high yesterday when its lanky team, fighting every inch of the way to maintain their even level with Tech, vaulted over Central High's stubborn outfit by a score of 23-18. Tech beat Anthony Latona by the score 54-26, in a game into which the basket ball cruelty prevention league might well stick a pious nose.

Central, with no championship hopes awaiting them, no matter how they made out against Eastern, showed a beautiful attempt to upset the leaders, an eventuality, which, if it had occurred, would have caused the paying customers to stay away from next Tuesday's Tech-Eastern game in droves. I caught the sensitive nostrils of several high school athletic officials quivering anxiously as Central made a fight of it from the start, and looked like a winner within hailing distance of the game time.

Eastern and Central Wage Battle.

Eastern and Central, perfectly matched, were off at the crack of the gun and never more than 6 points ahead or behind each other. Eastern, playing much more aggressive ball than the wisies had looked for, stepped out at the start and jumped to 7-2 on team-wide excellence. Buddy Nau, on a nice pot off a pivot play, made it 7-4 at the quarter. Nau dominated a second quarter Central rally, with a beautiful passing attack, and Central eased to an 11-9 lead on Rex Smith's follow-up shot just as the gun blew out the north wall.

With the start of the third quarter, Barney Kane, Eastern forward, began to assert a masterful game of basket ball. Kane, openly accused by press and public as an individual player, worked in superbly with the still confident Eastern play, and glued himself securely to the youth upon whom much of Central's scoring depended, Jack Moulton. Moulton, who scored 18 points in his last game, did not make two shots during the whole game without Kane to deflect the ball from its flight. He scored only once from the floor, while Kane, cutting and zigzagging like a room of exploding skyrockets, shook himself clear from the Central defense and dropped in nine badly needed points.

Wild Scramble Develops.

There was little to choose between the teams at the end of the third quarter, which developed into a wild scramble for the ball at the expense of coolness. Eastern led 14-12. Moulton tied it, 14-14, in his lone basket from the floor at the start of the fourth period, which for sheer kissing the canvas and ear-skidding on the part of both teams has not been equaled in a high school series game since the boys produced an interesting and much too quickly stopped riot at the Arcade years ago.

With half the quarter gone, Buddy Nau, who was doing most of the shooting Moulton hoped to accom-

MAGNATE DIES

BARNEY DREYFUSS.

DREYFUSS, 67, EXPIRES IN HOSPITAL

Pirates' Owner, Who Started First World Series, Dies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Another baseball's old guard, Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Pirates, father of the world series, passed on today. He was the tenth nationally known figure in the game to die within fifteen months and the second within two weeks. He would have been 67 years old on February 23.

He died in Mount Sinai Hospital, of pneumonia, which followed upon an operation for prostatitis January 6. The body was taken to Pittsburgh tonight. The funeral probably will take place Sunday or Monday at his home there. Burial will be beside his son, Sam, who died last February 22.

Dreyfuss came to New York in December for a National League meeting and announced he was going to stay on a while "to take Mrs. Dreyfuss to some good shows." He entered the hospital shortly afterward.

Mrs. Dreyfuss was with him through his illness as was his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Denswanger; Denswanger, treasurer of the club; and Mrs. Sam Dreyfuss, widow of his son Dreyfuss, except for one year, 1930, when he turned direction of the Pirates over to his son, Sam, had been actively connected with baseball since 1884. He obtained an interest at that time in a semiprofessional team at Paducah, Ky., where he had gone as an immigrant German boy three years before.

Promoted First World Series.

He removed to Louisville in 1888 and one year later bought an interest in the Louisville Nationals, which he merged with the Pittsburgh team in 1900 when the older baseball circuit was reduced from twelve to eight teams.

In 1903 he promoted the first interleague series between his own champion Pittsburgh team of the National League and the Boston Red Sox, of the American. In 1905 the series was officially established under the Brush rules and quickly gained popularity.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, and an associate of Dreyfuss for many years, paid tribute to the human qualities of the grizzled little Pittsburgh leader.

Bliss Quintet Routs Strayer's Team, 39-17

Bliss Electrical School's cagey basket ball squad, determined to hold its front rank in the Washington Collegiate Conference race, opened more daylight between itself and Ben Franklin last night by downing Strayer's Business College, 39-17, at Silver Spring.

Bliss was off on the right foot and never approached. It led, 16-9, at the turn and showed a unified shooting strength. During the course of the game nearly the entire squad was used.

C. U. Ringmen Triumph In Debut

Cards Win 4 Bouts, Draw 1 Against N. Y. C. C.

Pyne's Win Clinches Match; Marvelias Upset Victor.

By JACK ESPEY.

CATHOLIC University's boxers began their 1932 knitting last night with the threads of a winning streak begun back in 1930, fashioning another victim, City College of New York, on what promises to be one of the best records ever achieved in the realm of rah-rah leather pushing.

But more to the point, ladies and gentlemen, Coach Eddie Lafond's sluggers belted a game bunch of boys from New York around the ring in Brookland Gymnasium to win the match by a score of 4½ to 2½. The split point resulted from the draw decision of the final bout between Bingo Flynn, C. U. novice, and Dan Brown, visiting heavyweight.

More than 2,000 students, members of the athletic association and guests of the university, sopped up the thrills of the seven hard-fought bouts.

Pyne Gains Edge as Crowd Roars.

The Cardinals, who last bowed to Bucknell in 1930, were in danger of falling again until Danny Pyne, broad-shouldered Washington youth, defeated Jack Diamond in the sixth contest for C. U.'s fourth individual triumph. This clinched the team victory and sent salvos of applause ringing throughout the spacious structure.

Pyne, undefeated in five bouts last year, won with a lightning left hook and an equally fast right cross which took the fight out of Diamond before the second round closed. During this session Danny doubled up his opponent with a worthy replica of Fitzsimmons' corkscrew punch, a twisting left that exploded on Diamond's stomach, and he followed this with a burning right to the head, but Diamond refused to go down.

As a unit the Cardinals proved themselves able exponents of the art of self-defense. All demonstrated ability to block and parry and none suffered much damage. Pyne, however, and Johnny Stapleton, Basil Maravelias and Ruben Miro—the other C. U. victors—showed something more by piercing the defense of their opponents.

Maravelias Rallies to Defeat Blum.

Maravelias, who employs both the left and right hand styles, uncorked a pleasant surprise by soundly beating M. Blum in the lightweight bout after Blum had started with a burst of speed and punching. Midway through the first round Maravelias opened up a terrific two-fisted attack and scored a knockdown with a sweeping left to Blum's head. The second and third rounds found the visitor busily trying to avoid a knockout.

Bill Calabrese, who took the featherweight assignment in the absence of Johnny DePasquale, probably C. U.'s most polished boxer, met a distant relative in Frank Di Giacomo, of C. C. N. Y., who gained the decision on the strength of a fine body attack. Di Giacomo drew blood from Calabrese's left eye in the second round and finished the bout much the stronger.

In the preceding bout which opened the program, Miro gave Catholic U. the lead by outpointing Milton Rosenthal. These bantamweights pleased with a speedy exhibition, Rosenthal winning the decision through cleaner punching.

C. C. N. Y. Draws Level as Striker Wins.

C. C. N. Y. evened the match when George Striker defeated lanky Frank Stines in the welterweight clash, fourth on the card. Striker proved worthy of his name, scoring repeatedly with lefts to Stines' face, as the C. U. lad, missing badly, drove in.

Stapleton gave Catholic the edge in the next bout, outpointing the C. C. N. Y. middleweight, M. Siegel, with a steady fire of left hooks. Siegel was groggy at the finish, the Cardinal boxer having added an overhand right to the punishment.

In the concluding heavyweight bout Flynn suffered from lack of experience and his cool rival, Brown, easily evaded his long-range blows while stepping in occasionally to plant short shots to Bingo's head. Flynn dropped under a right in the second round, but arose before Referee Denny Hughes could begin the count.

115-POUND CLASS—Ruben Miro (Catholic) defeated Milton Rosenthal (C. C. N. Y.), decision, 3 rounds.
125-POUND CLASS—Frank Di Giacomo (C. C. N. Y.) defeated William Calabrese (Catholic), decision, 3 rounds.
135-POUND CLASS—Basil Maravelias (Catholic) defeated M. Blum (C. C. N. Y.), decision, 3 rounds.
145-POUND CLASS—George Striker (C. C. N. Y.) defeated Frank Stines (Catholic), decision, 3 rounds.
165-POUND CLASS—John Stapleton (Catholic) defeated M. Siegel (C. C. N. Y.), decision, 3 rounds.
175-POUND CLASS—Dan Pyne (Catholic) defeated Jack Diamond (C. C. N. Y.), decision, 3 rounds.
UNLIMITED CLASS—Hugh Flynn (Catholic) drew with Daniel Brown (C. C. N. Y.), 3 rounds.

Griffith and Kerr Sign With Nats for 1932

The signed contracts of Infielder Johnny Kerr and Pitcher Lynn Griffith, were received yesterday by President Clark C. Griffith, of the Nats. Kerr was obtained from the White Sox with Carl Reynolds in the deal that sent Hadley and Jones to Chicago. Griffith is a Chattanooga recruit. Twelve regulars are now in the Washington fold.

Jack Shea, Dartmouth College sophomore, is pictured leading the field of international stars in the 500-meter speed skating championship of the Olympic games in the costly ice arena at Lake Placid, N. Y. Shea has brought the United States the title also in the 1,500-meter dash.

RUGGIRELLO STOPPED BY SCHAAF

Referee Halts Garden Bout With Italian Heavy Helpless.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, scored a technical knockout over Salvatore Ruggirello, big Italian, in the fourth round of their heavyweight battle at Madison Square Garden tonight. Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the bout after 1 minute and 28 seconds of fighting in the fourth round with Ruggirello standing helpless in Schaaf's corner. Schaff weighed 209, Ruggirello, 203.

A right to the jaw put the Italian down for a count of eight a moment before the bout was halted. He was staggering about the ring, taking a merciless beating from the sailor when Donovan waved Schaaf away.

About 7,000 customers saw Ruggirello, a substitute for Paulino Uzcudun, take everything Schaaf had for the first three rounds and come back fighting, trying desperately to get over his vaunted right. But, early in the fourth, the sailor dug a left deep into Ruggirello's midriff, softening him up appreciably. A right to the chin was the beginning of the end. It was the Italian's first main event in the Garden.

It scarcely was a hard workout for Schaaf. Despite his strenuous efforts, the grim-visaged Ruggie managed to land only one clean right in the three and a fraction rounds. It was the same blow that gave the Italian knockouts over Walter Cobb and Stanley Boreda in his last two fights but it didn't feaze Ernie.

Uzcudun who was to have faced Schaaf, but was forced out by a fractured rib received in training, was introduced and challenged the winner.

Coleman, Coast Star, To Become Pro Golfer

Culver City, Calif., Feb. 4 (A.P.).—One of America's best amateur golfers, Fay Coleman, is turning to the professional ranks March 1. On that date he will become professional at the California Country Club here, according to announcement today.

Perkins and Mitchell In Florida Golf Final

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 5 (U.P.).—T. Phil Perkins, Stapleton, N. Y., defending champion and former British amateur title holder, will meet C. Bayard Mitchell, jr., Woodbury, N. J., in final play for the national championship of club champions here tomorrow.

Grimes Signs With Cubs; Has Confidence in Arm

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes visited the Cub offices today, signed his contract and said his big right arm was already in great shape to pitch winning ball games for his new club.

It was his first visit to the Cubs since he was acquired from the championship St. Louis Cardinals in the Hack Wilson-Bud Teachout deal.

Thurnblad Dethroned As Billiard Champion

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, was dethroned as world three cushion billiards champion tonight when he lost to Augie Kieckefer, 50 to 33, in 40 innings. The defeat was Thurnblad's fourth in ten matches, while the victory boosted Kieckhefer into a tie for first place with Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, at seven games won and two lost.

BROWN LOSES DECISION.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5.—Buster Brown, Baltimore lightweight, flashed his boxing and slugging ability before Philadelphia ring fans in the ten-round feature bout at the Cambria here tonight, but his best efforts were not enough and Eddie Cool, Philadelphia, carried off the decision at the end of their encounter. There were no knockdowns during the battle.

Olympic Games Barred to Athletes Who Act for Compensation.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Amateur Athletic Union today adopted a ruling whereby any athlete appearing in a motion picture in any athletic capacity for compensation would lose his amateur standing.

Avery Brundage, of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., also said the executive committee had ruled that any one who teaches, trains or coaches in any sport for money would not be allowed to compete in the Olympic games.

Boys Club Will Open Modern Rifle Range

The Washington Boys Club will open one of the most modern rifle ranges in this section within a week, it was learned yesterday. Teams will be organized from the membership and schedules arranged with local high schools and colleges.

Instructors, furnished by the local National Guards and the National Rifle Association, will be in attendance. Nine targets in all will be erected in the site of the proposed swimming pool beneath the big Boys Club gymnasium.

Dempsey in Chicago For Mississippi Dispute

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey comes back to Chicago tomorrow to settle his difficulties with the Mississippi State Boxing Commission and open training for his important four-round battle February 18 with King Levinsky.

His dispute with the Mississippi Commission, which involves something like $2,500 in unpaid bills incurred in a boxing program at Columbus, Miss., last fall, was expected to be settled quickly. The Mississippi Commission charges that Dempsey was interested as a copromotor in the exhibition and is responsible for the unpaid debts. Dempsey insists he acted only as a referee.

WOOD BREAKS SPEEDBOAT RECORD

Pilots Miss America IX at 111.712-Mile Pace at Daytona.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Gar Wood coaxed an average speed of 111.712 statute miles an hour out of his Miss America IX on a two-way run over the Indian Creek course here today and claimed a new world's speedboat record for America.

He exceeded by 1.489 miles the record of 110.223 miles an hour established last July 9 at Lake Garda, Italy, by the Englishman, Kaye Don, with Miss England II.

Rules of the International Yachtsman's Association and the Yachtsmen's Association of America required that Wood exceed the previous record by half a mile an hour in order to claim a new mark.

Wood's speed must be submitted to and approved by these two associations before it is recognized as an official world's record. The veteran Detroit racer said he was "confident we have reclaimed for America the supremacy on water as we should have on land and in the air."

Speed Is 112.34 on South Run.

With the wind helping him over the measured nautical mile course on a southward run, Wood was clocked by electrical timing devices at 112.434 statute miles an hour. The elapsed time was 36.87 seconds.

Northward, the Miss America was slowed to 110.989 miles an hour, with elapsed time of 37.35 seconds.

The average speed of two runs, one in each direction, is the basis of computing a record attempt.

"I believe the speed of 112.434 miles an hour was the greatest thrill of my life," the white-haired sportsman said as he stepped out of the Miss America to receive congratulations of official observers and spectators.

"I am confident we have set a new record."

This confidence caused Wood to announce that no further record runs will be made with the Miss America "for some time." He will leave Sunday for a cruise to Yucatan with C. F. Kittering, of Detroit, and others aboard Kittering's yacht.

Awaits Next Attempt by Don.

If Don exceeds Wood's speed in a record attempt planned next June, Wood said he would put the Miss America to another test. However, he said, that would "be decided definitely when we see what Don does." Tonight the Miss America lay in the drydock at Wood's estate.

Scandinavian Skate Stars Beaten

Norwegians, Swedes, Finns Protest U. S. Style of Racing.

Shea Wins in 1,500-Meter Event, His Second Triumph.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The two trial heats in the Olympic 10,000 meters speed skating championships were tonight declared "no races" after hours of angry debate over disqualifications of two Canadians, one American and a Japanese. The heats will be raced over again at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The final in this event for which four men qualify in each heat, will be staged Monday, Joseph K. Savage, chairman of the United States Olympic speed skating committee, announced, probably at 2:30 p. m. The final originally was scheduled for tomorrow.

This decision, reached with the consent of all contestants and representatives of interested nations, lifts the disqualification of Alex Hurd and Frank Stack, Canadians, and Edwin Wedge, of Detroit, along with Shozo Ishiwara, of Japan.

OLYMPIC POINT TOTALS.

(Unofficial compilation on 10, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 basis.)
United States, 43.
Canada, 25.
Norway, 8.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Headed by brilliant Jack Shea, first representative of the United States ever to win two championships in the winter Olympics, the speed skaters of North America swept over the aces of Norway, Sweden and Denmark today, and in doing so started one of the bitterest controversies in Olympic history.

Shea added the 1,500 meters title to the 500 meters crown he won yesterday with a typical burst of speed that carried him to the tape 5 yards in front of a six-man final field, made up entirely of Canadians and teammates.

Three Canadians, Alex Hurd, Bill Logan and Frank Stack, finished in that order behind him, with Ray Murray, of New York, fifth Herb Taylor, also of New York, picked himself up after falling on the last curve while in second place, to straggle in last. Shea's time was slow, 2 minutes 57 5-10 seconds.

3 Americans in Final Despite Protest.

And despite the controversy that roared suddenly as the Scandinavians entered formal protest to the American style of racing in heats, and that resulted in wholesale disqualifications in the two totals of the 10,000 meters events, the United States placed three men in the final of the distance event, last on the men's speed skating program.

The feeling of rancor among the Norwegians, Swedes and Finns was based on their belief the European champions had been unfairly treated by being asked to race in a style different to that which they use at home. The Scandinavian champions are accustomed to racing in lanes and in two-man heats, best time to decide the winner.

It was pointed out, however, that the European entries knew the races were to be skated American style when they sent in their entries and a protest now was a bit delayed.

Originally four of the United States team and two Canadians took the Scandinavians at their favorite distance and left only two of them, Ivar Ballangrud and Bernt Evensen, of Norway, both 1928 Olympic champions, who have bowed to Shea and Jaffee in two days of racing, still in the competition.

The Americans left in the final are Valentine Bialis, Utica, N. Y., veteran; Irving Jaffee, who was winning the distance drive in the 1928 Olympics when soft ice forced cancellation of the race, and Eddie Schroeder, of Detroit.

Three Disqualified by Referee.

The protest of the Scandinavians after the two heats had been run caused Joseph K. Savage, referee and head of the American Olympic speed skating committee, to disqualify Edwin Edge, of Detroit, who finished third in the first heat, along with two Canadians, Alex Hurd, who won the first heat, and Frank Stack, who took second to Schroeder in the second trial.

With them went Shozo Ishiwara, the first Japanese in four events to get within haling distance of the final. Shozo came in fifth in the first heat, just outside the ranks of those who normally would have qualified. Disqualification of others ahead of him, had he escaped, would have lifted him into the finals tomorrow.

In disqualifying the four, thus placing Michael Staksrud and Hans Engnestangen, both of Norway, in the final along with Ossie Blomquist, of Finland, European distance champion, Savage ruled that all four had failed to live up to orders issued after the first Scandinavian protest, that all had loafed and failed to take their turns "breaking the wind" around the course.

Each Man Required to Set Pace.

It had been agreed beforehand, in view of the North Americans' refusal to set the pace in earlier races, that each man should lead at least one lap and that the skaters

Basket Ball and Boxing Feature Navy's Program

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5.—Basket ball with Ohio State University in the afternoon, and boxing with Louisiana State at night will be the outstanding attractions of the first big athletic carnival to be staged by Midshipmen teams at the Naval Academy tomorrow, the card for the day calling for eleven events here and one away. In boxing and fencing, Navy teams will be making their season's debut.

The day's proceedings will get under way at 1 o'clock with a small bore, shoulder-to-shoulder rifle contest (indoors), the Navy varsity team engaging the cadets from Virginia Military Institute. Navy's scores also will be recorded in a telegraphic match with Johns Hopkins.

The Naval Academy wrestling squad will leave Annapolis early tomorrow morning to tackle Princeton in the only contest of their season to take place away from home. The Middies so far have conquered Lehigh, intercollegiate champions, and easily disposed of Tufts, New England champions, and they are counting Prince-

Olympic Prospects Clash Tonight in Millrose Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A picked array of track and field notables, including 31 senior and junior titleholders of the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Hungary, put the finishing touches on their training today in preparation for tomorrow night's twenty-fifth renewal of the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden.

One of the finest fields in the history of indoor track was assured, with many an Olympic prospect and at least half a dozen potential Olympic champions due to compete. A crack field will the starter in every event, from the sprint series to the classic Wanamaker mile.

Possibly the greatest interest is centered in the sprints, where there will be 60-yard heats and a 50-yard final. The entries include such outstanding stars as George Simpson, the former Ohio State flier; Emmett Topping, of Loyola, New Orleans; Ira Singer, of New York, last year's indoor sprint champion; Bill Bruder, of Newark, defending champion in the Millrose sprints, and Al Kelly, Georgetown's indoor 70-yard champion.

Kelly and Mile Team Carry Hopes of G. U.

Georgetown University sends its stellar sprinter, Al Kelly, and a 1-mile relay team to New York tonight to compete against strong opposition in the celebrated Millrose games.

Kelly, running in a special sprint event, faces such other stars as George Simpson, formerly of Ohio State; Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans; Bill Bruder, defending champion in the event, and Ira Singer, last year's national 60-yard dash champion.

Capt. Jim Kelly, Vic Burke, Chuck Carlin and Jack Mara compose the 1-mile relay team which lines up against Manhattan and Holy Cross, two of the fastest combinations in the East.

15,000 SEE EVENING WIN 3-HORSE FEATURE AT HIALEAH

Labor Unions Swell Crowd At Miami

Are Widener's Guests for Running of Builders' Stake.

Evening Concedes 2 Rivals Much Weight and Wins Easily.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—As the current meeting reached the half-way mark, today was set aside as labor day by Joseph E. Widener, chairman of the board of the Miami Jockey Club, all members of organized labor being given two tickets, tax free, as guests of the association, including the many workers who aided in the construction of the beautiful new Hialeah plant, about 10,000 took advantage of the invitations, thus augmenting the crowd to the largest of the meeting.

The stands, paddock and lawn were filled nearly to capacity, the invited guests and the regular patronage combining to total more than 15,000 attendance.

As befitted the occasion the feature race was called the Builders Handicap. The event was for 3-year-olds and upward, at 1 mile and the withdrawal of Sun Memory left only three starters.

Evening Holds Long Lead.

Evening, strongest of George D. Widener's Florida Derby candidates, gave further evidence that she will take a lot of beating in the coming classic when she covered the 8 furlongs in 1:36 3-5 to score by two lengths over W. L. Johnson's Rip Van Winkle. The latter beat Calf Roper by six lengths for the place. Evening was held at $2.50 for $2 despite the fact she was conceding chunks of weight by the scale to her older rivals.

Breaking the 3-year-old daughter of St. James—Crepuscule on top, Jockey Leischman let the choice step along under light restraint with several lengths lead over Calf Roper. The latter tired chasing the fast pace after 6 furlongs and Rip Van Winkle came around him at the turn for home to annex second money with little contention. Evening was not extended and could have broken Repentance's track mark had it been necessary.

Sandwrack Scores at Jefferson.

New Orleans, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Sandwrack, coupled with Quando as the J. F. O'Neil entry, won the fifth and feature race at the Fair Grounds track today, a $1,000 allowance affair styled the Algiers Purse.

Sandwrack was rated off the early pace set by the Three D's Stock Farm's Pietro, but went into the lead in the stretch and won by two lengths from C. V. Whitney's Habanero, with S. W. Labrot's Skidmore third.

Massanutten Beaten By Central Swimmers

Despite the absence of Louis Snyder, ineligible because of studies, Central High School's swimming team managed to defeat the Massanutten Military Academy tank team, 49-26, in the Central pool yesterday.

200-yard relay—Won by Central (Bates, Bonnet, Meatyard, Wood). Time, 1:51.

Fancy diving—Won by Knight (C.); second, Hodgson (C.); third, Stevens (M.). Points, 75.6.

50-yard free style—Won by Osterling (M.); second, Wood (C.); third, Bergelt (M.). Time, 0:26.3.

100-yard back stroke—Won by Lombardi (C.); second, Bonnet (C.); third, Griswold (M.). Time, 1:15.

220-yard free style—Won by Bryan (M.); second, Mullett (C.); third, Hopkins (C.). Time, 2:54.

100-yard breast stroke—Won by Maurer (C.); second, Bates (C.); third, Dawe (M.). Time, 1:18.

100-yard free style—Won by Meatyard (C.); second, Osterling (M.); third, Nevin (M.). Time, 1:04.

150-yard medley relay—Won by Central (Lombardi, Maurer, Hickey). Time, 1:37.

De Beve and McKenna In "He-Night" Match

Arthur De Beve, former French lightweight champion, and Jimmy "Sailor" McKenna, of this city, will clash in one of the eight-round bouts on the annual He-Night program to be held under auspices of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department on February 22. Lew Raymond, who recently made an impressive showing at Alexandria, will perform in another eight-rounder against Pepper Martin, of Norfolk.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAE SWEEP, $9.30, $4.20, $3.00; LOVE OFFERING, $3.90, $2.60; SUN TEATIME, $2.60.

MAE SWEEP, trailing the leaders, hung to the rail all the way, came through on the inside entering home stretch and, wearing SUN TEATIME down, drew away last furlong. LOVE OFFERING broke slowly and, outrun to stretch turn, she was taken to the outside, closed with a good burst of speed and was going the strongest of lot at finish. SUN TEATIME had a lot taken out of her racing SUNNY SUSAN into submission. ZEGORA tired after making a bold effort at the furlong pole.

SECOND RACE—Two and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:48. Off at 2:36. Winner, R. W. Collins' br. c. (2), by Lee O'Cotner—Ransvaal. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:28 3-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LEVAAL, $8.60, $5.90, $4.50; MAEANTIC (field), $6.40, $6.40; PANCOAST, $6.40.

LEVAAL, well behaved at the post, broke rapidly and drew away in early stages, but was doing his best at end. MEANTIC was bearing over to inside first furlong, but hung on with good courage under punishment to stall off PANCOAST. Latter, fractious at post, broke well when barrier was sprung. SWAGGER STICK was shuffled back soon after the break. JOHN DAVENPORT and BRIGHT MONK were taken to the extreme outside at post and did not break out of stalls.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:24½. Off at 3:29. Winner, Mrs. A. Carfano's blk. c. (4), by General Thatcher—Annagh. Trained by C. Cafarelli. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:46, 1:11 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL A., $11.20, $8.90, $5.70; KNOWLTON, $3.40, $3.20; CLEAN PLAY, $6.50.

GENERAL A., breaking fast, shook off opposition after going a quarter, saved ground entering home stretch and hung on longer than usual. KNOWLTON broke in motion, but was taken in hand in early stages, went very wide entire journey and finished on the outside half of track, was wearing the winner down at end. CLEAN PLAY hung in final drive. PARNELL BOUND quit.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:57. Off at 4:00. Winner, Mrs. W. T. Anderson's br. g. (6), by Chivalrouse—Miss Grits. Trained by W. Robinson. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40, 1:52 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALOUR II, $4.90, $3.70, $4.20; FAIR ALBERT, $20.40, $7.50; CABILDO, $13.10.

VALOUR II broke fast and saved ground all the way. He raced in hand after going to the front at turn into back stretch and was never bothered. FAIR ALBERT hung on with good courage in stretch drive. He was a forward contender all the way. CABILDO kept bearing out and finished next outside fence. His race was a smasher. TIGER PRINCE weakened when called on.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500. Builders Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:24. Off at 4:25½. Winner, George D. Widener's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVENING, $2.50, out, out; RIP VAN WINKLE, out, out; CALF ROPER, out.

EVENING went to the front and drew away without effort. Leischman took her in hand after they went a furlong and she galloped the remainder of the distance. RIP VAN WINKLE easily disposed of CALF ROPER in stretch run. Latter tired badly last quarter.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:52½. Winner, F. H. Carpenter's br. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOUBLE HEART, $8.90, $4.00, $4.00; JACK CAMPBELL, $3.30, $3.60; TARNISH, $12.00.

DOUBLE HEART laid off the pace first three furlongs, moved up rounding the far turn, came around the leader at top of home stretch, drew away going to the furlong pole, but was doing his best at end. JACK CAMPBELL wore down the tiring TOMBEREAU last furlong. TARNISH closed with a rush next the inside rail. TOMBEREAU and BACCIOCCO raced each other into submission.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:27. Off at 5:31½. Winner, F. F. Brant's br. g. (4), by Santorb—Hey Presto. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 3-5, 1:52 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SAN PRESTO, $7.40, $3.00, $3.10; BRUSH, $9.40, $4.00; MIKE CAREY, $2.80.

SAN PRESTO, rated close to pace, started his move after leaving back stretch and, continuing steadily, wore down MIKE CAREY after straightening out in stretch and held BRUSH safe in front. BRUSH, badly outrun, as usual, for six furlongs, closed with a fine burst of speed last quarter mile. MIKE CAREY was hustled along in front for seven furlongs, then was put under extreme pressure, but tired through stretch. OATEN closed some ground from a slow beginning. BLUE CLOUD stopped after seven furlongs. PUTTER ran a dull race.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—Hialeah Park offers for its feature tomorrow the Hialeah Handicap at a mile and a furlong, with $2,500 added, and fourteen horses have been entered for the stake, which promises lively competition. LADY BROADCAST will carry a heavy burden, 124 pounds, but this sterling filly, now in best form, should win. The distance suits her. DON LEON, having up only 112 pounds, should be the runner up, and if he can go that far, will be dangerous. He should lead the way for a mile. LIGHTNING BOLT has a chance for the big end of the purse, and should be as good as third. KINCSEN and several others are thrown in very light. LADY BROADCAST has won two of her three starts at this track.

FIRST RACE—Three-year-olds start in the first race at 5½ furlongs. RUBRIDGE having early speed and which finished third to Don Tasker, should hold this field at bay. PHANTOM ROCK may improve. STAR ROYAL has early foot and should be close up in a short spring like this.

SECOND RACE—MUFF should win the mile of the second race. He set a record at Tropical Park, and has run well at this track. MISS CHILLA, winner of several races, and in her last race was third to Port Harlem. HAZEL GUMBERTS is a consistent mare and should get in the money.

THIRD RACE—OKAPI is selected to win the third race for 2-year-olds, having beaten HELIOS in his last start. HELIOS should be the contender, but was no match for the Eternal colt last out. LUCILLE K., twice a winner, should hold the others safe. Seventeen are to start in this dash. OKAPI is regarded the best of the juvenilles racing at Hialeah.

FOURTH RACE—BATTY is best in the fourth race. She was third to Glenside last out, and has seldom been in a cheaper field than the one today. STAR LASSIE, which was third to Tancred a few days ago, will be the contender. BROOKSIE closed fast Thursday to finish third to Single Star and Ellice, and on that race is dangerous in this.

SIXTH RACE—BLACK MOCK has the edge in the sixth for 3-year-olds. A winner from a classy field at this meeting, he was third to Trombone, Thursday, finishing fast and will go a longer route today. FATALIST, which won his first start a few days back, in a fraction over 1:12, is expected to improve and has the call on the place. FELAXE, slightly off form, can hold the others safe.

SEVENTH RACE—GRIFFIN is selected to beat FAIR BILL, which seems to have dulled his speed by too much racing. GRIFFIN is consistent and has beaten better fields. FETISH has a chance, and can not be placed farther back than third. He won his last race from Putter.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH WINS CLASS C

Fredericksburg Five Bows, 37-20, as 700 Cheer.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 5.—Alexandria High School won the State championship for Class C teams by defeating Fredericksburg High School, 37-20, before a crowd of 700 fans here tonight. The score does not indicate the closeness of the contest, as the losers tossed away their opportunity to win the game by missing nineteen of their free tosses.

Brown displayed the best form for Fredericksburg. The work of Horton, Jackson and Bruin was outstanding for Alexandria.

Friends Bow, 19-18, To Georgetown Prep

Friends School threw a fright into the ranks of Georgetown Prep when it held the Garrett Parkers to a 1-point victory, succumbing by a 19-18 score. The game, which was played in the Friends gym, was close throughout. The teams were deadlocked 9-9 at the half, and up until the time when Nee sank his final field goal to send the Prepmen ahead in the final minute of play, the two were never separated by more than two points. Nee's work for Georgetown and the play of Boyle and Goodloe, for Friends, was outstanding.

TRACK STARS MEET IN MILLROSE GAMES

The mile record of 4:12, held jointly by Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray, may get a close brush from such stars as Gene Venzke, unbeaten in three starts this year, Ray Conger, Millrose winner of the last three years; Leo Lermond, American mile champion, and Orval Martin, of Los Angeles. Venzke ran the distance in 4:15 1-5 at Boston last Saturday.

Laszlo Sarsi, champion and record holder of Hungary, will make his American debut in the Millrose 600, where he will encounter a crack field consisting of Alex Wilson, George Bullwinkle, Eddie Roll and Bernie McCafferty. Wilson won the event last year. McCafferty and Roll are former winners.

Percy Beard, the Alabama Poly star, who galloped to fame in the hurdles last year, matches strides over the sticks with Jack Keller, of Ohio State, Monty Wells, of Boston A. A., and Jimmy Hatfield, of the Illinois A. C.

A possible new high jump record looms in the meeting of George Spitz, who set the present mark of 6 feet 7 inches in the 1931 Millrose games, and Harold Osborn, veteran outdoor record holder.

2-SPORT SHOW AT MARYLAND

Basket Ball, Boxing on Program

North Carolina Is Foe on Court; Generals Oppose in Ring.

Gallaudet and Bliss in Other Games Booked Here Tonight.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S double-header attraction of basket ball and boxing stands out brightly on tonight's competitive program for collegiate athletes of the Capital area. The Old Liners, holding forth in their spacious new coliseum at College Park, will entertain North Carolina in basket ball and Washington and Lee in boxing. The first event will start at 7:45 o'clock, the boxing match following at 9:15.

In other contests, Gallaudet's basket ball team meets Temple College of Pharmacy at Kendall Green, starting at 8 o'clock, and Bliss, the leading Washington Conference five, engages Wilson Teachers College at Tech High, beginning at 8:15. Catholic University's quintet is booked for action against Loyola in Baltimore.

Court Team Seeks 9th Straight.

Maryland's athletes will be seeking their ninth straight basket ball victory and their first in boxing. In each instance they will be opposing formidable teams. North Carolina ranks as one of the leading Southern Conference court teams, having won eight of its nine games to date, while the boxers of Washington and Lee are virtually the same who defeated the Old Liners twice last year.

Appearing with the North Carolinans will be a former Washington high school star, George Brandt, who made his mark in four sports at Central High School. Brandt has participated in five games for the Tarheels thus far, but is not slated to start tonight. However, if the game is as closely contested as observers anticipate, Brandt will see action some time before the final whistle sounds.

Maryland probably will employ the same line-up that conquered Catholic last Wednesday, namely, Chalmers and Ronkin, forwards; Norris, center, and Berger and Buscher, guards. There is a possibility that Vincent, sensational sophomore center, will replace Norris, but this depends on the extent of Vincent's recovery from an ankle injury.

Line-up of Boxers Listed.

In the boxing match Maryland will use the following: Reuling or Decker, bantamweight; Harris or Manieri, featherweight; Isemann, lightweight; Keener, welterweight; Every, middleweight; Nordenholz, light-heavyweight, and Robbins, heavyweight. The last-mentioned may not perform owing to the fact that he has had little preparation for competition.

Gallaudet's basketers hope to repeat a recent triumph over the Temple Pharmacists from Philadelphia. On a recent invasion of the Quaker City the Kendall Greeners defeated the Capsule Manipulators, 38-28. Bliss figures to add Wilson Teachers to its fine string of wins, while Catholic is the underdog in the Loyola contest at Baltimore.

Takoma-Silver Spring High in 28-10 Victory

Takoma-Silver Spring successfully continued its pursuit of the Montgomery County championship by defeating the Sherwood High School tossers, 28 to 10, at Sherwood yesterday. Lizear and Clark were the outstanding players for the victors, while Harding was best for the losers.

Leonard Hall Beaten By St. John's, 30 to 9

With Ed Scheele and Phil Cassidy leading the way, St. John's scored an easy victory over Leonard Hall's tossers at Leonardtown, Md., yesterday, winning by a score of 30-9. Fred Loker, center, was the only Leonard Hall player able to score from the floor, and he chalked up 8 of his team's points.

The Louisiana State boxers arrived from Baton Rouge late this afternoon and are guests tonight of the Midshipmen in Bancroft Hall. The visitors are reported to have one of the strongest teams in the South and have won four meets in a row this season. Mississippi was beaten twice and Florida and Tulane were the other victims.

Interest in college boxing has increased to such an extent in recent years, and crowds attending meets here have become so great, that authorities of the academy decided to charge admission this year. Tickets are priced at 50 cents.

Ohio State is among the strong teams of the Big Ten Conference and the game with the Tars promises to draw the season's record gallery.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

HEADED by the Suburban Sweepstakes at College Park, a good program is on tap for bowling fans today. The Baptist Young People's Union League will play host to six teams from the Richmond B. Y. P. U. at Lucky Strike, while the Blick Midgets will entertain the Lucky Strike Dwarfs at Arcadia. Over at Convention Hall Elsie Fischer and Margaret Miltner oppose Helen Spencer and Mary Galloway, of Baltimore, in the first block of a ten-game series. Later on at the same alleys the Greeks and Italians will lend a little color to the proceedings with their annual battle for supremacy.

Cold Storage and Service won the odd games from Laundry and Hat Department in the Arcade-Sunshine League at the Strike. Rug took all three from Dry Cleaning. Woodfield's 133 and 337 scores bagged the individual awards. Hat Department's 545 and Rugs' 1,516 were best among the teams.

High game scores in the District Government League last night were claimed by Healey, who rolled 164 to lead the individuals, and Fire Department, which led the teams with a 571 score. Anderson, of Highway, brought the high individual set home, 571, and his team duplicated the feat with a score of 1,680. Highway also took the odd one from the Firemen. Repair Shop No. 1 and Water Department whitewashed Repair Shop No. 2 and Manuel Training Teachers, while Health and Chief Clerks took the decisive games from Sewer Department No. 1 and Sewer Department No. 2.

Miss Sheriban's 130 game and 334 set copped the bacon in the C. & P. Ladies League at Lucky Strike. Lincoln-Atlantic clamped down on the team honors with a 486 game and 1,368 set.

After dropping the first one by 7 pins, Lucky Strike rallied to win the final two from Meyer Davis by 2 and 12 pins, respectively, in the Ladies District League at Lucky Strike last night. Lucky Strike's scores were 459, 510, 512. Meyer Davis rolled games of 466, 508 and 504. Thelma Lohnes' 126 game and Polly Shugrue's 328 set were best for the winners. Mrs. Jarrett's 129 and 332 scores topped the losers.

A 141 game and 382 set, both rolled by Bill Hayden, took the cash in the King Pin Business Men's loop last night. The First Americans were evidently warming up for next week's match, for they dropped all three to Lansburgh No. 1. The latter toppled the pins for a 571 game and 1,655 three-game total.

The Ladies tossed a few rolling pins at the Officers in the Washington Gaslight loop at Convention Hall, and made the boys hand over two of their three games. It works something like the plan to make hubby come across with half his poker winnings. Or does he come clean? Georgetown's score was exactly nothing after its match with Accounting, and Fitting Department rang the bell on Meter Shop with an odd-game win. The Fitters turned in a 586 game and 1,623 set. West Station and Columbia Heights were one up on Industrial and the Collectors. Sam Coughlin, a plumber of no mean ability, rolled a game of 139 and set of 368 for the Fitters.

Jim Dulin was bandmaster to the Quartermaster Men's loop at Columbia. Jim chopped enough wood to get a 135-game and 366 set. That set total, by the way, constitutes a new record for the league. His team, Transportation, paddled the pins for a 1,581 set, including a 554 game, and took all three from the leading Power five. Mechanical scored the other clean sweep recorded when it downed Construction. Supply and the Engineers were odd-game winners over Design and Depot.

Miss Boller's 294 set and Miss Albaugh's 119 game won the awards in the Quartermaster Ladies League at Columbia. Engineers took two from Supply, with the latter winning on a 479 game. Construction's 1,328 set enabled it to take the best portion of a 2-to-1 score from the Executives. Personnel garnered the odd one from Real Estate.

One of the Young brothers (we do not know which one) rolled a game of 140 for the Phoenix team in the Odd Fellows League at Convention Hall. But his team dropped the odd one to the lowly Eastern five. Fred Lund rolled 341 for the winners. Fred D. Stuart, with a 561 game to his credit, took the odd one from Mount Nebo.

Ed Dolan rolled a set of 374 in the Building Contractors League at Arcadia, but George Honey rolled 375 to nose him out for the prize. "Whitey" Rader's 148 was good for high game. D. C. Butcher rolled a game of 1,660 and took all three from Heffron. Todd Construction's only victory over Rosslyn Steel came with a 579 game. Minte Paint and Massapomax Sand were one better than Evans Plumbing and Southern Asbestos, while Standard Art Marble took all three from Smoot Sand.

Greenwalt's 149 game score and Reynolds' 368 total copped the cash in the Interstate loop at Arcadia. Land Section led the teams with its game of 587, but the Attorneys were first in line when the set prize was handed out by virtue of their 1,606 total.

'Twas a big night for Indian Spring in the Golf Club loop at Silver Spring. The Redskins rolled a high game of 569 and set of 1,322, and won all three from Chevy Chase. The Air Corps got off to a bad start by dropping a trio to Manor and another trio to Beaver Dam. Manor later on took the odd one from Argyle. Congressional walloped Columbia for a clean sweep. Platt's 330 set was high for the evening, as was Dick Peacock's 136 game.

Boys Club Noses Out Business in Overtime

In a thrilling extra-period game, the Boys Club Big Five, dark horse entrants in the A. A. U. basket ball tournament, upset Business High School last night at the Boys Club, 36-34. Perruzzi and Ceccarelli, Boys Club forwards, turned in good exhibitions of shooting, scoring 10 points apiece, but yielded top honors to Joe Sherman.

Gonzaga Five Wins Over Wilson Teachers

Gonzaga High got back in a winning stride last night at the expense of the Wilson Teachers, who were downed by the score of 25-19, at Gonzaga. The teams were evenly matched, the score being 16-13 at the half, but Gonzaga had more reserve in the home stretch.

Baltimore Five Plays Eagles Tomorow Night

First half champions of the powerful Baltimore Catholic League and recent conqueror of St. John's, one of the Oriole City's finest basket ball teams, St. Wenceslaus Lyceums will be shooting for their twenty-third victory of the season when Skinker Eagles are met at Bolling Field Armory tomorrow night.

While this attraction promises much in the way of color and action, considerable attention also is being manifested in the inaugural presentation of the double-barreled feature. Saks Clothiers and Leviathans, two of Washington's leading unlimited entries, are to clash at 7:30 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. SWIMMERS BOW.

The Baltimore Y. M. C. A. swimming team swamped the local Y natators last night at the Y., 41 to 25. Washington was unable to take a first place in seven events.

Day Nursery Signs Main Event Stars

The Day Nursery Athletic Association yesterday took time out from arrangements for next Tuesday's Buster Brown-Stumpy Jacobs card at Portner's Arena to sign four stars for later appearances in the Alexandria house of boxing.

The management announced that Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, had agreed to meet Natie Brown, recent conqueror of Marty Gallagher, in the main event on February 23, and that Antol Kocsis, Hungarian bantamweight champion, and Louie Jallos, promising Cleveland welterweight, had signed to perform on February 16 against opponents yet to be secured.

Kocsis, who is ranked among the first ten bantamweights of the world, and Jallos are both under the management of McCarney and Jacobs, handlers of Max Schmeling. The Day Nursery committee hopes to match Kocsis with Billy Landers, of Norfolk, and Jallos with Al Gordon, of Philadelphia. The last mentioned is now training in Washington.

The outbursts of North American officials after the disqualifications, when they promised that they could prove all those dropped had led the race at one time or another, forced Savage to call all hands together tonight to offer evidence for reconsideration of his decision.

The hockey prospects of the Nation improved considerably today as the combination of former college and club stars making up the United States entry walloped Poland 4 to 1. The defeat was the second for Poland in two games.

Germany, first conqueror of Poland, and Canada, victor over the United States in the opening contest are the two undefeated teams.

The Chevy Chase Grays, who are enjoying a very successful season on the court, would like to book games with unlimited teams having gyms. A game is especially wanted for tonight. Teams interested should call Manager Davis at Cleveland 5002-J.

AMERICAN U. FIVE WINS 9TH IN ROW

Elon Quintet Bows, 31-19, With Dick in Leading Role.

BRANDISHING once more the all around excellence which has marked their play this year, the American University Eagles zoomed higher into the winning stratosphere last night by beating Elon (N. C.) College, 31-19, in a well-played game before a packed gymnasium at American U.

It was the ninth consecutive time that the colors of A. U. had been raised in victory, a winning streak unparalleled in the history of A. U. athletics. The Eagles, showing strength in every post and every department of play, led from the opening gun, and were out on top by a 20-12 count at the half.

Elon gave the locals their hardest fight since Navy was beaten. American was forced to show all the stuff Coach Walter Young has ingrained in them to achieve victory. Their blocking, fast breaking, and coolness in scrimmages aided them at all times. Sells, lanky center, was a masthead on pivot plays, passing cagily to the alert Americans as they rushed and cut from the basket.

Lionel Dick, forward, led the American scoring, sinking three shots from the floor. Caddell, of the visitors, equalled him, but American proferred additional shooting strength in Fuchs, Sells and Olsen.

The Elon team showed some effects of last night's game against St. John's. It missed on comparatively easy chances near the start of the game, but thereafter was largely repulsed by the sterling defensive play of the home club.

The Elmer Twitchell Tax Plan.

THE Honorable Elmer Twitchell, after an exhaustive study of the tax proposals made in Congress to date as the only solution to the problem of getting the country back on a basis where it can continue to erect unnecessary postoffices, resurface the eleven-mile stretch of unused tar road in Pancake Hollow twice a year and erect suitable memorials to forgotten generals, proposes the following tax program:

1. GASOLINE—I propose a tax of 4 cents a gallon on gasoline if the persons in the automobile are on business. 6 cents a gallon if they are just out for the air and 10 cents if they are on a necking party. (It is my sincere belief that the necking tax would lift the financial burden completely.)

2. AIR—I propose a garage charge of 5 cents a tire for air, 50 per cent of which shall go to the Government.

3. WATER—I propose that garages and pumping stations charge a nickel a gallon for water in the radiator and that 60 per cent of this be given to the Government.

4. RADIATOR ORNAMENTS, Pinwheels and Banners—reading, "It's Always June in Sparksburg," and etc. I propose that every autoist carrying any or all of these articles be taxed a dollar.

5. POLICE MOTORCYCLES—It is my recommendation that these vehicles be so taxed that they will be put out of business.

6. POLICE WHISTLES, Traffic Lights, and etc.—I favor a tax of $50 each (ad valorem) on all police whistles and $300 a flicker on traffic lights.

7. CONTRACT BRIDGE—I favor a substantial levy on all contract bridge parties, payable as they enter, on the ground the game is becoming a public menace.

8. HAT CHECK GIRLS—There can be no doubt that even a small tax on the amount of money demanded by the big city hat check bandits before you can get your coat and bonnet back would bring in millions.

9. HEAD LETTUCE—In the present diet craze the number of women and girls practically living on lettuce leaves is amazing. Here is a taxation source the Government should not overlook.

10. AUTHORS OF MOVIE "SHORTS"—I believe, after seeing the crop of short subjects now being foisted upon a defenseless public in the picture houses of America, that the persons responsible should be rounded up and taxed out of existence. I further believe that there should be no delay whatsoever.

11. SKI JUMP PICTURES—A tax of a penny a foot on the newsreel pictures of ski jumpers shown in 10 per cent of our picture houses from December 1 to February 15 would pay the national debt and leave enough money to reroof the White House.

12. POPULAR SONGS—I believe that a tax, be it ever so modest, on all songs in which the words "love," "dove," and "above" are used would swamp the Treasury with gold.

13. CORKSCREWS—I advocate a tax on corkscrews on the ground that this would distribute the tax burden as no other step possibly could.

STOCK MARKET SAGS 2 POINTS AT CLOSING

Profits Gained in January Are Nearly Lost; Rail Issues Turn Heavy.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Stocks became manifestly impatient today at the absence of news which could be called favorable, and prices declined quietly throughout the session, closing two points lower on the average.

Rails, for no readily apparent reason, were particularly despondent. Their heaviness, however, seemed to be interpreted as an argument in favor of lower quotations elsewhere, with the result that utilities and industrials slid off easily. Volume, reaching 1,081,040 shares, represented a considerable expansion from yesterday but was too moderate to cause much comment.

Delaware & Hudson had the largest loss in the rail group, down 5¾ net. Atlantic Coast Line was close behind it, and there were 3 to 4 point sags in Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western and Louisville & Nashville. Elsewhere, Steel, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Case, Allied Chemicals, Consolidated Gas, North American, Eastman, American Can and American Tobacco "B" dipped 1½ to 2½. Several rails also fell in the same range.

Rise Nearly Lost.

The market now retains slightly less than 2 points of the January rise which carried the Standard Statistics-Associated Press 90-stock composite from the low of 60 to a high of 70.8, today's final average price being 61.8. This naturally brings to the fore the question of whether last month's minimums will be violated. Brokers point out that the answer is near at hand.

The downward swing out of the extremely narrow groove in which the market had been idling may have originated partially in uneasiness over the story implied by the monetary circulation increase, namely, that the bogey of hoarding was stubbornly resisting banishment. The administration is now taking up the cudgels against this enemy of recovery and Wall street hopes that much can be accomplished in such a campaign as is proposed.

Weakness of some commodity prices revived old problems of oversupply. Sugar futures made new lows, March sagging under a cent a pound, on news of the Cuban crop estimate which was substantially above expectations. Late in the day some copper appeared at 6¼ cents, within ¼ of a cent of the record minimum. Although the decline of neither staple appeared to have a direct effect on the stock market, the trend fitted into the general mood of the day. Wheat lost about a cent a bushel.

Trade Status Improves.

Mercantile reviews found some slight improvement in retail and wholesale trade, partly in preparation for an early opening of spring business. There has been as yet, however, said Bradstreet's, "little actual quickening" beyond limited seasonal activity in certain lines. "There continues," it added, particularly in the large Eastern cities, a fair amount of optimistic sentiment" based on a belief that definite progress is being made toward desired adjustments.

In Dun's opinion, "some of the unfavorable phases" of the general situation "slowly are being overcome, and the outlook reveals an increase of reassuring features."

Money rates were unchanged officially. Dullness in the bull market suggests another revision in rates, at least for the short maturities. Both demand and supply have now been dulled, although at no time has the latter been notable. Some dealers are quoting firmer rates on commercial paper.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Almost heedless of stirring war developments in Manchuria and Shanghai, grain markets took fresh down swings today.

Weakness of Wall street securities, failing wheat quotations at Liverpool and dearth of export demand for North American wheat were largely responsible. An additional bearish factor was notice that Great Britain's omission of import duties on wheat had been counterbalanced by plans under which imports of wheat would be governed by a quota system.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾@1 below yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛@⅜ down; oats, ⅛@⅜ off, and provisions varied from 20 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Heavy selling of Chicago wheat future deliveries, ascribed to Eastern liquidation, was attributed in large degree to stock market weakness. There were indications, however, that much of the wheat selling here came from "spread" traders who were making simultaneous equal speculative purchases at Winnipeg. Meanwhile, North American wheat export business was again apparently on a hand-to-mouth basis, total purchases for shipment overseas being estimated at but 350,000 bushels, all from Canada.

About the only upturn in wheat was a transient small rally that was associated with an unconfirmed rumor that Russia had dispatched 75,000 troops to Vladivostok, near the Manchurian border. When this rumor failed of verification wheat prices dropped lower than before and went more than 2 cents under yesterday's top point. Mild weather prevailed over domestic winter wheat territory and there were no complaints of any crop damage of consequence. One leading specialist suggested that the recent cold wave had been more beneficial than otherwise.

Corn and oats showed more resistance to selling pressure than did wheat. This circumstance was attributed to indications of a short crop of corn in Argentina and to a bulge in corn prices at Liverpool.

Provisions followed the course of hog values, and averaged lower at the last.

BUILDING AND LOANS GIVEN CERTIFICATES

Credentials of Membership Received From Institute for Research Work.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Credentials as sustaining members of the American Savings, Building and Loan Institute have been received by the Columbia Building & Loan Association, the Washington Permanent Building Association, the American Building Association, the District Building & Loan Association and the Mutual Building Association.

The institute is the educational and research unit of the country's home financing industry as embodied in the 11,777 building and loan associations with $9,000,000,000 in assets. In financial circles, the associations affiliated with this organization are considered leaders in progressive service to their shareholders who are home borrowers and systematic savers.

Sent by Philip Lieber, of Shreveport, La., president of the institute, the local associations' membership credentials are in the form of handsomely engrossed certificates. H. B. Denham is secretary of the Columbia Association; Carl Bergmann is president of the Washington Association; Charles H. Kindle is secretary of the American Association; F. Wilson Camp is president of the District Association and J. Walter Stephenson is secretary of the Mutual Association.

Local Associations Counted.

"The local associations are among the 800 affiliated with the educational work of this business," said the local secretaries. "This institute trains workers to give fullest service to home owners and systematic savers of the country. Night classes are held weekly in cities where the institute has its chapters and the enrollment is close to 1,200.

"Three basic courses in building and loan fundamentals, accounting and appraising are offered by the institute and several elective courses including business forecasting, public speaking, State legislation and judicial decisions charting the course of building and loan associations, and advertising and business development."

The institute, which is affiliated with the United States Building and Loan League, will hold its ninth annual convention in Shreveport, February 19 and 20. The local secretaries and others from this city will attend. Among the topics for discussion will be the Hoover Home Loan Bank bill now before Congress

Bankers' Banquet Plans.

Plans for the annual banquet of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, are progressing well and it is expected that the attendance will reach 600. The committee on publicity and printing, consisting of Robert H. Lacey, chairman, Columbia National Bank; Norman E. Towson, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; A. W. Sherman, American Security & Trust Co.; Robert G. Whitton, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va., and S. Winifred Burwell, National Metropolitan Bank, is cooperating with Walton Sanderson, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., who has charge of the decorations, with a view to working out a general St. Valentine's Day effect for the banquet occuring February 13, St. Valentine's eve. The table decorations, stage setting, programs, place cards, &c., will all bear out this idea.

John C. Legg, jr., a member of the firm of Mackubin, Goodrich, & Co., Baltimore, Md., with local offices at 1508 H street northwest, has bought a seat on the Baltimore Stock Exchange and has been admitted to membership, it was stated yesterday. Mr. Legg is also a member of the New York Stock Exchange, having owned a seat since 1916. Members of the Mackubin, Goodrich firm now hold three Baltimore exchange seats.

A number of members of the local chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be guests at Baltimore Chapter's banquet Saturday evening, February 6, those included being: Mabel V. Royce, Rose L. Royce, T. Hunton Leith, I. J. Roberts, Frank M. Perley, Aubrey O. Dooley and S. Winifred Burwell.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 186

National Photo.

FROM a church to a Police Court, is the history of this old building pictured above, at Sixth and D streets northwest.

It was originally the First Unitarian Church, designed by Charles Bulfinch, of Boston. In 1878, seventeen years after the founding of the Washington Police Department, this old church was remodeled into a Police Court by removing the steeple and extending the walls to two stories. In 1905 the building was torn down and the present Police Court erected on the same site. The present building is to be evacuated as soon as the new Municipal Building is built.

In 1861, when the local Police Department was organized, the population of the city was 61,122 and crime was pretty rampant all over the city, especially in the Southwest and the Mall sections. The force was comprised originally of 150 men and it was soon found that this number was inadequate to cope with the crimes and in 1867, while A. C. Richards was superintendent, 70 more men were added.

Note the gray derby on the policeman leaving the building. Whether the dark complexioned female is a prisoner or not is hard to say. Someone in the neighborhood must have been moving from the looks of the overloaded wagon. The buildings on the right are still standing and are occupied by lawyers and bondsmen.

GAMBLING PADLOCK MEASURE BLOCKED BY KING'S PROTEST

Senator Holds Bill Harsh and Reminiscent of Puritan Laws.

OPPOSITION IS ABSENT ON CREDIT UNION ACT

District Committee Approves Increasing of Power of Trial Boards.

Approval of two drastic gambling bills, to padlock gaming establishments here and arrest their patrons, was blocked in the Senate District committee yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah.

Senator King denounced penalties provided in the measures as "harsh" and reminiscent of "England 100 years ago, when they used to hang a man for committing a misdemeanor."

Action was delayed at the request of the Utah senator, who said he wanted to study the bills and recommend modifications. Five other measures, including the much controverted bill to incorporate credit unions in the District and a bill to compel attendance of witnesses at trial board hearings, were approved by the committee.

But when the gambling measures were favorably reported by Senator Robert D. Carey's subcommittee Senator King took immediate exception

Branded as "Puritanical."

"We're getting too puritanical," he said. "Under this bill, two ladies betting a box of candy or a penny on a card game would be subject to arrest."

He said a man who had been district attorney for any length of time was likely to incline toward "persecution rather than prosecution."

Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride was asked for an opinion, but he said they were "the district attorney's bills" and the Commissioners had not studied them. Chairman Arthur Capper pointed out the Commissioners made a favorable report on identical measures last year.

No opposition developed yesterday to the credit union bill, although the District Bankers Association took emphatic exception to the measure at recent hearings. The bill would legalize formation of mutual associations for making loans to members at low rates of interest. The bankers contend it will set up competitive "mutual banks."

Trial Board Bill Wins.

The bill to empower police and fire trial boards to compel attendance of witnesses through court subpenas was approved after Senator King withdrew objections. The boards are "a laughing stock" under the present system, Corporation Counsel Bride said.

A bill to empower the District Supreme Court to settle claims of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. for damages growing out of abandonment of their tracks in the Mall area, was referred to Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont. He will redraft the bill, in conference with Treasury officials and Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts.

The committee favorably reported bills naming the northern entrance to Sixteenth street "Montgomery Blair Portal," after the Postmaster General in the Lincoln administration; authorizing closure of Water street between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets to provide a more suitable approach to the Lincoln Memorial, an a site for the new American Pharmaceutical Association Building, and authorizing the opening and closing of roadways at he District workhouse at Occoquan, Va.

Man Accused of Attack Freed on $2,000 Bail

As the result of a habeas corpus proceeding filed by his attorney, Gus Chaconas, of Washington, has been freed in bond of $2,000 on charges of criminal assault filed in Prince Georges County. He is accused of attacking Olga Iglehart, also of Washington, near Oxon Hill, Md.

Chaconas was at first held without bail for action of the Prince Georges County grand jury, as the crime carries a death penalty. Judge Joseph C. Mattingly granted a habeas corpus writ prayed by Attorney J. Wilson Ryon and ordered Chaconas freed on bail.

Rank of Fire Captain Given Lieut. Sutton

Lieut. M. H. Sutton was promoted to the rank of captain yesterday by the District Commissioners to fill the vacancy caused by the minor reorganization ordered this week by Fire Chief George S. Watson.

Under the new set-up two lieutenants are dropped and a captain and a private are added to the rolls.

Two Incinerators To Be Built Soon

Plants Costing $500,000 Will Be Completed in Nine Months.

Work will start at once on construction of the long-delayed District incinerators, it was announced yesterday when Albert B. Greene, engineer of the bridge division of the Engineer Department, was appointed resident engineer in charge of the projects by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Maj. D. A. Davison, acting Engineer Commissioner.

Contracts were signed this week for the building of both incinerators after Congress had included the reappropriation of $300,000, which lapsed June 30 last, in the District deficiency bill.

The incinerators are to be located at Thirty-first and K streets, Georgetown, and at First and O streets southeast. They will cost approximately $500,000 and will be completed in less than 270 days. The Northeastern Construction Co. is building the Georgetown plant, while the Rust Engineering Co. is handling the O street project.

POLICE FIND SCORES OF CARS ABANDONED

Delay and Financial Trouble in Obtaining Titles and Tags Are Blamed.

Fourth Precinct police last night reported that about 50 or 75 cars had been found abandoned in that area and ascribed the abandoning of the machines to the "red tape" and financial obstacles in the way of getting the new District tags and titles this year.

Just as the siege of automobile title-seekers has begun to subside somewhat, the Traffic Bureau has found itself up against the aftermath of the project to have all cars in the District titled.

All types of outgrowths of the nearly completed move to have all cars titled have been reported to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer. About 2,200 letters apropos of the title and tag situation have been returned by the Postoffice Department undelivered through one reason or another.

About 1,200 of the letters have to do with applications for tags, 400 contained certificates of title, and 600 were letters of advice to applicants concerning incorrect title applications. Attempts are being made to locate some of the addresses through the police department.

Auto Show Will Close Tonight at Auditorium

Sidney James, an associate examiner in the Patent Office and who lives at 1724 Taylor street northwest, received the automobile awarded last night at the Automobile Show being held at the Washington Auditorium. Mr. James was on hand when the award was announced and received the congratulations of the committee handling the show on his gaining a Chrysler 4-passenger coupe.

A record all-time attendance of 8,500 was reported passing through the turnstiles at the show last night. Tonight will mark the end of the annual showing. A Buick sedan will be awarded tonight. The show is under the auspices of the Automotive Trade Association of Washington.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Mrs. E. B. Nash, of Alexandria, Killed Near Accotink, in Crossing Accident.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Nash, of Alexandria, Va., was instantly killed yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock when the car she was driving was struck by a fast passenger train on the Atlantic Coast Line near Accotink Station, about 10 miles south of Alexandria.

According to the testimony given Acting Fairfax County Coroner Dr William P. Caton, of Lorton, Mrs Nash was on her way to visit Mrs C. C. Pearson, and driving into the private road which leads to the Pearson home, she apparently tried to beat the train over the crossing.

She had crossed a side track, the northbound track and was in the center of the southbound track when she was struck. The wreckage of the small coupe she was driving was scattered along the right-of-way and pitched on a side track 231 feet from the crossing. Trainmen stated that the track was visible for three-quarters of a mile each way from each side of the crossing. The train continued to Richmond.

Telephone service in that section of Fairfax County had been disrupted because of damage to lines and it was almost two hours before word reached the county authorities. Mrs Nash's body was thrown into a ditch on the right-of-way and partially covered with water. It was almost 8 o'clock last night before the mutilated body was removed from the water.

Mrs. Nash, whose husband died several years ago, is survived by a son, Barron Nash, of Alexandria; a married daughter in Washington, and a sister, Mrs. Eugene Hart, of 1111 King street, Alexandria. Mrs. Nash for many years was engaged in the dairy business at Seminary, just outside of Alexandria.

Will Give Talk on Egypt.

Mrs. Paul Heyl will make an illustrated talk on "A Tourist's Impression of Egypt" at All Soul's Unitarian Church at 5:30 o'clock tomorraw evening. She has recently returned from that country.

Cat on Vacant House's Roof Upsets Whole Neighborhood

Firemen, Police and Animal Rescue League Are Caught in Turmoil Arising From Fact That Feline Grew Hungry When Stranded Two Days.

Don't talk to the Fire Department about cats. And just as a friendly tip, cats are a sore subject with police of the Fourth Precinct, certain residents of the neighborhood of New Jersey avenue and C street southeast, and the Animal Rescue League.

It all began Wednesday night when a forlorn feline somehow became stranded on the roof of a vacant house at 305 New Jersey avenue southeast. It voiced its sorrow at its situation in the manner of its kind. Neighbors spent a fairly sleepless night.

The cat's sorrow at its situation deepened Thursday night and its wails increased in proportion. Neighbors spent a very sleepless night Mrs. M. A. Romgue, of the George Washington Inn, whose apartment faces the New Jersey avenue address, appealed to H. I. Phillips, manager of the apartment hotel, yesterday morning.

Phillips called police. Others apparently had the same idea and the Fourth Precinct station was flooded with telephone calls.

"A clear case for the Animal Rescue League," said the desk sergeant, and put the wheels in motion to remove the cat from its perilous position and to restore peace on New Jersey avenue.

In due course of time the Rescue League dispatched its ambulance and driver, armed with a net, to 305 New Jersey avenue. He spent about an hour and reported to his headquarters that he could find no cat.

Night fell. The feline evensong burst upon the ears of those in hearing distance. Dozens of calls went to the Fourth Precinct demanding instant relief. New Jersey avenue and C street residents called the Animal Rescue League for themselves.

The Fourth Precinct again appealed to the league. They met a rebuff. Their ambulance driver had gone home, the league declared, and besides there was no cat on New Jersey avenue. Their man had said so.

The harried police then sent out their own scouts. Privates J. F. Bowers and F. E. Dodson were sent to the scene. They reported that while they had not actually seen a cat, unless there was something greatly wrong with their ears, they had certainly heard one—a cat with healthy lungs, too.

The desk sergeant appealed to the Fire Department as a last resort. The Fire Department refused to act on the ground that it was the Rescue League's province to save cats, and not the Fire Department's.

However, after long argument, No. 8 Engine Company sent out Privates J. C. Reynolds, N. B. Allen and S. E. Landstreet, with orders to act at once and to capture the cat, no matter what the cost.

The firemen forced the front door of the deserted house and made their way to the roof. Loud wails led them to their quarry.

The cat caught sight of the firemen first. It quit crying and dashed out of a gutter of the house. At the edge of the roof, it hesitated for just the fraction of a second. Then it leaped gracefully into the air, landed right side up on the ground at least, according to the firemen, 35 feet below.

Then it gave one frigid stare at the firemen still on the roof, waved its tail in the air, and haughtily marched off down the alley without another backward glance.

CONGRESS FROWNS ON EFFORT TO CUT ITS DISTRICT WORK

Despite Prior Complaints, Disapproval of Bride Plan Is Voiced.

TOO BROAD SCOPE HELD GIVEN COMMISSIONERS

Corporation Counsel Agrees to Draft Alternative Bill on Program.

Congress, which likes to complain of the "burden" of District legislation, yesterday voiced disapproval of a bill to relieve it of some of its work at House and Senate District committee meetings

The Senate District committee and the judiciary subcommittee of the House District committee postponed action on the measure after senators, representatives and District citizens complained that the bill, drawn by Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, to increase the Commissioners' powers, was "too broad."

Corporation Counsel Bride admitted the bill was "broad;" in fact, he said it was as broad as he possibly could make it without conflicting with the Constitution.

Agrees to Substitute Plan.

At the suggestion of Senators John H. Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, and William H. King (Democrat), Utah, he agreed to draft an alternative bill, extending the Commissioners' authority but confining their power to specific police, sanitation, safety and license powers.

Arguing that the measure under consideration would relieve Congress of a vast amount of local responsibility, he pointed out that of 29 bills before the Senate District committee, 20 of them would not call for congressional action if his bill were passed. Similar powers were vested in the local legislative assembly before a new form of government was instituted here half a century ago, he said.

Opposing the step, Senator Bankhead protested that ordinance power transferred to the Commissioners under the bill would be "a form of legislation" and might even give the local board the power to tax.

Senator King, who drafted the bill, supported Mr. Bride's stand. He said he had confidence in the Commissioners, and wanted to relieve Congress of as much work as possible.

Mr. Bride testified that the board now is frequently "embarrassed" by its lack of authority.

Ask Action Delayed.

George E. Sullivan, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and William McK. Clayton, chairman of its public utilities commission, asked that action be delayed until the federation has passed on the bill. Evan H. Tucker, of the Northeast Citizens Association, said restrictions should be placed on the measure.

Mr. Clayton vigorously opposed the bill. He said:

"Very often the Commissioners we have here are out of touch with the citizens. That contact which is so necessary, often seems to be lacking. Even though Congress is overburdened, we feel very much safer with the present arrangements. Congress and its committees frequently stand in the way of passage of bills that we do not want. The District as it is now governed is not in a deplorable condition."

Earlier, at House judiciary subcommittee hearings on the bill, both Representative Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, and Representative Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, opposed giving the Commissioners authority to repeal existing legislation "inconsistent with their regulations."

3 Women Hurt as Taxi Is Hurled Into Trolley

Three women taxicab passengers were slightly injured yesterday afternoon when their cab was thrown into a Capital Traction Co. street car after it had been struck by a truck backing from a driveway at 1523 Seventh street northwest.

The women, treated at Garfield Hospital, were Mrs. Fannie Camper, 35 years old, of 126 Webster street northwest, and Miss Florence Kelzales, 27 years old, and Mrs. Esther Mendel, 28 years old, both of 124 Webster street. They were all treated for slight cuts, bruises and shock and returned to their homes.

University Club Hears Problems of Far East

Japanese and Chinese claims in Manchuria were outlined by Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, in speaking at a dinner of the Washington round table at the University Club last night.

Dr. H. E. Woolever gave a brief review of current events, which followed a musical program by Mrs. N. K. Gardner.

America Is Urged To Renew Religion

Southern States Secretary of Salvation Army Addresses Meeting.

A plea to help America return to religion and religious services was made to a group of 50 Salvation Army officers here yesterday by Col. Arthur Smeeton, chief secretary of the fifteen Southern States of the organization. Col. Smeeton has been a member of the Army for 45 years, and is considered one of its ablest executives.

At no time in the history of the Nation, said Col. Smeeton, is America in more need of faith in God and mankind than at the present time. The need for "joyful religion" at this time is imperative, he said, in urging the Army officials to put forth greater efforts in their work.

The meeting was held at Evangeline Hotel. Salvation Army unit, at 102 B street northwest.

Senators Confirm Naming of Mooney

Returned to Postmastership He Has Held Since 1923.

The Senate yesterday confirmed President Hoover's nomination of William M. Mooney to serve another term as postmaster of the District. The appointment was approved without debate, along with a long list of postmasters from various parts of the country.

Mr. Mooney has been postmaster here since 1923, succeeding Merritt O. Chance, postmaster under the Wilson administration.

A native of Steubenville, Ohio, he has been a resident of Washington since 1892.

FIVE DISTRICT BILLS PASSED BY SENATE

Newlands Memorial Fountain in Chevy Chase Provided in One.

Five District bills, one authorizing erection of a memorial fountain to the late Senator Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada, in Chevy Chase Circle, were passed without debate by the Senate yesterday.

The Newlands memorial, the gift of private donors, would be passed upon by the National Park and Planning Commission, which would authorize appropriate landscaping. Senator Newlands served in the Senate from 1903 to 1917.

The Senate further voted to extend the Commissioners' authority to settle claims to a $500 limit without specific legislation from Congress, and to give them authority to acquire condemned property in the District on filing a certificate of taking.

Two other bills approved by the Senate would exempt from taxation certain property of the National Society of the United States Daughters of 1812, and authorize Federal and District officials to interchange jurisdiction over property here for administrative purposes, subject to the approval of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Supervision Urged For Brokers Here

Bill Would Give Authority to Commissioners in Securities Deals.

All District real estate and securities brokers would be brought under supervision of the District Commissioners, under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Adolph J. Sabath (Democrat), Illinois.

The Commissioners could prohibit sale of stock where the issuing companies were not of sound financial standing. Where real estate notes were issued, a District agent would be designated to determine the value of real estate involved and prohibit marketing of securities based on more than 75 per cent of the property's value.

Licenses would be issued to agents and brokers only on proof of good repute, under the terms of the bill. Introducing the measure, Representative Sabath assailed real estate practices in Washington. A somewhat similar measure, to place control of the local securities situation in the hands of the Public Utilities Commission, has been introduced in the Senate by Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin.

Veteran Overcome By Gas in Kitchen

Wife Finds Employe of Telephone Company Semiconscious.

Ralph Morton Graham, 38 years old, employed in the directory department of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., was found in a semiconscious condition in the gas-filled kitchen of his apartment at 1915 Sixteenth street northwest shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The man was discovered by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Graham, when she returned home from work.

After first-aid treatment by the Fire Rescue Squad, Mr. Graham was removed to Emergency Hospital and then transferred to Gallinger Hospital. His condition is not believed to be serious.

Mrs. Graham told police that her husband was on the floor of the kitchen when she came in. The gas jets on the kitchen stove were not turned on, she said, but the room was filled with gas, and the door and windows of the kitchen had been stuffed with towels and cloths. She said her husband, a World War veteran, had been despondent for the last two or three weeks.

Temple Plans Reception In Honor of Dr. Simon

"Retrospect and Prospect" was the subject of Dr. Abram Simon's sermon at the Washington Hebrew Congregation last night.

Tomorrow will mark the twenty-eighth anniversary of Dr. Simon's occupancy of the pulpit at the Eighth street Temple. He will be honored at a reception in the vestry rooms after the services.

CHEST GIFTS SO FAR HELD INSUFFICIENT TO HELP SUFFERERS

Failure to Reach Goal of $2,601,000 Means Some Would Go Hungry.

EFFORTS TO OVERCOME DEFICIT WILL CONTINUE

Workers Renew Appeals for $214,829 Remaining to Be Contributed.

Stressing the relief needs during the winter, Community Chest officials continued yesterday their efforts to overcome the $214,829 deficit in the campaign goal of $2,601,000.

Indications of needs of the city show that the goal of the Chest is not sufficient, Elwood Street, director, said yesterday in speaking over station WOL on the regular "Community Chest Girl" hour.

Mr. Street was answering questions as to why the Chest had failed to reach its goal in the period set aside for the drive.

Popularity Increases.

Popularity of the Chest, he said, is shown by the receipt of more gifts than last year. Already there have been recorded as many as last year and this number will be augmented by a larger number to be reported Tuesday.

Answering a number of questions Mr. Street finally concluded that the real reason for the shortage which exists at present is that people fail to realize the nature of the need and its extent.

"We have to realize that need is not dependent upon the weather and that the beauties of the city may conceal a great deal of human suffering," he asserted.

Many Direct Pledges.

Many pledges are being made direct to the Community Chest at 223 Investment Building or at the Gridiron room, Willard Hotel, to help in eliminating its present campaign deficit.

Volunteers are covering all of Washington to obtain further pledges for final report next Tuesday.

New and additional pledges received yesterday follow: $5, Joe Aronson; $10, Miss Ada M. Barnett; $25, Mr and Mrs. Will C. Barnes; $5, Claude A. Bell; $10, J. F. Blackman; $5, Jacob Blumberg; $1, Miss Anne C. Brennan; $200, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Brown; $25, J. K. Caldwell; $20, Charles F. Calhoun, jr.; $10, Annie E. Callahan; $13, Mrs. Irving M. Cashell; $5, Carrie L. Cleaves; $1, Harry P. Cook; $10, Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Coppersmith; $20, Frances Cunan, Frank J Davidson 3d; $15, Charles E. Davis; $10, Erwin C. W. Davis; $5. W. L. Alleged Bootlegger To Get Jury Trial

Police Say They Trapped Tipton by Means of Hotel Room.

Walter E. Tipton, 41 years old, demanded a jury trial yesterday when he was given a preliminary hearing in Police Court on a charge of second offense possession and sale of liquor.

Tipton's bond was set at $1,000 and his trial was set for February 15. Police said they had laid an elaborate trap for Tipton, the scheme being the renting of a room in a hotel and the use of stationery secured from the hostelry as proof of their identity.

After making an alleged purchase from Tipton, the officers raided a place at 2001 Eleventh street northwest and seized a quantity of liquor, they said.

VIRGINIA AUTO BILL DEBATED BY OWNERS

Association Told Measure Would Work Hardship on Business.

A bill before the Virginia State Legislature requiring a Virginia registration for private automobiles and trucks belonging to any one gainfully employed in the State for 30 days during the year was discussed last night at the meeting of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Owners' Association of the District at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Jerome Fanciulli, executive secretary of the association, brought out the fact that this clause would compel Washington residents doing business in Virginia to have two sets of tags on their car, and that reciprocity measures would require residents of Virginia employed in the District to do the same.

Guest speakers, John W. Blood, of the Kansas Legislature, and Everett J. Arbour, chairman of the Board of Motor Truck Associations of Connecticut, stated that the public was taxing itself when it overtaxed the motor truck industry, because of the prominent position of trucking in commodity transportation.

Auto and Alleged Liquor Are Seized

Description Tallies With Car That Eluded Police Pursuer.

Charges of reckless driving, hit and run, possession of a smoke screen and possession of 328 quarts of whisky were placed against a man last night following an accident and a chase by a policeman off duty, at Fourteenth and F streets northeast.

The automobile of Frank Wells, of 301 R street northwest, was struck by another car at that intersection. The colliding car failed to stop. Sergt. R. O. Saunders, off duty and out riding with his children, gave chase. After a few blocks, the fleeing car turned on a smoke screen and Sergt. Saunders lost sight of it.

About half an hour later Private G. L. Saunders discovered a car in a downtown alley. He said it contained 328 quarts of liquor and Latimer Matthews, colored, 29 years old, of 1644 Florida avenue northwest. Police said that when Matthews and the car were taken to the First Precinct station it was discovered their description tallied with that of the man and car wanted in connection with the accident in the northeast section.

EXAMINER DECLARES ALEXANDRIA UTILITY SECURITIES JUGGLED

Holding Companies Shifted Stocks and Bonds, Trade Commission Told.

VIRGINIA FIRM'S SALE PROFIT HELD HIDDEN

Transactions Begun in 1926, Report Says; May Affect Investment Values.

The juggling of stocks and bonds of the Alexandria Light & Power Co. by two public utility holding companies, now controlled by the Samuel H. Insull interests, was revealed yesterday in a report by Examiner A. J. Hughes, to the Federal Trade Commission, in connection with its general public utilities investigation.

The transactions occurred almost six years ago, and though it is believed their uncovering will have no effect on the present rates of the Alexandria Light & Power Co., it may affect the value of the latter's securities.

Through transfers of the stocks and bonds of the Alexandria company and the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Co., now the Eastern Shore Public Service Co., the National Public Service Corporation and its subsidiary, the Municipal Public Service Co., acquired profits totaling $785,923.

Transactions Begun in 1926.

The transactions began in 1926, at which time both holding companies were controlled by A. E. Fitkin & Co., when the Municipal Public Service Co. traded the capital stock of the Alexandria company to the National Public Service Corporation for the capital stock of the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Co. by paying an additional $246,890. No profit was recorded, however, until September 30, 1927, when Municipal sold the Eastern Shore company to National Public Service for $1,303,000. At this time Municipal recorded a profit of $563,010 on the Alexandria sale and $33,100 on the Eastern Shore deal.

On March 26, 1926, Municipal sold to the National Public Service bonds of the Alexandria company, which it had acquired for $1,272,182, at a book value of $1,423,900, thereby making a profit of $151,718. On the same date National Public Service sold the bonds to the Virginia Public Service Co. for $1,495,095, making a profit of $71,195.

Alexandria Profit Concealed.

The examiner's report shows that Municipal paid only $460,000 originally for the Alexandria stocks, but when it sold to National Public Service it wrote on its books the 29,880 shares of Eastern Shore stock at $563,010 less than the value the latter had placed on them. Thus the profit on the Alexandria sale was concealed and the increased value was passed on to the Virginia Public Service Co.

The Insull interests acquired the National Public Service Corporation in 1928 through the National Electric Power Co., which is a subsidiary of the Middle West Utilities Co.

Bill Asks Elimination Of Abandoned Streets

The District Commissioners would be empowered to close up abandoned streets, "dead-end" thoroughfares and certain highways that have existence only on paper, under a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas.

Need for this legislation was stressed in a letter to Senator Capper from Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks. He pointed out there are a number of unopened streets and alleys in the District, acquired by dedication and condemnation, rendered useless by readjustments in the local street plan.

Hearing to Be Held On Home Raid Bill

Howell Seeks to Clothe Police With Revenue Agent Powers.

Hearings on Senator Robert B. Howell's "home raid" bill, which would give District police the powers of revenue agents and authorize issuance of warrants without evidence of liquor sales, will open before the Senate District committee Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Senator Howell will appear before the committee to explain the terms of his measure, and Rufus S. Lusk, representing the Crusaders, antidry organization, will be present to oppose a favorable report on the bill.

Opposition to the measure, which was debated in the last session of the Senate, centers around search and seizure provisions, which Senator Howell says have been modified. These are aimed principally at preventing bootleggers from using dwellings as places from which to make deliveries, he said.

Automobile and Liquor Captured; Man Accused

An automobile, said by police to contain 38 gallons of whisky, was captured yesterday by Privates H. A. Williams and G. B. Dean, of the Fourth Precinct, on First between I and K streets southwest.

They booked Charles Young, 32 years old, colored, of 1506 Ninth street southwest, on an illegal possession charge.

Daughter Saves Woman Felled by Escaping Gas

Quick action by her 11-year-old daughter yesterday probably saved the life of Mrs. Martha Haden 32 years old, of 3814 Thirteenth street northwest, from the effects of gas poisoning.

The girl, Ethel, found her mother overcome by gas on the floor of the kitchen of their home. Police were told that a single gas jet had been open had probably been turned on when Mrs. Haden passed and the jet handle caught on one oif her garments. After treatment at Casualty Hospital, Mrs. Haden returned to her home.
